REQUIEM SERVICE

For the Late Pope Leo in Catholic Churches

Impressive Mourning Draperies and Catafalque in Sanctuary Made Service Deeply Impressive —Eulogies Upon Pope Leo Delivered

In all the Catholic churches yesterday requiem masses were offered for the late Pope Leo and eulogies were delivered upon his life and labors.

AT NEW ST. PETER'S.

The rubrical ceremony was observed in every detail at St. Peter's church. The altar was surmounted by the papal colors. The catafalque, with head slightly raised, was in place within the railing.

Draped candles burned at both ends of the catafalque and the crucifix at the foot was towards the congregation. The catafalque was prepared by T. J. McDermott.

Solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. D. J. Heffernan, Rev. Francis Rogers, deacon; Rev. W. G. Mullin, sub-deacon; Thomas A. Ginty, master of ceremonies.

Schmidt's mass of requiem was sung by the choir of the church, under the direction of John Warburton. At the offertory "O Meritum Passionis" was sung by Mr. Warburton; and the "De Profundis" was sung by a mixed quartet, composed of Miss Mollie Ivers, soprano; Miss Regina Gerard, alto; James E. Donnelly, bass and John Warburton, tenor. After the mass the "Libera" was sung by the choir, with solos by Mr. Warburton. During the mass another "De Profundis" was sung by the Mozart quartet, Mrs. Josephine W. McKennedy was the organist.

The eulogy on Pope Leo was preached by Rev. W. H. Grant. He took his text from the 29th chapter of the book of Job: "The ear that heard me, blessed me: the eye that saw me gave witness to me, because I had delivered the poor man, that cried out and the fatherless that had no helper. . . I was an eye to the blind and a foot to the lame and the cause which I knew not I searched out most diligently." The preacher, after reviewing the significance of the words above quoted, said in part:

"Happy is the minister of God, who, when his course is run, can truthfully repeat those words." The speaker referred briefly to the universality of the law of death and continuing, said:

"During the past week Almighty God in His divine Providence has been pleased to call from our midst unto Himself our venerable pontiff-ruler of the spiritual world, after he had spanned almost a century upon this earth.

"And we, his spiritual children, are gathered here today about this altar of sacrifice, to give public expression, by a supreme act of religion to our belief in Jesus Christ—the Incarnate Word and Redeemer of mankind and to take courage from the fact that in a critical period like that of the last quarter of a century, almost without a parallel in human history, a leader like Leo XIII had been placed over us.

"Joachim Pecci was born of noble parentage on March 2, 1810. Even in his youth he was a leader, seemingly absorbing the good out of all his surroundings and dominating situations in which he was placed. Schooled with the Jesuits, and at the Roman college, he was easily a leader in the race of intellect, and at the remarkable age of 22 won the doctor's cap in theology. A priest in 1837, civil governor, papal nuncio at Brussels, archbishop of Perugia, cardinal and finally pope. He always busied himself with every care of office and took advantage of his many-sided opportunities to study closely and sympathetically the religions, and the political and industrial problems of modern life, so that when in the chair of Peter he might give to the world those burning subjects that had been for years in his thoughts and under his pen.

"Of the 263 popes who have sat in the chair of St. Peter, few have exerted a wider and more beneficial influence upon the whole civilized world. He was a perfect statesman and an enlightened churchman. He had an eagle eye for every movement and a willing hand for every good endeavor.

"In the industrial order he always pleaded eloquently and strongly in behalf of the rights of labor, whether individually or as a class.

"His letter on the 'Condition of the Workingman' (1893) is an exhaustive document on the rights and duties of the laborer. He showed the world that it conferred an everlasting blessing and benefit on humanity by ennobling and sanctifying manual labor.

"To Leo XIII the civilized world owes a debt of gratitude for his stand against socialism and his vigorous protests against all forms of organization that threatened to undermine society.

"In his letter on 'Christian Marriage' (1880) he vindicated in strong and earnest terms the unity and sanctity of the marriage bond, while at the same time denouncing the ravages made by divorce. The married couple are the source of the family and the family the source of society—and if society is to be maintained in its purity and integrity it must be sanctified in the fountain head of the home.

"In the sphere of education Leo XIII was also an inspiration. He threw open the immense vatican libraries to students of every creed and nation. Re founded schools, colleges and universities in Europe and in our own country—the Catholic university at Washington—the crowning work of his pontificate, in the movement of Catholic education in our country.

"And yet, in the midst of all the national and international problems of his pontificate, we must remember that he was no stranger to pain. His consecration of mankind to the Sacred Heart in 1899 showed his love for the Divine Word of God, while his yearly October letters breathed a simple devotion to her who was ever his queen and mother. A study of his life as a boy in the Volscian hill under the guidance of his saintly mother, a study of his life as a priest, a bishop, a cardinal and, above all as pope, will convince the world that in addition to being a scholar, pope, a statesman and a diplomat, Leo XIII was, in truth, a man of God.

"His memory will never die. Future generations will class him with such pontiffs as Leo the Great, Gregory VII and Benedict XIV. The future will regard Leo as one of the greatest pontiffs in whose massive intellect all things and events seemed to find their proper place and to fall into their proper proportions—as a pope of peace—who preached peace to the individual, the family, the state and nation, and who sought to bring about a reconciliation of all Christendom.

"The very rehearsal of his life is sufficient. No further words of mine are necessary to draw its moral. May God take unto Himself, if He has not already done so, this noble old shepherd of the Christian world—and deal him back into the eternal sheepfold of the blessed in Heaven.

"Eternal rest give unto thy servant Leo, O Lord,
And let perpetual light shine upon him."

IMMACULATE CONCEPTION.

Very impressive and solemn were the services held at the Immaculate Conception church yesterday morning for the repose of the soul of the late Pope Leo XIII. The outside of the church had been profusely draped in purple, the royal mourning color, and purple was the prevailing color in the interior of the edifice. In the rear of the main altar was a broad strip of purple with white fringe, and the altar rail was completely hidden by purple. The pulpit was also veiled in a purple canopy.

The rubrical ceremony was carried

BOLD BURGLARY

Thieves Robbed the Holden Residence in Billerica

Took Quantity of Silverware—Gave Paris Green to a Bull Dog—Constable Conway Hot on the Trail

The residence of Joshua B. Holden, Jr., in Billerica Centre, was broken into Saturday night and robbed of a quantity of silverware. In order to put a quietus on a bull dog the burglars gave him to eat meat studded with paris green, and the fact that they gave the dog an overdose saved his life. He remained quiet, however, while the thieves were operating.

The silverware was taken from the dining room and the living rooms on the first floor were ransacked. Mr. and Mrs. Held a were sleeping up stairs and the servants were in the rear of the building. Mrs. Holden thought she heard a noise down stairs and tried to arouse her husband, but he listened awhile, heard nothing and went to sleep again.

The break was not discovered until Sunday morning. When Mr. Holden came down stairs he found the floor in the dining room strewn with a little of everything in the house. He notified the town officer, Martin Conway, Jr., and the latter set about to ferret out the perpetrators of the bold robbery. A lantern taken from the street railway line, where laborers had been working, was used in the break.

He made a thorough examination of the premises and found that a window on the north side of the house had been broken and that the burglars had gone in through the window. Mr. Conway also found an auger on the veranda on the front of the house and he believes that the burglars intended to bore around the lock of the door and take it out in its entirety. He thinks the burglars were old hands at the business.

The following articles were stolen: Six solid silver candlesticks, two plated silver candlesticks, two tall solid silver vases, one large Sheffield plated tray, one large Dresden china tray, 1 solid silver card receiver, two solid silver picture frames, one Sheffield plated covered vegetable dish, two Sheffield plated platters, one solid silver carter or bon dish, one mackintosh coat.

BOY DROWNED

Lost His Life While Bathing in River

Patrick J. Boland, the eleven year old son of Edward and Catherine Boland of 9 Sullivan's court, off Fenwick street, lost his life while bathing in the Merrimack river in the vicinity of Aiken street bridge yesterday afternoon. The accident occurred about five o'clock.

The boys had been swimming but a short time when the little boy was seized with cramps and being youngsters nothing could be done to assist the drowning lad.

Help was summoned but it arrived too late, as the little fellow had gone down for the last time before the older people arrived on the scene. Undertaker Molloy was notified soon after the drowning and his men were soon on the scene with grappling irons. After a search of more than an hour the body was found only a few feet from the point at which it was seen to go down.

It was removed to the warerooms of Undertaker Molloy and later to the home of the boy's parents.

GODDU INQUEST

Judge Hadley Will Hold Private One

Out of respect for the feelings of the Goddu family, Judge Hadley has decided that the inquest into the death of Georgiana Goddu shall be a private one.

Judge Hadley feels that the family has already had enough to bear and while there is no necessity of the inquest being a private one, inasmuch as the party charged with the crime is dead, yet the judge feels that it would be wrong to further unnecessarily wound the sensibilities of a family so sorely afflicted. The inquest will open in police court at 2:30 this afternoon.

PANIC IN PANAMA

By Associated Press to The Sun

PANAMA, Columbia, July 27.—Not since the days of the last revolution, when an attack upon the city by the Liberals was feared, has there been such a panic in Panama as occurred Saturday night. Shortly after 9 o'clock the officers of El Lapiz, the organ of the Liberal party on the Isthmus, was visited by some officers of the general staff of the army who destroyed Saturday's edition of the newspaper.

One of the directors was slightly wounded but managed to escape.

The news spread rapidly and in the Santa Anas neighborhood where most of the Liberals reside, sentiment rose to a high pitch and a few of the prominent people counselled retaliation. They took no action, however. The next event came like a bombshell. A company of soldiers, apparently under the orders of Gen. Vasquez Cobos, commander of the national forces, surrounded the residence of Governor Mutis but the governor and his wife, who is an American lady, having been warned a few minutes before the arrival of the troops, succeeded in escaping.

RUBBISH FIRE.

A still alarm at 7:20 o'clock Saturday night was for a fire in an ashbarrel in the rear of the property owned by A. G. Thompson on Chestnut street. Several of the members of Engine 4 in High street responded to the alarm.

DREW REVOLVERS

Burglars at East Chelmsford Were Desperate

Threatened to Shoot Constable Mooney—Broke and Entered Residence of Robert Barris

Burglars who entered Robert Barris' home in East Chelmsford last night, ransacking it from cellar to attic, pulled revolvers on Constable Thomas C. Mooney, who attempted to prevent them from getting away in a team.

The police believe that the burglars who robbed Mr. Barris' house also entered the Holden residence in North Billerica. They gained entrance to the Barris' house by means of a ladder leading to a shed roof. From the roof they forced an entrance through a window to a bed room on the second floor.

There was no one in the house at the time that the burglars operated. Mr. and Mrs. Barris and family, with the exception of one son, are at Salisbury beach. The boy who did not accompany the family to the beach was camping out with some other boys on the banks of the Concord.

He arrived home last evening about 10:45 and upon opening the door was confronted with a state of affairs that left no doubt in his mind as to what had happened in his absence. The floors up and down stairs were strewn with the contents of drawers and cupboards and the house was a wreck from top to bottom.

The young Barris boy notified Constable Mooney and he in company with Mr. Brown and others of the neighbors started to investigate. In the course of his prowling in search of a clue the constable came upon a horse and covered buggy standing in the road a few yards from the house.

There was one man in the buggy when the constable first saw the team but before he got to the team another man jumped into the buggy and both occupants of the vehicle pulled revolvers and told the constable to stand back unless he wanted to get filled with lead.

The constable made a grab for the horse's bridle, but the driver was too quick for him and raising the whip he struck the horse. The constable was knocked down and one wheel of the carriage went over him. The carriage went in the direction of Billerica. Constable Mooney communicated with the various stable keepers in Lowell but could not learn that a team, such as he described, had been let Sunday evening. Mr. Mooney went to Billerica this morning and consulted with Chief of Police Conway of that place. Both officers are of the opinion that the same burglars operated in Billerica and East Chelmsford.

The Barris boy could not tell how much spoil the burglars succeeded in getting away with and Constable Mooney telegraphed to Salisbury beach to Mr. Barris asking him to come to East Chelmsford at once.

BUSY TROOPERS

Cavalry Men Shoot in Two Matches

WON THE SHORT RANGE COMPETITION

But Lost at 500 Yards Target

At the North Chelmsford shooting range Saturday, the military men of Lowell and Chelmsford held forth and Troop F defeated Co. G at the 200-yard targets but lost to Co. C at 500 yards.

As only eight of the ten men of the cavalry team reported at the range, the contest between the troop and Co. G was made an eight man match, and in the Troop's contest against Co. C, the two absent men were allowed each the team average, thus making a ten man match.

Troop F cavalry made 312, and Co. G made 280 at 200 yards.

Troop F cavalry, made 342 and Co. C made 380 at 500 yards.

The Lowell Military Rifle association, consisting of the three local military companies will hold a meeting at the armory this evening to plan for a tournament of shooting for the remainder of the summer and fall. Captain McNulty will preside.

Lieut. Gardner Pearson will take the Phalanx team to South Framingham next Saturday, to shoot against Capt. Damon's team of Co. E, 9th regiment as a return match of the shoot held at the Deacon range with C, July 11th when the Phalanx team defeated the South Framingham boys.

CLAIM OF FRAUD

Insurance Company Will Fight the Thayer Case

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 25—The sudden death of Edwin M. Thayer, well known in insurance and mining circles, at the Hotel Lenox, in the early morning of Friday, May 1, has prompted an investigation into the cause of death and the previous life of the young man that has laid bare circumstances which will form the nucleus to a most remarkable and sensational story.

Owing to the great pecuniary interests at stake the insurance companies have left no stone unturned in their search for information that will have a tendency at least to invalidate the numerous policies issued on the life of Thayer.

Not only will the cause of death as given by the medical examiner who made the autopsy on the body be strongly attacked, with a view to showing that the conclusion stated was erroneous, but it is understood that the main defence to be set up by the companies will be that of fraud.

This latest phase of the case, which has just become known, promises to yield a condition of things that will render the trial of the case or cases as interesting as any that have been held in this state in many years.

Eminent counsel has been retained by the widow of the young man and the insurance companies, M. O. Adams and George W. Anderson representing the former, and Sherman L. Whipple as senior ocunsel for the defendants.

At present suit has been brought by the widow on one policy only, and that is the smallest of the many issued on the life of her husband. It is against the John Hancock insurance company and is based on a policy for $15,000.

An arrangement could be entered into between the widow and the companies whereby both sides would agree to abide the result of the pending suit, but it seems probable from the attitude of the companies that action will have to be brought on many policies, the companies being determined to contest the issue vigorously in view of the fact that they entertain the notion, which they feel that circumstances warrant, that they had been made the victims of a stupendous scheme to defraud them by the young man who came to his death while under a charge of embezzlement and under the surveillance of a constable representing parties in a civil cause.

WHAT DEFENDANTS CLAIM.

It is said that the defendants will attempt to establish that the young man conceived a plan to defraud them under which he or his heirs would benefit, but they feel confident from the information alleged to be in their possession that he did not contemplate the benefit to his widow at first, but rather intended to share the thousands himself.

Just how his plan was arranged is a subject that theorists in an effort to reach a conclusion respecting it stand on an equal footing, for there is nothing tangible in the evidence gleaned that will afford an inkling as to the means to be employed in effecting a consummation of the scheme.

There is no doubt in the minds of the representatives of the companies that the young man did not intend to kill himself in order to have the concerns pay the policies, but they are of opinion that he purposed to bring about a condition of affairs that would render the companies liable to meet their obligations accruing from the policies.

It is suggested by one man concerned in the case that possibly the young man intended to disappear mysteriously, as if swallowed by the earth, so to speak, and suffer the report to go broadcast respecting his death, in which event the companies might pay the amounts due.

In order to carry out such a plan he must have been in collusion with some one, and the companies assert that they have the evidence to establish the identity of the confederate, who, they assert, is a woman—not, however, the widow.

CONVICTS SHOT

Revolt in the Mines in Georgia

By Associated Press to The Sun

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., July 26.—A revolt of the convicts in the mines of the Georgia Iron and Coal company at Cole City, Ga., occurred last evening at the time for changing the day and night shifts. Two convicts have been shot and probably fatally wounded. One hundred and twenty-five convicts of the day shift have barricaded themselves in the mines and refuse to come out defying the officers and threatening death to any one who approaches.

The trouble rose over the punishment of a convict for an infraction of the rules. The day men refused to come out of the mine when the hour arrived to change shifts.

Those in the front ranks hurled missiles at the guards and the latter fired, wounding two convicts fatally. The others then fled further into the mine and defied the guards to follow. Preparations are being made to starve them out.

TRIED SUICIDE

Roxbury Man Gashed His Throat

By Associated Press to The Sun.

GARDINER, Me., July 25.—An unsuccessful attempt at suicide was made at the police station this noon by L. T. Gore, a shoemaker, who gave his home as 12 Cedar street, Roxbury, Mass.

Yesterday morning he accosted City Marshal Andrews on the street and asked that he might be locked up at the station. The marshal, thinking the man was on the verge of delirium tremens, granted his request, at the same time summoning a physician.

Shortly before 1 o'clock people who were passing the station heard cries and a pounding within and notified the police, who, upon entering the place, discovered Gore in his cell, covered with blood, which was streaming from an ugly cut on the right side of his neck. It was found that he had also made four other cuts about his throat and neck, which had been done with a small shoe knife which he had concealed about his person when locked in the cell. The gash on the right side of the throat is about two inches in length and an inch and a half deep. When asked why he did the deed, he said, "Men were chasing me with axes to kill me, and I thought I'd fool 'em."

During his delirium he demolished the upper bunk in his cell and knocked a large hole through the brick wall. The attending physician says his condition is not serious.

HE CREATED LIFE

Claim Made by Dr. Littlefield

NOT DETERMINED WHETHER GERMS WILL PROPAGATE

Ninety Minutes Consumed in Operation

By Associated Press to The Sun

ANDERSON, Ind., July 25—With one ounce of common salt, six ounces of pure water, six ounces of 90 per cent. alcohol all mixed in a glass dish, and two ounces of aqua ammonia distributed in five small plates and all covered by an air tight glass tube, Dr. Charles W. Littlefield, of Anderson, Ind., declares that he has created life in the form of thousands of atoms or animated subjects similar to well developed germs of life and trilobites. According to Dr. Littlefield, only ninety minutes were consumed while the crystals were impregnated with the hydrogen and volatile magnetism of the chemical solution and transformed into living forms that immediately sought nourishment through mediums that Dr. Littlefield termed feeders, lacking a technical name. Microscopic examination showed that crystals not affected by the chemical mixture retain their original cubic or square form, while the magnetized crystals were of hexagon shape, with life first appearing in the center and spreading until the crystal was round and finally of globular shape. A mass of life substance possessed magnetism of pronounced degree, radiating a power that separate the crystals and then draw them together again.

It has not been determined what the germs or atoms will propagate. Dr. Littlefield says he repeated his experiments several times, all with practically the same successful results.

CARVING KNIFE

USED BY MAN WHO TRIED TO REMOVE CORN.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 25.—A hammer and a carving knife were the instruments with which Joseph Norris attempted to remove a troublesome corn last night, and although he did remove part of the corn, he nearly took the toe with it.

Mr. Norris is 70 years old, and lives at 30 Dunlow street, Roxbury. For some time past the corn has been a source of great annoyance to him, and last night he announced his determination to get rid of it altogether. He got the carving knife and the hammer and went to his room to perform the operation. A few moments later the occupants of the house found him bleeding profusely from a severe wound of the toe.

In his efforts to remove the corn, he drove the knife deep into his foot, making a long, painful gash. He was carried to the City hospital in the ambulance from station 10.

FIGHT IN COURT

FATHER OF GIRL ATTACKED MAN SHE ACCUSED.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 25.—There was a lively fight in the West Side police court yesterday when John Roberts, a bookkeeper, was arraigned on the complaint of Laurena Sutton, 19, who lives with her parents at 875 8th avenue.

Miss Sutton, a modest and attractive girl, was present as a witness. Her father, Frederick Sutton, sat without the rail among the spectators while she testified. As the prisoner was about to leave the bridge Mr. Sutton made a rush for him. He forced his way past the policeman on guard and dealt Roberts a blow in the face that staggered him.

Roberts retaliated, and half a dozen blows were exchanged before the court officers could separate the combatants. Roberts' mouth was bleeding and both his eyes were discolored. Magistrate Hogan held the prisoner in $1000 bail and sent him to a cell. He excused Sutton.

AGAINST FAXON

Case Decided in the Quincy Court

YOUNG LAWYER NETTLED COLD WATER ADVOCATE

Suit for $50,000 Still Pending

By Associated Press to The Sun

QUINCY, July 25.—At the conclusion of a two days' trial of the case of C. L. Prescott vs. Henry H. Faxon, in the civil session of the district court yesterday afternoon, Judge Cook found a verdict of $16.20 for Mr. Prescott. In addition to this, Mr. Faxon will have to pay the costs of the court.

The case has attracted attention throughout the city as it was an echo of Mr. Faxon's long fight against Mayor Bryant and the board of health. Mr. Prescott was, up to a few months ago, city scavenger. Under Mayor Bryant's administration Mr. Faxon was not allowed to act as his own scavenger as had been the custom in other years. Soon after that Mr. Faxon began to complain that the city scavenger was not attending to his work in a proper way and was charging exorbitant prices for the work done. In attacking Mr. Prescott, Mr. Faxon also scored the board of health and Mayor Bryant, at the last city election, for keeping Mr. Prescott in office.

During the height of the controversy Mr. Faxon was sued for $50,000 for libel by Mr. Prescott. The case has not yet been tried. The case decided yesterday was for a bill of $21.50 which Mr. Prescott claimed Mr. Faxon owed him for work done in cleaning cesspools on the latter's premises. Mr. Faxon claimed that the work was not done in a satisfactory manner.

On both days the court room was crowded and there was plenty of fun when Mr. Faxon took the stand in his own behalf. Mr. Prescott's interests were represented by Edward J. Parker, a young lawyer of this city, who gave Mr. Faxon one of the most uncomfortable experiences that the cold water champion ever had to face.

Mr. Parker was a stickler for keeping the principal witness down to facts that came under his own personal knowledge, and in many cases Mr. Faxon was obliged to admit that some of the statements made by him were told to him by his employes. All such answers were objected to by Mr. Parker and were ruled out. At times Mr. Parker's questions came with such an apparent perplexing rapidity that Mr. Faxon would start in to upbraid the young counsel for daring to be so bold.

Mr. Parker, never losing temper, paid no attention to Mr. Faxon's dissertations, but renewed the attack again and again. Finally Mr. Faxon, who is patient under trying conditions, became nettled and turning to Judge Cook said:

"Your honor, am I obliged to stand here and answer every kind of a foolish and nonsensical question that this lawyer wants to put to me? I appeal to your honor."

Judge Cook replied: "I don't see but that you'll have to answer the questions of counsel, if you can do so, and if you will try to answer them briefly without going into long explanations I think we'll get through with this case much more quickly."

After the verdict had been rendered Mr. Faxon said he was satisfied, because as he put it, the difference between the amount sued for and the amount awarded represented the cost of cleaning three cesspools which, he claimed, were not cleaned by the scavenger.

And thus, after the manner of bloodless French duels, the honor of both sides is satisfied.

TICKET AGENTS

Learn How Shortage Came About

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW HAVEN, Ct., July 25.—Officials of the New York, New Haven & Hartford road here were informed last night of a trick worked by a couple of thieves who are held at Bridgeport for burglary, at the Greenwich depot this week, that throws a lot of light on a number of mysterious shortages in the accounts of the ticket agents of the system from New York to Boston.

On Tuesday night, two men, giving the names of Arthur Martin and Frank Stand, were nabbed while entering the Greenwich station. On being brought before the town court the prisoners were found guilty of burglary and bound over to the September term of the superior court in Bridgeport.

At the conclusion of the hearing, Martin, who asserts that he is but 20 years of age, and Stand, a hunchback of about 50, were placed in the Bridgeport jail.

To Sheriff Ritch of Greenwich they divulged the method of robbing the ticket agents in a manner which would not permit of their being able to discover the loss until the expiration of several weeks' time, and therefore be unable to account for the deficiency in their returns.

That they are a clever pair is apparent from the method adopted to carry on the work. In the first place, they have entered stations by means of picking locks and left no trace whatever of the manner in which admission was gained and this, of itself, was sufficient to baffle the ticket agents, who were wholly unable to comprehend why there should be a shortage in their accounts.

Martin and Stand assert that they did not expect to find much money in the stations and generally took long distance tickets. They were aware of the fact that the day agents generally place a blue pencil check on the top ticket of each pile at the close of the day's business, and if the ticket so marked remained, the bunch was counted intact. The thieves, would, therefore, remove tickets from the centre of the pile, make use of the dating stamp and dispose of their ill-gotten plunder days before the loss was discovered.

Judge Hadley Objected to Lawyer Donahue's Words

Latter Was Counsel for Ex-Alderman Demarais in Liquor Case—Spoke of Political Influence and Government's Recommendations in One Breath—Intimated That a $75 Fine Was Too Much

The case of ex-Alderman Philip Demaris, charged with illegally keeping liquor, at 59 Cabot street, occupied Judge Hadley's time in police court today. D. J. Donahue appeared for the defendant.

Judge Hadley, after a long summing up in which he took occasion to suggest to the officers that they should read certain sections of the law relative to their right to search with or without warrants, found Demarais guilty and imposed a fine of $75. He appealed and was ordered in $300 for the superior court.

Mr. Donahue and the court had quite a tilt over the matter.

"I was not aware," said Mr. Donahue, "that because a man charged with keeping liquor tried his case an extra fine fell upon him. The majority of the fines in this court for illegal keeping have been of the $50 order.

"I presume that if Mr. Demarais had political influence at his elbow the government would have recommended a minimum fine."

"What do you mean?" thundered the court. "I am not subject to any political influence."

"I said, your honor," retorted Mr. Donahue, with added force, "that if Mr. Demarais had political influence at his elbow the government would have recommended a minimum fine. I know what I'm talking about and I can cite cases if necessary."

Judge Hadley waxed indignant and told Mr. Donahue that he did not like such insinuations and again assured him that the court was beyond the pale of political influence.

"I impose fines according to my own judgment. You must not forget that $300 is the maximum fine."

Mr. Donahue was about to make reply, but the court interrupted him by calling to the clerk to impose the fine.

Mr. Donahue in his argument attacked Officer Brown, stigmatizing him as a reluctant witness. Altogether the case was quite a breezy one.

OFFICERS TESTIFY.

Liquor Officer Brown was the first witness. He located the premises and told of visits made by him. "On July 9," he said, "I visited the defendant's place, 59 Cabot street. I found a man drinking in the place and the man's coat pockets behind the bar were bulging with bottles.

"I took the glass that I saw the man drink from and smelled of it. It smelled strongly of liquor. While I was holding the glass in my hand and telephoning to the police station the defendant poured tonic from a bottle over my shoulder in order to spoil the evidence."

On cross-examination Officer Brown said he did not speak to the man who drank from the glass and did not ascertain his name.

Mr. Brown was disposed to answer Mr. Donahue's questions reluctantly and the court was annoyed with the snail like pace that the case assumed. He gave Mr. Brown to understand that truth is always uppermost in a man's mind and that there was no need for him to hesitate in answering Mr. Donahue's questions.

Mr. Brown said he did not have any search warrant for Demarias' place, but that the place was an open speakeasy. He and the other liquor officers, he said, visited the cellar but did not find anything there.

Mr. Brown denied that he had ever threatened to make a case against Mr. Demarais, but admitted that he might have suggested something of the kind.

He had no particular grievance with Mr. Demarais, he said and he intended to use him as he used all others suspected of selling liquor.

Liquor Officer Duncan told of his participation in the raid. He corroborated, in substance, what Officer Brown said. Neither Mr. Duncan nor Mr. Brown saw any money given in exchange for liquor.

Liquor Officer Atkinson said that he smelled of two glasses behind the bar and that they had the odor of whiskey.

There were several men in the place at the time and one man came in and asked Mr. Demarais for whiskey. He said that when he visited the premises he found Frank Ducharme standing at the door. Mr. Atkinson's visit was made on the evening of May 23.

Inspector Walsh visited the premises in company with Officer Atkinson and told the court of his observations as did Officer Corcoran, who visited the premises on four or five different occasions.

The defence did not offer any evidence and Mr. Donahue argued from the evidence submitted by the government.

Mr. Donahue attacked Mr. Brown. He said that the court had to depend upon Mr. Brown's smell to convict the defendant and that if his smell wasn't any better than his memory he didn't see how the court could accept it as the gospel truth.

"He is a reluctant witness," your honor," said Mr. Donahue.

"His memory is poor and even the court, your honor, after telling him to answer my questions, was unable to extract a straight answer from him. He was a reluctant witness and so desirous of convincing the defendant that he buried the truth.

OTHER CASES.

John Tracey, charged with keeping liquor, was fined $75.

John A. Seton, for non-support of his wife, was ordered in $200 for his appearance before the court on Thursday morning.

Patrick McCarthy, the only drunken offender in the cage, was fined $5.

A BUSY HOUR

Spent by Mayor Howe at City Hall

Mayor Howe returned to City hall at 9 o'clock this morning and went away again shortly after 10 o'clock.

His Honor is looking finely after his trip to the Maine woods and was in good spirits. Immediately upon his arrival he attacked the big grist of official business on the desk and had little time for conversation during his brief stay in his office.

In relation to the tar macadam order His Honor said: "The order or resolution has not yet reached this office and just as soon as it does I will give it my immediate consideration and it will not be long before the public knows the result as far as this office is concerned."

That may or may not mean a veto. Mayor Howe's closest friend at City hall is Supt. of Streets Beals and this order interests the street department of which Beals is the head. It is quite probable that Mr. Beals' advice will be taken on the matter and will have considerable weight with the mayor. Mr. Beals is said to prefer asphalt to tar macadam.

Meanwhile the councilmen and ex-councilmen who advocate this new kind of paving made their daily visit to city hall today and hung around all morning, awaiting an opportunity to advance their cause before the chief executive. The macadam order is at present in City Clerk Dadman's office, having been sent there yesterday by Clerk Dowling of the common council. When the city clerk finishes with it, he, in turn, will send it to the mayor's office and then 10 days of grace will begin at the time when the order makes its first appearance in the mayor's office. The promoters of tar macadam are confident that they will have a sufficient number of votes to pass the order over the mayor's veto.

In relation to the order for the purchase of the Ennell street site, Mayor Howe is in an uncomfortable position. Lawyer Murphy and some of the Centralville citizens are after the mayor to veto the Boisvert land order while a petition bearing the names of 250 French-Canadian citizens residing in the vicinity of the Boisvert lot has been sent to city hall, praying that the lot be purchased.

A PICNIC DAY

Carpet Co. Employes at Revere Beach

BREWERY WORKERS HAVING A JOLLY TIME

Several Church Picnics Were Held

The winders, spoolers and setters of the Bigelow Carpet company are enjoying an outing at Revere beach today. The company was kind enough to allow the operatives to have the morning off, and three cars, every seat being filled with people, left Paige street at 7.15 o'clock bound for the beach.

All the way down songs were sung and a good time enjoyed. Upon arriving at the beach the party went off in groups, some going in bathing, while others took in the different amusements on the beach. At noon a fine shore dinner was enjoyed.

The party will leave the beach about 7 o'clock tonight and enjoy a cool trolley ride to the city. The party is in charge of Overseer James F. Walker.

BREWERY EMPLOYES.

The employes of the Harvard Brewing company are holding an outing at Mountain Rock today. The management of the brewery informed the employes that they could quit work at 9 o'clock this morning and at the appointed time the men left their places.

At 11 o'clock they gathered at the corner of Plain and Chelmsford streets, where two large cars and a band were waiting for them. When all got aboard the cars started for the grove and on the way out choice music was rendered by the band.

Upon arriving at the grounds a fine list of sports was run off. Many of the picnickers enjoyed swimming and boating, while others spent a good portion of the time enjoying a rest under the shady trees.

During the day refreshments were served and the party will return to this city early this evening.

AT STEARN'S GROVE.

The members of the First Primitive Methodist church in Gorham street are holding a picnic at Stearn's grove in Chelmsford today. The party under the direction of Rev. Mr. Matthews, pastor of the church, left the church this morning at 8.15 o'clock and were taken to the picnic grounds on three large cars.

Games and different forms of amusement were enjoyed and refreshments were served. They will return home this afternoon.

CHURCH PICNIC.

Two cars filled with members of the Berean Primitive Methodist church went to Silver Lake at 1.30 o'clock this afternoon, where a picnic is being enjoyed. The party was a very jolly one and will make the return trip early in the evening.

CHILDREN'S OUTING.

The children of the Children's Home in Kirk street, conducted by Miss Ellen O'Leary, enjoyed a fine picnic yesterday at Mountain Rock grove. There were thirty-two children in the party and they were in charge of Miss O'Leary and two of her assistants.

A car was taken at the square at 8.30 o'clock in the morning and upon the arrival at the grounds the little ones were given the freedom of the grounds and while some played games and other kinds of amusement, the swings attracted the attention of many.

A fine luncheon was served at noon and the return trip was made to this city at 3.30 o'clock.

MILLER REPORTS

BOOKBINDERS WILL NOT ACT FOR FORTY DAYS.

By Associated Press to The Sun

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Although failing to appear at the beginning of office hours, Miller reported for duty about ten o'clock this morning and was assigned to duty. He remained only a few minutes and left after explaining that Saturday was a short day and he would wait until Monday for further work. The union officials announced today that there would be no action on their part for 30 days, during which they expected that a national arbitration council will meet tomorrow to discuss the situation.

The union officials today called on Secretary Cortelyou and Public Printer Palmer and left with them a statement regarding what was done at the meeting of the bookbinders last night.

WALL STREET ANXIOUS.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 25.—Wall Street began business today with much anxiety. Yesterday's two failures and fears of more to come had worked the streets up to a high nervous tension. Brokers and their clerks worked until late last night and in some instances all night, issuing calls to their customers for additional margins. The attendance on the floor of the exchange was unusually large for a midsummer Saturday.

Prices for Americans in London were generally better and helped to impart steadiness to the local market at the opening, but gains here were not up to those made in London. Orders to buy the standard railroad stocks were well distributed, so called brokers taking blocks of New York Central. Almost every commission house had orders to buy at declines. The representative of a leading western house was reported to have purchased moderately of the Grangers.

There was also buying of an investment character. The list steadied off by the end of the first half hour.

WALL STREET, 10.30 a. m.—The stock market opened feverish and irregular this morning. Many of the standard railroad stocks opened higher but were inclined to react on secondary quotations. A block of 2000 shares of Rubber Goods sold at 12, a drop of 6 3-4 which was followed by another sale of 5000 shares at the same price and the preferred dropped 10. Four thousand shares of Mexican Central sold at an advance of 3-4 and the first income bonds rose 1 3-4 but the second incomes dropped 33-8. United States Steel opened wide 1100 shares selling at 23 1-4 and 23 1-2 compared with 23 1-2 last night and 800 shares of the preferred sold from 70 to 70 1-2 compared with 69 7-8 last night. Canadian Pacific and Erie second preferred were off 1 1-4. Chicago and Alton and St. Louis and San Francisco second rose a point and Consolidated Gas 2. The changes in the general list were fractional and greatly mixed.

11 A. M.—Dealings in the market were confused and prices of some specialties moved wildly. Leading stocks run off sharply from their opening prices but they did not get near the lowest except in Southern Pacific, which broke to 40. U. S. Rubber preferred dropped 8 and the common 1 1-2, following the slump in the rubber goods stocks.

There were declines of 23 1-2 in Chicago and eastern Illinois preferred, 13 5-8 in North American, 10 in American Coal, 9 in Pitts. C. C. and St. Louis, 6 3-4 in Baltimore and Ohio preferred 5 in Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburg, 4 3-4 in American Linseed, 4 1-2 in United Railway Investment stocks, 4 in Des Moines and Fort Dodge, 3 3-4 in C. C. C. and St. Louis and 1 to 2 1-2 in St. Paul, Atchison, Union, Pacific, Southern Pacific, Canadian Pacific, Erie, the first preferred, Toledo, St. Louis and Western preferred, Amalgamated, Smelting, Brooklyn Transit, Pacific Mail and Sloss-Sheffield Steel. Among the gains of importance were Anaconda 5 1-4, Rock Island preferred, Smelting preferred and Virginia Carolina Chemical preferred 2 and Denver and Rio Grande, Kansas and Texas preferred, Iowa Central preferred, Atchison preferred, New York, Chicago and St. Louis, American Car, Cotton, Oil and Ice preferred 1 to 1 1-4. Sugar spurted to 115 at 11 o'clock and the active list rallied. Baltimore and Ohio preferred recovered 2 1-4.

Close—The active list made an effective rally before the appearance of the bank statement, the level recovering generally to last night. Gains of 1 and 2 were established for New York Central, Reading, Northwestern, Alton, Colorado and Southern and Realty preferred. The weak stocks made some substantial rallies. The features of the market continued to be the violent declines in specialties which were supposed to result from sales of collateral for loans of the firms which failed yesterday or others upon which pressure was exerted. Des Moines and Fort Dodge slumped 20. Railway Investment preferred 12½, with a rally of 3. United States Rubber preferred 14, Rubber Goods preferred 12. P. C. C. and St. Louis 11, Evansville and Terre Haute 9½. Minneapolis and St. Louis 8, Linseed preferred and Westinghouse Electric 5, Iowa Central 3 and Pressed Steel Car and International Paper preferred 2½. Disappointment in the increase in loans reported by the bank statement cost the market its gain and prices fell back generally to the lowest prices of the first hour. The market steadied momentarily, but ran off again, and the close was active and weak.

Much of the early selling came from financial institutions and doubtless represented further liquidation of loans for the account of the firms that failed yesterday. This was evidently so in the case of such stocks as Rubber Goods and Mexican Central. There was a 200 share follower by another of 500 shares of Rubber Goods at 7 points decline. Mexican Central stocks were slightly higher at the opening and the first income bonds recovered 8 points. Large blocks of the second incomes were offered at a decline of 3 3-8. There was a sale of Rubber Goods preferred at a drop of 11½, the next transaction showing a 3 per cent. advance. U. S. Rubber preferred lost 4½ on one sale. A prominent trader bought 500 shares of Rubber Goods. In the industrial list there were declines of a point or more in Colorado Fuel and several other issues. On the whole Steel preferred was stronger and a marked recovery was registered by Anaconda, while Amalgamated Copper fluctuated nervously.

IS LIFE WORTH LIVING?

A great deal depends on the liver.

The joy of living, of feeling the rich, red blood leap through the veins; the quickening pulses, the enjoyment of the good things of life—all these blessings are denied to him who is a slave to his liver.

Your liver cannot work properly if your stomach and bowels are out of order—if you suffer from Constipation, Indigestion or Dyspepsia. Abbey's Salt of Fruits, a most pleasant tasting tonic laxative, aids digestion, acts gently on the bowels, cleanses the system and keeps the blood rich, the circulation perfect, the nerve centres keyed to the right tone and the whole anatomy aglow with the fire and the vigor of good health.

Two teaspoonfuls in a tumbler of water taken at bedtime or in the morning will meet with the unqualified approval of your liver, stomach and bowels and set you feeling right for the day.

CHOLERA MORBUS

Keeping the Doctors and Druggists Busy

Cholera morbus is raging in Lowell and cholera syrups and cordials are having a tremendous sale. The doctors say that they have never known cholera morbus to be so general in this city as at the present time and in some instances it is very severe. It is especially severe in the cases of young children and hundreds of adults are sick abed.

The doctors are not united as to the cause of the complaint. Some believe it is the water, but the majority say that the weather, the atmospheric conditions are responsible.

The druggists are doing a rushing business and at home boiled milk is the order of the day. The druggists claim that their sales of cholera syrups and cordials have been phenomenal for the last week.

UNLUCKY "PICK"

FORMER LOWELL NEWSPAPER MAN BADLY INJURED.

Ex-Councilman Daniel N. Pickering was the victim of a serious Fourth of July accident at Worcester where he is now living and has not fully recovered from the effects of it yet.

It seems that a cannon cracker exploded in his hand, so badly injuring it that it was at first feared that he would lose his thumb and forefinger. However, it is now believed that the only permanent injury he will suffer will be a stiff forefinger.

Shortly before leaving Lowell, Mr. Pickering while fooling with Captain Kew at the police station, fell and sustained an injury to his foot that laid him up for quite a period.

HEROIC RESCUE

Old Man Saved From Drowning Last Night

John Carey, aged 68 years, a civil war veteran, was saved from a watery grave in the Concord river, last night by the heroic efforts of John Kerrigan and William Burgoyne, both of whom reside in Lawrence street.

The old man either jumped or fell into the river near Clark's court which runs from Lawrence street to the river bank and the splash was heard by Burgoyne and Kerrigan who were standing on Lawrence street, near the entrance of the court.

Running to the end of the court they saw the body in the water, fast disappearing. Quickly both dove in and swam to where they had seen the body. In a few moments they caught the old man and swam ashore with him. They worked on him for some little time and finally revived him, when he was taken to his home nearby.

Neighbors state that for the past few days the old man has been raving about his money and threatening to do away with himself, and it is believed that he was temporarily deranged when he tried to suicide.

CARDINALS ARRIVE

Austria Has Given Instructions to Cardinal Gruscha

By Associated Press to The Sun

ROME, July 25—During the early hours this morning the plaza of St. Peter's was not so crowded with persons desirous of viewing the body of Pope Leo XIII as on the two preceeding days; but before long it became known that the opportunity would cease at noon and all those who had been waiting until the last moment hurried to the cathedral. The rush produced a heaving, struggling group of humanity which the police had some difficulty in handling. Meanwhile the cafes in the vicinity and the vendors of post cards and small objects bearing Leo's likeness were liberally patronized.

It seems to have been the firm conviction of many persons that their children had received some benefit from seeing the pope, as this morning whole families were conducted to St. Peters. One peasant entered the chapel with a two months' old baby in his arms.

"Please be careful—don't push," he pleaded vainly. Both his ribs and those of the baby suffered until a soldier deliberately took the screaming child from its father's arms and ordered the parent to come for it later at the police station.

It having been remarked that the whole scene of the lying in state was wanting in light, those passing scarcely being able to see the features of the late pope, especially as they were not allowed to pause before the body, the authorities of the vatican added this morning to the flickering candles a line of electric globes, fixed over the gates on the chancel of the sacrament, the rays falling directly on the face of the late pontiff, which seemed to be cut in stone, and illuminated it with great clearness.

The body will be buried at sunset this evening.

Almost all the cabinet ministers visited St. Peters today.

Each train brings new cardinals. During the night Cardinal Perraud, archbishop of Autun, arrived, as did Cardinal Herrerory Espinosa, archbishop of Velencia, who, being created a cardinal at the consistory preceding the death of the pope has not yet received his red hat. But this does not invalidate his elevation nor lessens his position in the conclave. He was received by the Spanish ambassador to the vatican and they both went this morning to St. Peter's, entered the chapel of the sacrament and knelt beside the bier, remaining there, praying for some time.

Cardinal Tallani, the nuncio at Vienna, who was also created a cardinal at the last consistory; Cardinal Goossens, archbishop of Mechlin and Cardinal Gruscha, archbishop of Vienna arrived here this morning. The latter received before his departure from Vienna, instructions from the Austrian government concerning the conclave.

When the time came to take the fisherman's ring from Pope Leo's finger, it has just developed another was found in its place. This did not surprise anyone, as generally the pontiff does not wear it, the ring being less of an ornament than an unused seal. At the first meeting of the congregation of cardinals after the pope's death when the famous ring should have been broken, the ceremony was omitted and it was put on record that the ring, for the moment could not be found. The fisherman's ring is known to have been lost twice before.

Among the state papers preserved at Simancas, near Valladolid, Spain, is a letter from Count Olivares, then Spanish ambassador at Rome, to Philip II, dated September 5, 1588, saying:

"Sixtus V has ben ill from anxiety and vexation. The vexation to which I refer was at missing the fisherman's ring. He carried it with him in a purse and he discovered that he had been robbed of it by a cup-bearer. Unless the publicity given to the affair obliges him to punish the man he will not do so, or even dismiss him. Such is his affection for those who serve him. The pope would do anything to avoid showing the world that his confidence had been abused.

In September, 1899, Pope Leo was one day insistently asked for an audience by an under servant and yielding to curiosity granted it, whereupon the man entered, and kneeling said:

"Your holiness, I have to restore to you what has been a loss not only to you but to the world."

After these words the man proffered the pope the Fisherman's ring, which he had found. Pope Leo looked at it in surprise and then solemnly putting it on his finger said:

"The thanks of the church are due to you, my son. I shall see that you are rewarded."

The next day the man called at the treasury and was given three dollars.

THE LAST FAREWELL.

On the stroke of the midday as the noon gun from the castle S. Angelo was fired, the laying in state of the body of Pope Leo XIII came quietly to an end and those few who still lingered at the gates of the chapel of the sacrament, in St. Peters were ordered to leave and some two or three hundred persons including Cardinal Goessens, who arrived from Mechlin just in time, passed slowly out of St. Peters into the sun-lit plaza and the world's last farewell to the great pope was over. Ten minutes later Italian bersaglieri (infantry) and gendarmes, poured out of the basilica and lined up on the steps in imposing array.

As the last company passed the outer gates were closed and the body of the pope was left to the tender care of those who had watched Leo XIII in his lifetime. The preparations for this evening's interment were immediately commenced.

While the bells of the basilica rang out their daily noon chorus, the troops formed in column and then marched off to the barracks. Their historic incursion into vatican territory ended without the slightest friction.

It is estimated that 50,000 people passed the catafalque since Thursday morning.

The most solemn and imposing ceremony today was the reception by the sacred college in the hall of consistory, of the whole diplomatic body accredited to the vatican. All the diplomats wore gorgeous uniforms and the cardinals had on their magnificent violet robes and were seated in huge arm chairs according to right of precedence. The Portuguese ambassador, M. Matin D'Antas, dean of the diplomatic corps, was at the head of the body. He advanced and delivered an address in French, expressing the sorrow of all the powers at the death of Pope Leo who had acquired the universal esteem of the world.

Cardinal Oreglia, dean of the college of cardinals, rose and answered in Italian. With firm, sonorous voice he thanked the diplomats in the name of the sacred college for the part all the governments had taken in this mourning of the church. He eulogized Pope Leo and his work during his long pontificate and ended with expressing the hope that God will suggest to the sacred college a worthy successor to Leo XIII. After this the members of the diplomatic body kissed the hands of all the cardinals and especially congratulated Cardinal Oreglia on the sentiments he had expressed, and which produced the best of impressions.

CHURCH CROWDED

MASS CELEBRATED FOR REPOSE OF POPE'S SOUL.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 25—The first solemn high mass of requiem for the repose of the soul of Pope Leo XIII, to be celebrated in Boston, was sung at the Church of St. Leonard of Port Maurice (Italian) in the North End this morning. The ceremony was especially notable as the church is the headquarters of the Franciscans in Boston of which order the pontiff was protector. The interior of the edifice was hung in black, gold and white.

Before the high altar stood a catafalque in the form of a draped casket, surrounded with tall mourning candelabra and surmounted by a canopy.

The celebrant of the mass was Rev. Father Ubaldus, pastor of the church, the deacon was Father Liberti and the sub-deacon Wather Wenceslaus. The church was crowded throughout the long service.

HUMAN BRIDGE

TWO MEN WERE RESCUED FROM DROWNING.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 25—By suspending themselves from pier No. 3, East river, to the water, John Crowley, Daniel Larkin and Michael Touhey, longshoremen, saved two men from drowning early yesterday. James Short, 28 years old, of 346 East 9th street, and Joseph McGuihan, aged 26, a waiter of 306 East 11th street, had gone to sleep on the stringpiece of the pier. Short half awoke with a start and rolled over into the water. As he did so he grabbed McGuigan, dragging him, too.

The men shouted, and the watchman of the pier, Jerome Waring, jumped into the river after the men, but he could not swim. The watchman managed to keep the heads of the men above the surface and by shouting awakened the longshoremen who were also sleeping on the pier.

There was a heavy piece of rope attached to a stanchion on the pier, and this Crowley tied around his legs. He then took hold of Larkin's legs and Larkin did likewise to Touhey. This brought Touhey within a few inches of the surface of the water.

The watchman managed to push the two men in the water with him within reach of Touhey, and after a struggle all three were dragged out.

The watchman then pulled Touhey back on the pier, and then Larkin. Crowley's feet were then untied and all was well.

Short and McGuihan were found to be suffering slightly from shock. They were taken to Gouverneur hospital.

SAUGUS RACES

New Trotting Record for the Track

ONE HEAT WAS RUN IN 2.10

Big Crowd Saw the Events

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 25—The largest crowd ever gathered at Old Saugus saw Lady K place a new trotting record for the track on the books yesterday afternoon. The latest figures are 2.12½ and replace the 2.13¾ made by those good racing machines Caprice and Adra Belle away back in 1895.

The fast mile was not the only attractive feature that Manager Hitchings had to offer his record-breaking crowd. The 2.19 pace was a race worth going a long way to see, and it was won by that always popular warrior Terrell S. in the excellent time of 2.11¾, 2.08¾ and 2.10. The racing right through was the kind that the large assemblage had turned out to see.

The track was in fine condition, and of the six horses who won heats in the course of the afternoon four took records which puts them in faster company for their future races.

The 2.30 pacers, the same old bunch who have been giving us such good races for two years, were the special drawing card. Louise G., the Maine-bred queen, who was making her first start of the season, and who is always ready to fight and give a good account of herself, was slated to win. Ned Wilkes, on his good victory at Dover, had many admirers, as did old reliable Terrell S.

Chester Lasell brought the clean-going son of Strathmore to the post well prepared and he went a race which must be counted one of his very best. Louise G. carried him the first. Then the second, and then Ned Wilkes, who had fold up two heats, went after him in the third.

It was no use, he had his racing shoes on, and that third heat in 2.10 tells what a good horse he is when in shape. It was a great race to win and one that was no discredit to lose.

Clinch started out for the first heat, but at the quarter went to a break, letting Helen R. set the pace up the backstretch. Louise G. moved by her coming out of the upper turn and looked to be able to make her friends happy, but the drive home was too much for her and Terrell S. went under the wire first.

Hass made a try for the second heat with Clinch and kept the son of Alcantara in front until almost at the finish.

Princess Moquette acted as leader a good part of the third mile. On the upper turn Louise G. and Terrell S. closed up on her and she dropped out of the hunt. The latter was expected Ned Wilkes to come to life in this heat, for he had not been hurried earlier in the race. Switzer made a drive through the stretch and passed all but Terrell S., but the latter was full of pace, too, and was able to stall his fresh rival off.

Jimmie Timothy won a rattling good race with Mary Bachel. "Lovely Mary," as the ruddbids at Mystic have dubbed the cradle daughter of Simmons, was the dip in the 2.17 trot, but looked like misplaced judgment when she did her song and dance act in the first heat.

Then when she did behave herself in the second she found herself up against a trotter who was able to place the track record of 2.12 1-2.

This did not discourage Timothy. He kept on trying and was rewarded, for the two-heat winner went to the bad early in the third mile, and out of the 2.19 class went "Lovely Mary."

She acted badly early in the fourth heat, which was won by the son of Nominator, Nation. Timothy kept Mary on her stride in the next two heats and she was then able to dispose of Nation.

Lady K, the winner of the first two heats and maker of the trotting record for the track, had the hard luck to get distanced in the fifth heat. She rapped herself and after that was not able to stay on a trot. She is a 9-year-old black mare, sired by Frank L. 2.14 1-2, son of Sentinel Wilkes, and her dam was by H. B. Banning.

A. H. Gaffney of Nansen, Penn., who owns that good race horse Roamer, turned a new one loose in the 2.27 pace, and our who looks as if he was a high-class pacer. His name is The Judge and he is a son of Gen. Turner's old trotter, Bellini, 2.13 1-4. He goes without boots or hopples, and his first heat in 2.16 1-4 was easy for him. Lady Nance, a pupil of Rob Durland's, won second money to him, with Frank Hayden's Strathbelle third and Bard Palmer's Wilkesbrino fourth. Wilbur Duntley's Fanny Derby made her maiden start and performed well.

There was nothing to the 2.22 pace but Frank Wilson, the inbred Gambetta Wilkes that Lon McDonald is educating for his stake engagements in the eastern end of the grand circuit. Walter Cox, with an unmarked member of the Alcander family, made him heat 2.15 in the third heat, but it was only a good work out for him.

ANOTHER TRIAL

OF THE FAMOUS MINNIE HEALEY MINE CASE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BUTTE, Mont., July 25—The famous Minnie Healey mining case, which has involved a judicial scandal that spread over the country, will be tried again.

The supreme court yesterday denied that the conduct of Judge E. W. Harney, who decided the case, was such as to justify a reversal of his decision. It finds that his relationship with Ada H. Brackett, the woman employed for the alleged purpose of influencing the judge and his decision, was very reprehensible, and he is severely criticised. Some of the sensational letters that passed between the woman and Harney while he had the case under advisement are quoted by the court, and it is declared that they were very improper.

The court finds that Harney never really did deny the authenticity of the letters, and they are therefore accepted as true.

The decision is a great victory for the Amalgamated company.

LAND OFFERED CITY

Free for a School Site in Centralville

By Mr. Wyman Who Owns the Land Adjoining the Boisvert Lot—It is Better Than the Site Selected

The Sun today is able to make public a proposition which if accepted by the city may obviate the necessity of purchasing a school site in Centralville.

The land adjoining the Boisvert lot in Centralville is owned by Isaac Wyman, a resident of Boston. Mr. Wyman attended the hearing upon the purchase of the site offered by Mr. Boisvert.

After the hearing was over he made the statement to several gentlemen well acquainted with him, one of whom is D. W. Stewart, the plumber, that he would give the city all the land needed for a school site, provided the school should be named after him, the Wyman school.

It does seem that in our present financial straits the city council would be willing to accept any such offer. We do not know Mr. Wyman and have no reason to doubt his entire sincerity in making this offer. Neither have we any reason to assume that there is any stigma attached to his name, that would make the proposition undesirable to the city.

It is stated that this land has been held by the Wyman family for over twenty years past and that the offer is made in entire good faith, although it has not yet been submitted to the mayor or the city council as representing the city.

The lot which Mr. Wyman would offer is in every way as desirable as that which the city council selected. It has the additional advantage of being a little farther away from the Aiken street dump. It is to be hoped that Mr. Wyman will submit his proposition in a formal and authentic manner so that it may be acted upon by the city. It would save the price of the site and leave that much more with which to start the building.

Offers of this kind are so rare that they should not be let pass without careful examination and scrutiny. Mayor Howe will do well to suspend action upon the resolution for the purchase of the Boisvert land pending the receipt of Mr. Wyman's proposition.

REFUSED TO WORK

Balky Automobile Scared Horses

A balky automobile gave a Fourth of July exhibition in Market street this afternoon that scared horses and attracted everybody within sound of its explosions which were loud enough to be heard for blocks away.

The machine raised the flag of truce sometime in the forenoon and an auto expert spent three hours of his time and a goodly supply of his energy in trying to persuade the pesky thing to get a move on.

He finally succeeded in getting the machinery to move and after touching 50 or 60 different screws and cogs he jumped aboard with an air of confidence that was of short duration.

The machine made ten loud explosions while turning and as it moved slowly down Market street it produced on an average of about ten explosions a minute. The first horse to start was an old grey wearing a sun bonnet and attached to an express wagon. He came very nearly getting away but the young man who was driving him did a 50 yard dash that was too much for the old horse and he was led back to his old position.

Several other horses were so scared that the drivers had to stand at their heads, but the auto man didn't notice them. He crept along and seemed to be interested only in the number of explosions that the machine was capable of producing.

Suddenly, however, three great loud reports were heard and the machinery stopped. The man at the brake swore and the men who were losing good time holding their horses were glad that the horseless carriage had balked again.

A little experience is better than a good deal of argument. Take Dows' Diarrhoea and Cholera Syrup for all summer complaints.

WOMAN DESERTED

Husband Returned and Took Furniture

A very pitiful case has been brought to light by the desertion of a home by a husband who has been absent from his family for some time. He was not satisfied with allowing his wife to support the family, but after a long absence returned and broke up the little home which the unfortunate woman was trying to sustain.

The woman in question is Mrs. Seeton, who resides in Hart's avenue, off Hildreth street, and who has been supporting her eight children since her husband deserted her some time ago. Recently Mrs. Seeton had three of the children placed in a local charitable institution, and while she was working a girl of about twelve years looked after four younger children.

Mrs. Seeton is employed as a washerwoman by a number of the residents of Centralville and by long and faithful work had managed to maintain her home and support her children.

The climax was reached yesterday when her husband made his appearance at the house, while she was out working, and putting the oldest girl in through one of the windows, he gained an entrance to the house and when Mrs. Seeton returned from her work at night she found the furniture removed and her oldest child missing, the father having taken both the child and the furniture.

FLOOD OF WATER

WAS CAUSED BY DISCONNECTED PIPE.

A large stream of water spouting from a manhole in Merrimack street near John, just before noon today, made many people think that one of the water mains had burst and that the street would be flooded, but the cause of the miniature geyser was the disconnecting of the pipe which supplies water to the street car sprinklers.

The car was stopped near the manhole and the supply pipe attached after which the water was turned on. When the tank in the car was about half filled, the pipe got disconnected and the water shot up in the air to a height of about 20 feet. Before the water could be shut off that portion of Merrimack street was filled with water.

LIBERAL DEFEATED

LABOR CANDIDATE NOW OUT IN PARLIAMENTARY ELECTION.

By Associated Press to The Sun

LONDON, July 25—The report of election yesterday in the Brainard castle division of Durham county of a successor to Sir Joseph W. Pease, liberal, resulted:

A. Henderson labor), 3,370.
W. L. Vane (unionist), 3,323.
Mr. Beaumont (liberal), 2,809.

The result of the election was a complete surprise, for since 1886 the division had returned a liberal. It is another of a succession of labor victories in recent years by elections and the result is significant because Vane is a strong supporter of colonial secretary Chamberlain's fiscal policy. While personally popular he received fewer votes than when he ran for the same division in 1900.

On the other hand, it is asserted that the contest was more influenced by the education act, the division being strongly non-conformist.

The wounded man, who is supposed to be Charles J. Allan, a sailor, died later. The shooting followed an attempt at burglary and a struggle in which the watchman was badly beaten. When the police arrived at the scene the watchman was lying almost unconscious, over the body of the burglar, whose companions had fled.

ABANDONED CHILD

Mother's Love Led to Her Arrest

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 25.—Attiring her seven-weeks-old babe in a lace gown, with a coat of white silk and a cap of pretty frills, Sophie Kohler, desperate, late Thursday night laid the infant on the doorstep of the house at No. 97 Greenpoint avenue, Williamsburg. She started to steal away. Suddenly she stopped.

What if those who found the child might be very poor—might not be able to care for it and feed it! She turned back.

Across the street a man was walking. He stared at her curiously. She did not hesitate. She went back to the doorstep. She bent over the child until the man had passed and was some distance up the street. Then impulsively, the woman tossed her purse beside the sleeping babe and went away.

In the moment of her action she had forgotten that the purse contained other things as well as $6—all the money she had in the world. It was a handsome purse. It bore on it the initials, "S. K." So John Craven discovered this when, on coming home late he found the child and the purse. Then he called the policeman.

The policeman found inside the purse a New York Transfer company check, and on it was the address, "Vollmer, 627 East Twelfth street." Also there was a card made out to John Kelfer, 563 North 5th street. It was a membership card in St. Peter's church, Philadelphia.

At the Twelfth street address it was found that recently arrived from Philadelphia and staying with the Vollmers was Sophie Kohler. The girl was arrested. The police say that she confessed to having abandoned the child.

The woman is silent concerning the card of John Kelfer. He is superintendent of the St. Vincent Orphan asylum at Tacony, Pa. He is out of the city, but his son, when seen in Philadelphia, yesterday, said that his father had merely loaned the card to the young woman to help her get the child in some institution in New York city.

RACE ABANDONED

THE SHAMROCKS RECALMED NEAR SCOTLAND.

(From Sr. Erin via DeForest Wireless.)

NEW YORK, July 25.—The Shamrocks left Sandy Hook under their own sails at 9.40 a. m. today for a race after which they will be taken to Erie Basin to be cleaned and polished. Sir Thomas Lipton sailed on board the challenger today. The wind was northwest and blowing about seven knots.

The course is from Scotland lightship around Sandy Hook lightship four and a half miles and return, once or twice around, depending on the wind. The starting time was:

Shamrock III, 10:57:15.
Shamrock I, 10:57:19.

At the turn the time was:

Shamrock III. 11:27:37.
Shamrock I, 11:27:59.

Half way back to Scotland lightship the yachts were becalmed. Shamrock III had gained in beating back and was half a mile ahead of Shamrock I. The race was then abandoned.

TURKISH GOVERNMENT

WILL HAVE SHIP BUILT BY CRAMPS.

By Associated Press to The Sun

PHILADELPHIA, July 25.—In 1900 Ahmed Pasha, chief engineer of the Ottoman navy came to this country for the purpose of examining the American system of naval construction. As a result of his investigation the Turkish government contracted with the Cramp Ship-building company for the construction of the warship Medjidia, which is of the protected cruiser type and will be launched today.

The general dimensions and characteristics of the vessels are: Length on the load line 330 feet, beam extreme 42 feet; draft, mean, 16 feet; displacement, 3300 tons; speed, 22 knots.

The armament consists of two six-inch rapid fire guns 45 calibres long, eight 4.7 rapid fire guns, 5 calibres; six 3 pounder rapid fire guns, 50 calibres; six 7 pounder rapid fire guns, 50 calibres; one 3-inch field gun; two torpedo tubes for 14-inch Whitehead torpedoes.

The battery is capable of firing projectiles of 584 pounds at one round of all guns. Using the standard rates of firing for guns of the calibre given the total discharge of all guns in one minute would be 5,000 pounds. The maximum thickness of the protected deck over the space occupied by the engines and boilers is four inches. Otherwise the vessel is unarmored with the exception of the conning tower and tube leading to protected deck.

The vessel is provided with a strong ram at the bow.

MORE CHARGES

MAY CAUSE MILLER TO BE DROPPED.

By Associated Press to The Sun

WASHINGTON, July 25.—A committee of the bookbinders was in conference today but they announced that there was nothing to give out at present. They assert confidence that the matter will be adjusted satisfactorily and that on account of the new charges which have been filed Miller will be dropped from the service. The charges which are the ones on which Miller's expulsion from the union were based, are now under investigation by government officials. President Barrett of the local union said today that the situation is such that no statement can be made by the union at this time but that no hasty action is contemplated and no clash with the law has been contemplated.

LONDON CIRCLES

Made Money by Drop in Market

WALL STREET BEGAN BUSINESS WITH ANXIETY

Orders Given to Buy at Declines

By Associated Press to The Sun

LONDON, July 25.—Comparatively little interest is taken in financial circles here in the liquidation in the New York market which it is believed will likely clear the atmosphere. The American holdings of the British people are insignificant and, as a matter of fact there has been much selling recently and profits were reaped from the falling prices in New York. A strong feeling prevails that the level of prices has been reached which caused an advance in Americans and a consequent better tone of the market. At the opening the general average of prices was a dollar above parity, with some trading on New York exchange.

Isaac Seligman said: "The market here has been regulated by New York. As an indication of the importance of the New York market, a fact may be cited which I strongly believe in, that nearly all the European financial markets are regulated by the tone of New York. New York is rapidly becoming the financial centre of the world. For all that, I am afraid they have been overdoing it. The state of the market is simply the natural result of over-speculation and the over-financing of the last three years. It is very difficult to say when the bottom will be reached; but, if it was known exactly how many weak pools or cliques still exist it would be possible to prophesy with more assurance. We will have a series of fluctuations yet, I think. The situation here is quite sound; but the market is also suffering from losses in mining ventures and from the effect of the three years African war. Now there is a new agitation, the tariff question, which tends to unsettle business people's minds.

A representative of Brown, Shipley & Co., said: "We are bankers, and not prophets. We are getting down to reasonable, level prices. The New York market has been weak and nervous but here this morning prices have risen."

Most of the brokers closed their offices at the usual hour, one o'clock, today, not waiting for the quotations from the New York. The failure of Frederick Lowe, a member of the stock exchange, was announced. He was only a small operator.

CLERKS AT WORK

EXAMINING BOOKS OF THE FIRMS THAT FAILED.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 25.—No additional information concerning affairs of Talbot J. Taylor and company, and W. L. Stow and company were obtainable this morning. The clerical forces of both firms were at work examining the books, assisted by expert accountants. Latest reports place the liabilities of Taylor and company at not less than $3,000,000. James R. Keene was at the office of Taylor and company all the morning but denied himself to all interviewers. The assignee of Stow and company was in charge of that firm's office. He sent out word that he would be unable to file even an approximate schedule of assets and liabilities before Monday. The market became stronger generally in the last hour on the belief that a favorable bank statement would be issued. The list sold off again just before publication of the bank statement.

The increased loans shown by the bank in place of a decided contraction which has been looked for, was a disappointment but was not offset by the large cash gains. The market sold off, became dull and narrow, then rallied here and there and closed irregular and unsettled at prices generally below the best. Some further apprehension was excited by the weakness of such stocks as Evansville and Terre Haute and Des Moines and Fort Dodge. No definite explanation was forthcoming.

MAY NOT RACE

MORGAN KNOWS NOTHING OF COLUMBIA-SHAMROCK SPIN.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEWPORT, R. I., July 25.—When ex-Commodore E. Morgan was seen on board the Columbia by the Associated Press representative this morning in regard to the reported arrangement for a race between the Columbia and the Shamrock I he stated that he had been informed of the report but that he himself had made no agreement nor had there been any talk of a race with his consent. What Mr. Morgan would be willing to do in case the matter were properly advanced he was then of course unprepared to state but it was apparent from what he said that he had thus far given the matter no serious consideration and there is a strong belief here that such a race will not be arranged. Just what grounds such a report could have started from cannot be understood among the yachtsmen here for they are in the same position as Mr. Morgan, they have heard no talk.

Mr. E. D. Morgan is the manager of the Columbia, the owner of the boat being Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan, who is now in Bar Harbor.

By Associated Press to The Sun

HUTCHINSON, Kas., July 25.—Twelve persons were injured, two fatally, in a collision between a Sante Fe east-bound passenger and a Missouri Pacific north-bound train at the junction west of this city today.

Both trains were running behind schedule time and neither knew of the approach of the other. The Missouri Pacific train was just crossing the Santa Fe tracks when the Santa Fe train came around the bend at tremendous speed. The heavy engine crashed into the rear cars of the other train, piling them and the Santa Fe locomotive and baggage cars into the ditch together. All those injured were on the Missouri Pacific train.

Doctors have gone to the scene and the injured are being conveyed to the hospital.

GAVE HIS LIFE

To Save Woman and Her Babe

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 25.—To save the lives of a woman and her baby crossing Tremont avenue, near Boston road in the path of a runaway horse and wagon last night, Richard Meyers, of No. 803 Columbus avenue, Manhattan, made a heroic sacrifice of his own life. Trampled by the horse and run over by the wagon, he was instantly killed.

Meyers' heroism was witnessed by a large number of women and children, who themselves narrowly escaped injury.

The hero was employed by a grocer at Tremont avenue and Boston road as a driver. He returned to the store about 7.30 o'clock, after having delivered a number of orders. He was asked to deliver an order a block away. When returning Meyers saw the horse he had been driving coming toward him through Tremont avenue at a furious pace.

In the middle of the driveway, and directly in front of St. Thomas' Roman Catholic church, stood a woman who afterward said she is a Mrs. Spero, but who refused to give her address. She was pushing a baby carriage. Several other women, also pushing baby coaches, were nearly across the street. They rushed to the sidewalk.

Mrs. Spero seemed petrified with fear. Meyers rushed into the roadway. The frightened horse was almost upon the woman as he reached her side. Gathering all his strength Meyers pushed Mrs. Spero and the baby carriage to one side. At the same time he tried to grab the bridle of the horse. He missed it and the horse struck him. He was knocked down. The horse trampled on him and the wheels of the wagon passed over his body. The baby carriage rolled to the curb and Mrs. Spero fell to the ground. The wagon passed within a few inches of her.

The horse, now doubly frightened, increased his speed and ran westward, but was stopped by Patrolman Barnecott at Vyse avenue.

Meyers' brave act had been witnessed by the Rev. Fr. Parks, rector of St. Thomas church. He helped to carry the body to the sidewalk.

CONTRACT AWARDED

FOR ERECTION OF NEW MILL IN FALL RIVER.

By Associated Press to The Sun

FALL RIVER, Mass., July 25.—The contract for building the new Luther mill was today awarded to C. H. Sears of this city. A two story granite weave shed 266 by 124 feet to contain one thousand looms, a large store house and a two story brick addition to the picker house of the old Robeson mill, which the new company has purchased are included in the specifications.

SHIP LAUNCHED

WAS BUILT FOR THE TURKISH GOVERNMENT.

By Associated Press to The Sun

PHILADELPHIA, July 25.—In the presence of a distinguished gathering of diplomats, foreign and American naval officers and prominent citizens of Philadelphia the Turkish cruiser Medjidia, first warship ever built here for the Ottoman empire, was launched today at 1.54 p. m. at Cramp's ship yard. The sponsor for the new addition to the Sultan's navy was Mrs. Edwin S. Cramp, and the baptism was an evasion of the Korans teaching turned into a graceful compliment to the American people. The Sultan forbids women from participating in a christening at which wine is used.

When the Medjidia glided down the ways after one o'clock, grouped about the christening platform were a dozen Turkish officials. They included Chekib Bey, Turkish minister to the United States, his two sons, Ali Bey and Osman Bey, Djelal Munif Bey, first secretary of the Ottoman legation; Sidekey Bey, consul New York city, his secretary, Selim Bey; Halid Bey and secretary, Selman Bey; Halid Bey and Bahadin Bey, besides Lieut. Commander Sabid Bey and Lieut. Ali Bey of the Turkish navy, inspectors of machinery and hull construction respectively on duty at the ship yard for the sultan.

LEGAL NOTICES

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS, Middlesex, ss. Superior Court.

To the Honorable the Justices of the Superior Court next to be holden at Cambridge, in the county of Middlesex:

Respectfully represents William M. Bascom of Lowell, in said county, that he is the owner in fee simple of a lot of land situated on the southerly side of Merrimack street, in said Lowell, containing two thousand two hundred sixteen and 5/10 square feet bounded and described as follows: Beginning at a point on the southerly side of said street twelve feet from the northwesterly corner of the sidewalk to the block of brick stores near the Congregational meeting-house, thence running westerly on said street twenty-three and one-third feet parallel to Lowell street, and one hundred and eighty-eight and one-half feet distant therefrom; thence southerly at a right angle ninety-three feet; thence easterly parallel to Merrimack street twenty-three and one-third feet; thence northerly at a right angle ninety-five feet to the point of beginning. The said Congregational meeting-house being the First Congregational Meeting-house in Lowell. Being the same premises conveyed to Timothy Bascom by James Russell and Cumings Barr by their deed dated June 5, A. D. 1843, recorded Middlesex Reg. Deeds Southern Dist. Book 427, Page 451, and by the said Timothy Bascom devised to me by his will duly recorded in the Registry of Probate in and for said Middlesex county.

2. That the record title of said land is encumbered by an undischarged mortgage given by said Timothy Bascom to one William B. Daniels of Boston in our county of Suffolk dated October 6, 1846, and recorded with Middlesex Reg. of Deeds So. Dist. Book 432, Page 483, to secure the payment of the sum of three hundred and fifty dollars in two years with interest, which said mortgage was on the 11th day of July, A. D. 1861, assigned to Rebecca Bascom now deceased, wife of said Timothy Bascom, by the administrator of the estate of said William B. Daniels, which assignment was recorded with the Middlesex North District Registry of Deeds Book 28, Page 139.

3. That said mortgagor and those having his estate in said land have been in uninterrupted possession of said land for more than twenty years after the expiration of the time limited in the mortgage for the full performance of the condition thereof.

4. That no payment on account of the debt secured by said mortgage within twenty years after the expiration of the time limited for the performance of the condition thereof has been made or any other act done within such time in recognition of its existence as a valid mortgage, and that your petitioner believes that said mortgage was long since paid and by accident or mistake the discharge thereof has not been recorded in said Registry of Deeds.

Wherefore your petitioner prays that such notice may be ordered to be given to the representatives of the said Rebecca Bascom, and those interested in her estate, and to all other persons interested in said land, as the court may order; and that a decree may be entered reciting the facts above set forth and declaring said mortgage to have been fully paid and discharged, and ordering that from and after such decree no action to enforce a title under said mortgage shall be maintained, and that said mortgage be released and cancelled upon the records.

Dated the 1st day of July, A. D. 1903.

WILLIAM M. BASCOM.

Witness, Peter A. Fay.

Sworn to by Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilotte, pressman of The Sun, before me, July 2, 1903.

The beach weather has arrived. Make the most of it.

Again is it necessary to remind parents to look out for the little ones. Keep them cool, give them wholesome food in limited quantities, and give them large surfeits of fresh air. By so doing they will be tided over the hot spell.

The waitresses in Chicago are forbidden to chew gum. It is regarded as a sort of vice and the employers have set out to stop it. Since the recent strike the waitresses are under contract not to chew gum. A violation of this contract of course justifies their discharge. It is regarded almost as bad as the cigarette habit.

There is a law against prize-fighting in Massachusetts, and the police of Boston apparently did not know that a fight occurred within their jurisdiction Wednesday night. Nevertheless, there was a gathering at the Hub of sports from all over the state that evening and wherever groups of them were found they were discussing the prospects of the "fight." It is possible that they were not as good judges of the article as are the police. —Haverhill Gazette.

The metropolitan police are too busy stirring up mare's nests of their own growing at Revere and blaming the town officials for the evil.

Practical Politics discusses the embarrassments which President Roosevelt is bringing upon the party managers by his kitchen cabinet by his determination to push too many of his friends to the front. If the president keeps on in this line, by the time the convention assembles, he will have broken down the mainstays of his support. On the whole it would seem that the prospects are daily getting brighter for the election of a democratic candidate.

THE CHILD LABOR

The state inspector has gone through the mills and found no evidence of any violation of the child labor law. So we expected. The inspectors assigned to Lowell are not in the habit of finding violations of the factory laws. They are apparently so long accustomed to passing everything as all right that they find it difficult to make a departure for the purpose of enforcing the law.

AIKEN STREET PARK.

It is proposed to turn the made land on the east side of Aiken street bridge into a beautiful common covered by a soft coating of velvet grass and planted with trees and shrubs. The citizen, the board or commission that makes a beautiful common from a malodorous dump will deserve the gratitude of the city at large. No part of the city is in greater need of a common than this very locality. It is therefore hoped that the proposition will be carried out. The fact that a new school is to be erected in the vicinity will make the new park much more desirable.

DROWNING ACCIDENTS.

We may expect to hear of several drownings this hot weather. When boys get into the water they do not know where to stop. As a result they get over their depth or in some other way become the water's victims. We presume it would be useless to advise certain boys. The boys who refuse to be advised by their seniors are the boys who get drowned. There are quite a few of them up in the cemetery and many more will soon follow.

MORIARTY FOR MAYOR.

Ex-Representative Eugene M. Moriarty of Worcester, the business manager and treasurer of the Worcester Post, is quite favorably mentioned as a candidate for mayor in that city. Mr. Moriarty is a man of very considerable executive ability and his experience of twelve years in the legislature besides his training in local offices should make him a highly desirable candidate for the people of Worcester. Mr. Moriarty is known throughout the state as a clean, upright gentleman, who during his long service in the legislature stood firmly for the right as he saw it and never betrayed the plain people who elected him. We believe he would make an excellent mayor.

SERIOUS CHARGE MADE.

On Saturday during the trial of a liquor case in police court the lawyer for the defendant charged the government with being susceptible to influence in disposing of such cases. The court promptly repelled the insinuation so far as it might refer to the integrity of the presiding judge, but it had no reference whatever to the court. A great many people are wondering what it meant or whether it is a fact that evidence of violation in certain case is hushed up so that the case never goes to court. The question to be considered then is whether there is anybody disposing of cases privately without letting them go to court.

ROOSEVELT EMBARASSING HIS MANAGERS.

President Roosevelt is in conflict with the bookbinders' union for having restored an employe of the government printing office who was under the ban of the union. In restoring him the president simply stated that labor unions could not overrule the laws of the United States. The affair has apparently been given undue significance by the press of the country. The bookbinders have threatened to strike but a strike against the federal government could result only in permanent removal from their places. The government cannot long be hampered by the action of any union. Besides there is the danger of being charged with treason in the conduct of such a strike. Verily, the government of the United States is very Autocratic when its powers are invoked by its employes.

THE PAPAL SUCCESSION

There is now much discussion over the papal succession, even among the cardinals. Not all of the despatches can be relied upon as accurate as some of the correspondents are liable to be more sensational than the facts would warrant, but nowadays very little can be kept from the vigilant reporters. The merits and demerits of various candidates are discussed pro and con and while the cardinals differ in their opinion in regard to who should be elected, yet they are all desirous of selecting the one who is best calculated to promote the interests of the church. The cardinal who will bring the most ability to the office and who will incite the least possible enmity is the one who will probably be elected. The election will be made after due deliberation and discussion without the possibility of outside interference after the conclave opens.

It is certain that a choice will be made without much difficulty and that the work of the church will go on without any perceptible change. The pope may die but the papacy and the church over which he ruled remain, and were never more vigorous and influential than at present.

SEEN AND HEARD

The truth is often a bitter pill to swallow, but as Judge Hadley told a police officer in police court a few days ago, it should be uppermost in a man's mind.

From statistics recently computed the inference is drawn that the heads of three in every ten college boys instead of being congenial residences for brains are nothing more or less than gardens for football hair.

In a window of one of the most modest and unpretentious drug stores in the city the following sign is displayed: "Nobby petticoats $1.75. It does not say that the petticoat has any mission to perform other than that of the common-everyday petticoat.

At a ball game recently a little boy was calling out, "Ice cold tonic and cigars here." A spectator hearing this ordered a bottle of tonic and much to his surprise upon opening it discovered that the tonic was warm instead of "ice cold," as the boy had lead him to believe.

"This tonic isn't cold," said the man in a tone that would scare a lion, and the boy replied, "Well, why didn't you buy it when it was?" The reply was too much for the man and he decided to grin and bear it.

A story is going the rounds, but of course I am not in a position to vouch for the truth of it, to the effect that a certain quite swell young man who has been paying strict attention to a fair young maiden in the Highlands is not going to her house any more. They do tell that the young couple had a little argument about the goodness and badness of men and women. He said that the men are better as a whole than the women and the fair young maiden reversed the opinion. "Then," said the gallant youth, "I will compare notes with you. I will confess my life to you and you can tell me of your past and we will judge the whole by the result." The young maiden reserted and the young man started in and unfolded his life to her. When he had finished she looked at him and asked rather doubtfully if he had told her all."

"Yes," he stoutly declared, "I have told you all."

"Then I am unworthy of you. Farewell, for, for-ever," sorrowfully sobbed the fair maiden.

A junk collector endeavoring to wheel what old timers would term "a lazy man's load," had Prescott street all to himself for about fifteen minutes Wednesday evening. His junk cart was loaded with bags on the top of which were several long pieces of inch and two inch iron pipe that had long since gone out of commission. The wheels of the cart, that had seen better days, were twisting and turning under the heavy load and the junk collector was beating the kangaroo walk till to pieces by the contortions he was going through in an endeavor to get his cart out of the car tracks. The iron pipe was reaching far out and pedestrians were in danger of being swept off the sidewalk. The man at the cart handles had his first bit of trouble in Merrimack square, but a dozen or more newsboys went to the rescue and assisted him in pushing his cart in to Prescott street. Then he dismissed the boys and greatly to his sorrow. He found sledding just as hard in Prescott street as in the square.

Two or three times he was assisted by passers-by but as they were not sharing in the profits of the old rags and iron pipes they did not care to waste too much time with the junkman. The poor fellow was blistered at and sworn at but he still continued to throw his left leg over the shafts and push for all he was worth. Just as he was about to free his cart from the car tracks the left wheel squeaked and then it was the junkman's turn to swear. He swore a blue streak and in recognition of his grand attempt at using cuss words a young man went to his assistance and helped him to push his cart to the sidewalk. The junkman was about all in and after popping his brow with a handkerchief that left a black streak in its wake he procured another cart and divided the lazy man's load. Men who are in the habit of going to Lawrence please take notice.

ATTACKED BY MOB

Attempt Made to Lynch a Detective

By Associated Press to The Sun

SCRANTON, Pa., July 27.—An attempt to lynch John Peel, a Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company detective was made Saturday night at Foster by a crowd of villagers who were infuriated upon learning that he had gained evidence which would connect a score of the families of the village with wholesale thievery of brass and other junk from the company's property.

Peel was attacked at a hotel while waiting for a train. He stood off the mob at the point of a revolver until the arrival of a passenger train, the crew of which rescued him with difficulty.

The ringleader of the mob is said to be one of the leading citizens of the town and it is alleged that because the detective had gained evidence in connection with the thieving which would disgrace him and his son forever, he gathered the mob and led them in the murderous attack.

KILLED A MAN

Woman Wanted for Murder Surrendered

By Associated Press to The Sun

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., July 27.—A young woman giving the name of Mrs. Aurora Hodge, her age 19 and her home, Denrison, Iowa, entered the office of Supt. of Police Carr yesterday and said she wanted to give herself up, declaring that she had killed a man near Salt Lake City, Utah, on July 11th last. She said she had parted from her husband a few months after their marriage and went on the road with a traveling medicine vender as his bookkeeper. "When on a lonely road near Salt Lake City, July 11," she said, "he attempted to assault me and I shot him with a revolver I had been carrying. I left him in the wagon and went to Salt Lake City to give myself up but my nerve failed me at the time."

A telegram late last night from Acting Chief of Police Burbridge of Salt Lake City to Chief Carr confirms Mrs. Hodge's story and states that there is a warrant out for her arrest for murder.

WELLINGTON, O., July 27.—While rounding a sharp curve several miles south of here yesterday, at a speed of sixty miles an hour, the flyer on the Big Four road, crashed into the rear end of a freight train, which was just pulling into a siding.

The engine of the flyer ploughed through the caboose and ten cars loaded with live stock and merchandise, finally landing on its side in the ditch. Only the mail car of the flyer was derailed. Three persons were injured, but none fatally.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., July 27.—A passenger train and a freight on the Southern railroad collided at Coveville, 15 miles south of here yesterday and eleven persons were injured but none fatally. SUES THE CITY

Clerk of Police Board Wants That $300

Joseph Smith, clerk of the police court, has brought suit against the city to recover $300, amount alleged to be due him for salary.

The writ was issued Saturday afternoon. The ad damnum of the suit is $500, the writ is returnable the first Saturday in September.

This suit grows out of the action of the police board in increasing the salary of their clerk from $1500 to $1800 last year. The committee on appropriations did not make the necessary provisions for this increase. They, in accordance with the city charter—the one recommended by the commission on revision of the city charter, reported an itemized appropriation, allowing and specifying $1500 as the amount for the clerk's salary. The police board, notwithstanding this action, increased the salary. The city council adopted the order presented by the committee on appropriations and refused to vote the money for the increase.

Now the question comes, did the board of police have a legal right to increase and vote a salary when sufficient money was not appropriated for the specific purpose.

Mr. Butler was found in an adjoining field.

TRIED TO ESCAPE

Five Boys Succeeded in Attempt

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 27.—More than a score of boys of the House of Refuge on Randall's island tunnelled under and through the 35 feet high and two feet thick wall surrounding the building yesterday and five succeeded in escaping. A dozen others who were discovered in the act of escaping submitted and seven who tried to get away were captured. Two had swam almost to the Manhattan shore across the channel. Two more were caught in Little Hell Gate, into which they plunged, and another was caught in the water trying to swim to Ward's Island.

The escape was made by means of a wooden shed which had been built as a tool house and grew house against the inside of the wall surrounding the house of refuge. It contained a lot of diggers' tools, such as picks, crowbars and other instruments that the boys determined to put into use in getting away from the institution. The leaders enlisted about 25 boys in the attempt. Their ages range from 10 to 20.

RAIDS AT REVERE

Liquor Dealers Were Visited Twice by Officers

By Associated Press to The Sun

REVERE BEACH, July 27.—When the history of the remarkable complications of official authority in Revere for the year 1903 is written, several chapters will have to be devoted to yesterday's doings.

Although Officer George C. Neal, who is in charge of the local activities of the district police, spent the day here, it was one of apparent quiet on his part. But the department of the metropolitan park police, under Chief H. W. West, and the town police force, under Chief Edward H. Oakes, had a lively time of it.

Chief West had a campaign against suspected liquor sellers on Ocean avenue all mapped out and lying on his desk over night. The first thing noticed in the morning was a remarkable scarcity of police in uniform at their accustomed beats along the boulevard. But any one watching the station about 11:30 would have seen squads of men in citizen's clothes issuing from the building in all directions.

They walked rapidly for such a hot morning. One squad, led by Sergt. Hawkins, headed for the premises of Elijah M. Moreland, 524 Ocean avenue, known as the Crescent club. The sergeant took his post at the door, while Policemen D. O'Connor, Smith, Quirk, Crowley and Weinert searched the place and seized 492 bottles of beer and 21 glasses. Moreland was arrested, charged with maintaining a common liquor nuisance.

Meanwhile the other raiders were busy. Sergt. Bickford and Patrolmen Chapman, Best, Coulter, McDonald and Shaughnessy went to the Revere Beach hotel on the same street. State Officer Neal accompanied this party. They arrested John H. Lucy, charged with maintaining a common liquor nuisance. All the liquor they could find was about a gill of whiskey drained from 19 empty bottles, but they found hundreds of empty bottles which they will use as evidence.

Patrolmen Chainey, Marshall, T. O'Connor, Searrie and Haddock visited Manuel Costa, who has been raided a half dozen times this year by Chief Oakes of the town force. Costa was arrested on the same charge as the others, and a quantity of beer on a lot in the rear of his house was seized.

Officers Hardiman, Brawley, Bravogel and Brookings went to the "Cycle Lunch," 726 Ocean avenue and arrested Mrs. Octavia King. Fifty-two bottles of beer were seized.

The Star of Sea cottage, kept by Michael H. Dougherty, was also searched, but no liquors were found.

CHIEF OAKES RAIDS, TOO.

News of the raids spread rapidly and the street was soon in a turmoil of excitement. Hundreds of people surrounded the places and watched the operation of the park police.

The news also traveled to the office of Chief Oakes of the town police. Here it excited even more interest than among the knowing ones at the beach, for Chief Oakes also had a bunch of warrants to serve, and among them were warrants against Costa and Dougherty.

This is the first occasion since the metropolitan park force was established on the beach that Chief West ever made such a vigorous rally away from the reservation limits. It was another case of state officers exercising police authority within the town limits, and Chief Oakes felt a little nettled. But he was not to be outdone.

At the hotel Cleveland, occupied by Annie Sherman, Chief Oakes, with Patrolmen Stuart, Latter and Field, seized six cases of beer. And as the hotel Cleveland is only about a stone's throw from Chief West's residence, the town authorities think it is their turn to smile.

Chief Oakes also served his search warrants on Manuel Costa and Michael Dougherty, and at the former place succeeded in finding a small quantity of beer, which the park police must have overlooked. Two other warrants were served by them, but nothing was found.

After the seizure at Hotel Cleveland the town officers loaded the beer taken into their police wagon and drove up the boulevard. The crowd showed a quick appreciation of the humor of the situation and laughter and applause greeted their passing.

Nearly all the amusement enterprises at Revere beach were wide open yesterday, and the great boulevard from one end to the other presented an almost unbroken front of holiday gayety and activity.

Flags were flying from every available pole, museums, merry-go-rounds, scenic theatre and railways, and all the nautical attractions were in merry blast, while more than a dozen dealers in beach pails and shovels, canes and souvenirs did a rattling business all day.

In front of each amusement enterprise, with the exception of some of the nautical features, hung a sign which stated that the show was run by a benevolent organization.

Conspicuous for their closing, however, were the photographers, some of whom were in court recently. Not one photographer offered to do business yesterday.

POPE LEO BURIED

Body of Dead Pontiff Interred in St. Peter's

By Associated Press to The Sun

ROME, July 27.--The body of Pope Leo was interred in St. Peter's Saturday night. The strokes of the hammer which resounded through the immense dome of the cathedral announced to the earnest gathering in the nave that Leo XIII had been laid to rest.

At sundown the most important and solemn of all the obsequies took place. The front doors of the basilica were closed and the vast church appeared deserted save for a row of lights at the shrine of St. Peter, the candles about the bier and those persons who had with the utmost reverence gathered there.

About 1000 persons had received invitations to attend the ceremonies. The cardinals, who met earlier in the Vatican, entered the chapel choir, waiting there for the arrival of the procession, Cardinal Oreglia holding the keys of a command.

Through special permission a representative of the Associated Press was allowed to enter the Chapel of the Sacrament before the remains of the dead pontiff were removed. Cardinal Rampolla, as arch-priest of the basilica, was waiting outside the gates. In violet robes, surrounded by the chapter of the cathedral, which was led by Mgr. Ceppetelli, who conducted the service.

Drs. Lapponi and Mazzoni directed the work of the removal of the bier, which was executed by eight sediari, or pope's carriers, attired in their brilliant red brocade costumes. They at first tried to raise the bier, but, finding it too heavy, they slid it on to a low car with noiseless wheels.

Then, to the strains of the "Miserere," the procession carrying candles and torches, slowly left the chapel and went up the church, passing the bronze statue and beyond the shrine of St. Peter. Those gathered fell to their knees.

St. Peter's is peculiarly fitted to be the background of such a scene. The cold whiteness of her vast pillars showed up the bright uniforms of the guards, the violet robes of the clergy and the red of the bier, while the flickering light of the candles made the funeral procession the only visible object and rendered the obscurity behind it more noticeable.

After slow progress around the church, the cortege arrived at the chapel choir, the bier being so carried that the dead pope entered head first, according to the ceremonial, the chapel from semi-obscurity flashing into the brilliancy of the suddenly turned on electric lights.

Here all those who had received invitations were stopped, remaining in the main part of the basilica behind a double line of the Swiss guards. Within the chapel was Count Camillo Pecci, a nephew of the late pope, wearing the red uniform of a general of the noble guard.

In the chapel the music changed to notes of joy and triumph. From the outside the five bells of St. Peter's rang their accustomed salute to the coming night, mingled harmoniously with the music of the choir.

The scene in the chapel was most effective. The bier bearing the body of the pontiff was received by Cardinal Oreglia. It was placed in the centre, backed by an altar with a beautiful image of the Madonna, before which were burning four immense candles.

Around the two sides of the chapel, in the choir seats, were 36 cardinals, all wearing violet robes except Cardinals Gotti and Pierotti, who wore white mantles of their orders; Cardinal Martinelli in black, as an Augustinian, and Cardinal Vives y Tuto, in Franciscan brown.

In the middle of the right side of the chapel, among the cardinals, sat Prince Mercantonio Colonna, assistant to the pontifical throne, with an empty seat next him, owing to the fact that Prince Orsini, who held the same position, had resigned.

The body was sprinkled with holy water, absolution was given and the foot of Leo XIII was kissed for the last time by Major Domo Cagiano, Master of the Chamber Gisletti and Count Camillo Pecci. The major domo then covered the venerable features and hands with a white silk veil bordered with gold. Over this the prefect of ceremonies spread a large red silk veil which covered the whole person.

Fire was lighted in a brasier and blown by a bellows, the sparks rising almost to the ceiling, while Mgr. Bartolini read for about 20 minutes the oratio brevis, eulogizing the dead pontiff, and Notary Popani, 84 years old, read out the burial record, a service which he performed upon the occasion of the deaths of Pope Gregory XVI. and Pope Pius IX.

The Monsignors of the Basilica, aided by the noble guard, then laid all that was mortal of Leo XII. in a cypress coffin lined with red satin and bearing on the cover an inlaid cross, the entire sacred college and Prince Colonna rising to their feet as a last tribute and sign of respect.

When the body had been placed in the coffin it was entirely concealed with the red velvet covering which before had been on the bier. The major domo put beside the body two silk purses containing coins of silver and a bronze medal struck during Leo's pontificate. A eulogy, written in magnificent Latin and setting forth the great events of Pope Leo's life and reign, inclosed in a metal tube, was also interred with the body.

When all had been arranged the supreme prayer was said and the last benediction given, all present joining. Half suppressed sobs were heard on all sides.

The second coffin was of lead and very heavy. On the cover at the head was a cross, just below which was a skull and cross bones, while below these were the arms of the late pope, with the triple crown, but without the colors as they signify living authority. At the bottom was a plate bearing the following inscription:

"Corpus Leoni P. H. Vixit an XCIII. Eccles Univers Prefuit an XXV. Menesis 5. Obiit Die XX Julii an MCXIII."

This coffin was sealed personally with the arms of the Camerliengo. The major domo of the chapter of the Basilica lighted a brasier which was used in soldering the coffin, producing sounds and sights strange to hear and see in a church. These coffins were enclosed in a third casket of polished walnut without decoration.

When the last supreme moment came, the heavy coffin, weighing in all 1322 pounds, was rolled out of the chapel, preceded by mace bearers and choirs singing as they went, and followed by all the cardinals, among whom the bowed figure of Oreglia, the strong, upright Vannutelli brothers, the white-haired Agliardi and the immense, black-browed Svampa, were the most conspicuous. Pulleys were attached to the coffin and soon, to the strains of the "Benedictus Dominus Deus Israel," it was hoisted to the stone sarcophagus above the door, where it will remain until the grateful cardinals created by the late pontiff shall erect a suitable tomb in the basilica of St. John Lateran, which was chosen by the pope himself as his final resting place.

Thus was Pope Leo consigned to his long rest.

NARROW ESCAPE

Aeronaut Half Dead When Picked Up

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW HAVEN, July 27.—Alfred Patneau, an aeronaut, who made a balloon ascension at Savin Rock at 10 o'clock Saturday night, came very near finding a watery grave in Long Island sound. Patneau carried along in his balloon a quantity of fireworks which he expected to explode. The fireworks proved defective and the big balloon disappeared in the darkness.

Patneau was hurled against the flag pole on the Savin Rock theatre and then carried out over the sound. He made up his mind that he had struck a current that was carrying him out to sea and he cut loose his parachute.

He landed two miles off shore, but fortunately amid some oyster beds. His life preserver buoyed him up and he fortunately got hold of an oyster stake buoy. There he clung for two hours and yelled for help.

His cries were finally heard at City Point and four rowboats put out to search for him. Charles Hunt and Herbert Sturup, Jr., were the first to reach Patneau. He was up to his neck in water and half dead.

He was taken to the home of Joseph Larrabee in Howard avenue, where a physician worked over him for an hour. He was so nearly gone that they did not dare to move him to the hospital until nearly morning. Patneau was suffering from exhaustion, but after a night's rest he recovered sufficiently to leave the hospital last evening.

His home is in Haverhill, Mass. He is only 19 years of age. He says he will be ready to make ascensions again this week. Patneau was to set off fireworks, so that his course over Long island could be followed by a steam launch. The fireworks failed to explode and he was lost in the darkness.

The balloon landed early yesterday morning on the East Haven green, 10 miles from this city.

FOUND IN SEWER

By Associated Press to The Sun

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., July 27.—With a shoe lace tied tightly around the neck, the body of a woman was found in a sewer yesterday by a boy whose curiosity was aroused by coming up on a break in the sewer. The body appeared to be that of a German woman, a blonde, 30 years old, five feet, 8 inches tall, and weighing 145 pounds. The coroner said the woman had not been dead 24 hours. Although viewed by many people at the morgue the body has not been identified.

REQUIEM SERVICE

out to the letter, including the palled catafalque, with head slightly raised and towards the altar. Candles burned at both ends of the catafalque and the crucifix was towards the congregation.

The celebrant of the solemn requiem mass was Rev. Isadore Tresch, O. M. I., and he was assisted in the celebration by Rev. Lawrence J. Tighe, O. M. I., as deacon and Rev. Patrick J. McGrath, O. M. I., sub-deacon.

The choir was assisted by the full American orchestra and was under the direction of Mr. P. P. Haggerty. Schmidt's mass was sung, and after the Libera the choir sang the "Quando Corpus" from Rossini's Stabat Mater.

Rev. Eugene A. Dorgan, O. M. I., pastor of the church, delivered an eloquent sermon on the deceased pontiff. In opening the reverend speaker told the congregation that he would not go into the life of the deceased pope in detail as the newspapers had already told the story. Rev. Father Dorgan spoke on the debt of gratitude the world owed Leo. The reverend speaker said that when Pope Leo ascended the throne at St. Peter's there was a great deal of opposition to the church, but that through his efforts this has been largely overcome.

The world also owed Leo a debt of gratitude in regard to the encyclical on marriage, a duty of course which is known by the people, but which some were beginning to neglect on account of divorces granted by the civil courts. In the encyclical on marriage, the deceased pontiff made a firm endeavor to make marriage as binding all over the country as it is in the Catholic church.

Father Dorgan then spoke of the effect of the pope's teachings and encyclicals even in New England, where there had been a great deal of bigotry and opposition. The people all over the world realized the good works of Pope Leo. The reverend speaker spoke of the honesty of purpose in all the works of His Holiness, even when it displeased His own people. He spoke of the Fenian uprisings in which the pope's decree was against his own people and in favor of England, in order to have law and order. His works were all done openly and honestly and in the interest of the people.

Father Dorgan dwelt on the encyclical of the late pope in which the latter urged unity and the bringing the people together in one fold. At the close of his sermon the preacher urged the people to offer up their prayers for the repose of the soul of the late Pope Leo.

AT ST. MICHAEL'S.

The services at St. Michael's church were of unusual impressiveness, indicative of the great sorrow felt at the death of the pontiff. A large congregation attended the solemn high mass of requiem which was celebrated at 10.30 o'clock. The grand main altar was stripped of its usual adornments and only the light of a dozen candles illuminated that marble structure. The candle sticks were twined with purple, caught in the center with bows of white. Overhead the entire sanctuary was draped with white tasseled purple cloth. The chancel railing was hidden behind covering of purple and even the pulpit was decked with the mourning colors. The facade of the altar base had panels of purple with large white crosses and everywhere purple was entwined on the great altar. The effect was very striking and the entire feature was designed by Sister Monita, one of the Dominican Sisters in charge of the parochial school. The priests wore the black vestments. Within the sanctuary rested a catafalque ten feet in height and this was surrounded by six candles and candelabra. It was elevated, the head of the casket being towards the altar. The celebrant of the mass was Rev. Fr. Mullen, assisted by Rev. E. A. Carney, deacon, and Rev. Charles F. Sullivan, a seminarian and a resident of Collinsville, sub-deacon. Rev. Dennis Murphy was master of ceremonies. The sermon was preached by Rev. Fr. Carney who paid eloquent tribute to the deceased pontiff. The sermon dealt with the important events in the pope's life and particular mention was made of his efforts to unite all in peace. The world owes a great debt to Pope Leo, said the preacher, for all he has done for mankind. When he assumed the papacy he found the country disturbed and all affairs in an unsettled state. His efforts were directed in the work of bringing about peace and quiet and his conciliatory policy accomplished much for which the world should feel grateful. Today, be said, the entire people, infidel, heathen and Christian mourn for the loss of a good man. The preacher referred to the important encyclicals written by the pope on Christian marriage, socialism and the labor question and pointed out that at all times Leo was the friend of the oppressed. He asked all to pray for the repose of his soul, and that God may give him that reward which all earn who live according to His commands.

The music for the mass was rendered by the regular quartet of the church assisted by the choir. Director Murphy had prepared a special program for the service and Miss White presided at the organ.

The rubrics of the requiem mass provide for the singing of the "De Profundis," and so this was sung instead of the Asperges which is always sung just before the beginning of the celebration of the high mass on Sundays. Mr. Boulger sustained the solos and the quartet responses were given without organ accompaniment. At the offertory the beautiful and difficult "Quando Corpus" from Rossini's Stabat Mater was rendered by the quartet without organ accompaniment. Mr. James A. Murphy sang the tenor solo, Leybach's "Pie Jesu," after the elevation, and immediately after the sermon the Libera was chanted. Absolution was then pronounced by Rev. Fr. Mullen and at the conclusion of the service the quartet sang Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar," this being included in the musical program at the request of the pastor, Rev. Fr. Shaw. As the clergy and altar boys filed out of the sanctuary the quartet sang "Nearer, My God, to Thee." The entire service was strikingly solemn and impressive.

ST. PATRICK'S.

Masses for the repose of the soul of Pope Leo XIII were sung at St. Patrick's, not only by the rector and curates of the parish but by three visiting clergymen, Rev. Frs. Bonfield and O'Meara of Chicago, Ill., and Rev. John Casey of Rexville, N. Y. The last named officiated in the chapel of Notre Dame academy. Rev. Fr. Bonfield is a relative of Fr. O'Brien and was present in Ireland with the late Rev. Michael O'Brien when the latter died.

The mourning decorations were very striking, both interior and exterior, being draped in black with white border.

Solemn high mass of requiem was sung at 10.30 o'clock by Rev. James Walsh, assisted by Rev. John J. McHugh, deacon and Rev. T. J. Callahan, sub-deacon. Rev. William O'Brien, P. R., occupied a seat within the sanctuary. The choir under the direction of Prof. Fred Bond rendered Schmidt's beautiful requiem mass. At the offertory Prof. Bond sang Leybeck's "Pie Jesu," and as the congregation left the church "De Profundis" was sung by the choir. The eulogy was delivered by Rev. Fr. McHugh.

The preacher gave an eloquent review of the life of the late pope, its effect upon the world and upon the church. He also pointed out the vast amount of good that had resulted from the encyclicals issued by Pope Leo, by his statesmanship and his efforts to preserve peace and good feeling among the powers of and peoples of the earth. The sermon was attentively listened to by a very large congregation.

NEW PORTUGUESE PARISH.

Rev. J. V. Rosa, pastor of St. Anthony's (Portuguese) church of this city, the members of the church choir and several singers from other Catholic church choirs of this city and about 100 members of the congregation went to Lawrence yesterday and assisted in the first mass for the Portuguese of that city which was held in the Immaculate Conception church at 10.30 o'clock.

Rev. Fr. Rosa was the celebrant of the mass and also spoke upon the pope. He asked prayers for the repose of the soul of the pontiff.

Rosewig's entire mass was sung and Nevins' "Veni Creator" was rendered by Miss Hannah Kilkenney. At the offertory "Benedict" by Cherubini was sung by Pete A. Clune, C. F. Calnan and Frank McCarthy. The organist was Miss Lulu Glinty and the director of the choir was Peter A. Clune. The singers were: Sopranos, Miss Hattie Fox, Miss White of Lawrence; altos, Miss Hannah Kilkenney and Mrs. Catherine Towle of Lawrence; tenors, P. A. Clune, C. F. Calnan and John Buckley; baritone, Daniel S. O'Brien and bass, Frank McCarthy. Hugh McElroy of this city played clarinet obligatos during the mass and before the mass played a solo.

ST. JOSEPH'S CHURCH.

At St. Joseph's, Rev. Fr. Lamothe, O. M. I., officiated, assisted by Rev. Fr. Reillard, O. M. I., as deacon and Rev. Brother McNamara, O. M. I., as sub-deacon.

Rev. Fr. Fournier, O. M. I., the director of St. Joseph's church, delivered the eulogy. He took as his text, "And I will raise me up a faithful priest, who shall be according to my heart and my soul."—First Book of Kings, II-35.

During his remarks Fr. Fournier referred to his own personal experience with the late pontiff. Fr. Fournier met the Holy Father in Rome 12 years ago and told of his shaking hands with the head of the church. On being told that Fr. Fournier was a French Canadian, the pope said how much he loved the Canadians, who were among the most faithful of his subjects. He also told Fr. Fournier that he loved the Oblates. During this he held Fr. Fournier firmly but kindly by the hand, and the Lowell clergyman says that so great was the powerful magnetism of the pontiff that he felt a sort of fluid penetrating him as Leo spoke these affectionate words to him. At this point of his narrative Fr. Fournier bowed his head, overcome with emotion, while his voice broke and tears filled his eyes. Every one among the listeners was deeply moved.

Miss Blanche Dextra gave Gounod's "Pie Jesu" at the elevation. At the offertory Michael's "Pie Jesu" was sung by the choir, and at the communion Rossini's "Quando Corpus" was given by Misses Ida Tarte and Blanche Dextra and Messrs. A. Joly and H. A. Racicot. The mass sung was that of the harmonized plain chant. As a processional Mr. Vincellette gave Beethoven's funeral march and as a recessional Chopin's. Mr. H. A. Racicot directed the choir.

SACRED HEART CHURCH.

At the low masses at the Sacred Heart church yesterday special prayers were offered for the deceased pope.

At 10.30 a solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Fr. Kerwin, O. M. I.; with Rev. Fr. McGurty, O. M. I., as deacon, and Rev. Fr. Flynn, O. M. I., as sub-deacon.

"The Influence of Leo's Encyclical Letters on the Christian World" was the subject of the sermon by Rev. Fr. Flynn.

The musical portion of the service was under the direction of Mrs. T. H. Muldoon and Cherubini's requiem mass was sung by the choir. Mrs. Muldoon was the organist.

AT COLLINSVILLE.

The people of Collinsville paid tribute to the dead pontiff yesterday morning. Mass was celebrated in the little church by Rev. Dennis Murphy, who also spoke in eulogy of Pope Leo and dwelt on the universal manifestations of grief at his death, as a tribute to his worth and his work in the world. The altar was very prettily draped in purple as was the auditorium of the church.

ST. ANTHONY'S CHURCH.

On account of the choir of St. Anthony's church going to Lawrence to participate in forming a congregation there no solemn mass of requiem was sung.

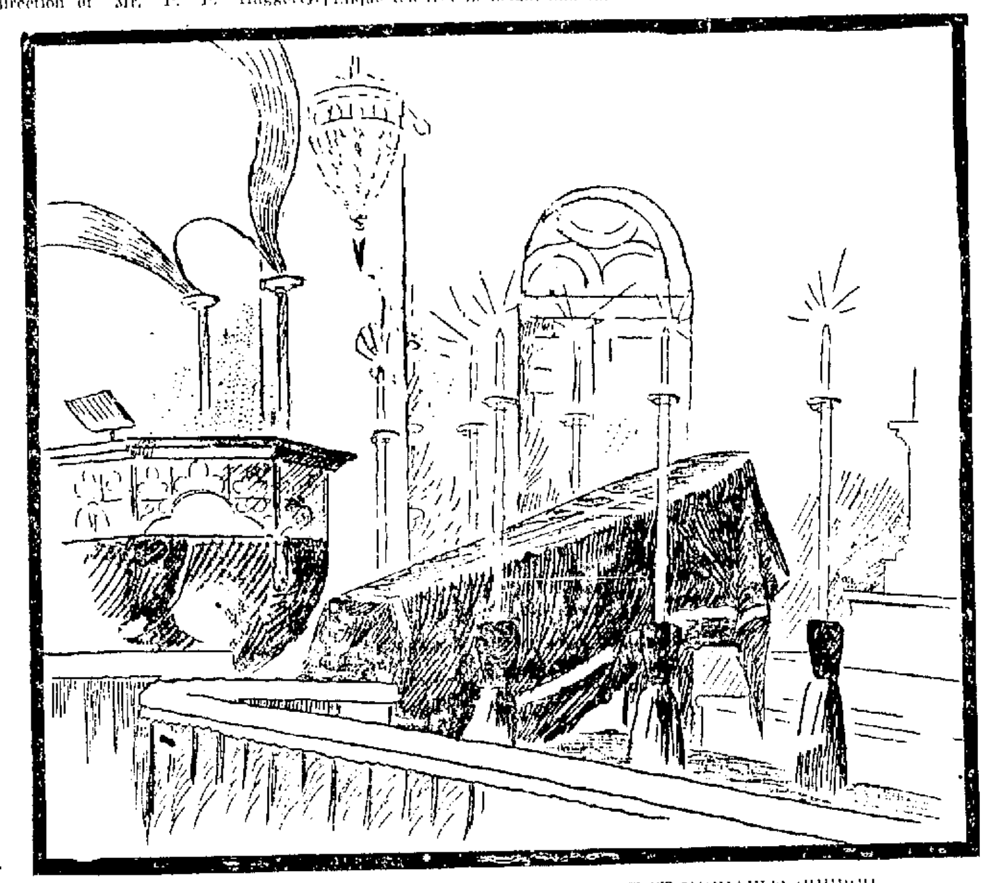

At 10.30 o'clock a low mass was celebrated by Rev. Fr. H. R. Ferreira, the new curate of the church, and who came to this city from St. Michael's, Azores, only last Friday. Next Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock the solemn high mass of requiem will be celebrated. Prayers for the repose of the soul of the dead pope will be said at that time, and a eulogy will be delivered by the pastor, Rev. J. V. Rosa.

ST. JEAN BAPTISTE.

At St. Jean Baptiste, Rev. Fr. Campeau, O. M. I., officiated, with Rev. Fr. Amyot, O. M. I., as deacon, and Rev. Brother Strauss, O. M. I., as sub-deacon.

Rev. Fr. Diss, O. M. I., delivered the papal eulogy, and took as his text the words of Christ as recorded in Matthew, "Thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church."

The choir, under the direction of Dr. George E. Calsse, with Miss Alexander at the organ, gave Perreault's harmonized mass of the dead. At the elevation Dr. Calsse sang Wiegand's "O Meritum Passionis." At the commencement of the service Miss Alexander gave Beethoven's funeral march, and at its conclusion the "Dead March of Saul."

Major League Doings — King Kelley's Plaint — Salaries

THE baseball season has reached the apex of its annual flight, and the season will now gradually wane as the fall approaches. The battle for first place in the American league proves the most interesting by reason of its closeness compared with that of the National. In the latter organization the Pittsburgs have a commanding position, which they should have no great difficulty in holding or, in fact, improving, and at present it seems likely that the tribe of Dreyfuss will make it three straight. Should the Pirates capture the pennant again this year President Dreyfuss will take the team abroad, playing in Australia and probably giving exhibitions in other countries.

Boston, Philadelphia, Cleveland and New York seem to be the likeliest pennant possibilities in the American league. The Bean Eaters and Connie Mack's Athletics have been putting up a fast article of ball and ought to finish one, two, in the order named on form computation.

St. Louis Teams In the Doldrums.

Both the St. Louis teams have been having rather a difficult row to hoe. Neither the Nationals nor the Americans appear to be able to play a game acceptable to the "fans," and not since the interclub series at the beginning of the season have the teams drawn the kind of crowds that mean a balance of cash on hand at the year's close.

Of course Patsey Donovan's Cardinals have been severely handicapped by the loss of Burkett, Heidrick and Padden. The acquisition of these stars, however, does not seem to have helped the Browns to any great extent. The latter team has been the means of helping many American nines up the ladder by its weak performances, and the same may be said of Donovan's troupe in the National. So what consolation is there in the situation for the backers of either of the St. Louis nines?

Good Individual Players.

Still, in spite of the low rating of the two teams, there are several individual players on both nines that are putting up a creditable article of ball. Take Jesse Burkett, the "scrappy" left fielder of Jimmy McAleer's Americans as an instance. Burkett made a reputation as a batsman with the St. Louis Nationals and since he has bunked with the American aggregation has shown that he has not forgotten how to wield the stick. He is one of the timeliest and most consistent hitters in the business.

Then there are Frank Donahue and Mike Kahoe, the former a pitcher and the latter the famous catcher, who are instilling all kinds of ginger into their work. Donahue is considered by many to be the bright particular star in the St. Louis Americans' twirling department, and he certainly has a splendid record.

Kahoe is one of the old timers in baseball. He can catch with his eyes shut and can throw to second with his arms in a sling. Mike cannot help playing ball well. In fact, he is said to have begun to play bawl while in his cradle.

Listen to Joe Kelley!

Joe Kelley, the irascible captain and manager of the Cincinnatis, has another kick registered with the secretary of the American Objection association, of which "King Kel" is a charter member. "Kel" says the umpires have too much power and that no player is safe while these bloodthirsty villains are permitted to roam at will. The fact that he believes the umpires to have combined to exterminate the genus ball player from the broad domains of this fair land has caused the ex-captain of the Brooklyns to lose a lot of sleep lately, and it has worn on him so that he recently had to call in the reporters and tell those kind hearted souls all about it.

The Dreadful Umpires.

The umpires abuse their privileges, according to "Kel." They order men out of games for almost any old kind of a reason and take especial delight, so he avers, in waving out of the grounds objectors to manifestly wrong decisions. "Kel's" idea is to have the league officials curtail the powers of the umpires to such an extent that they will have to obtain the permission of the score keeper before they can light a cigarette and that they will have to get the written consent of the league president before they can call a man out on strikes. We all can see the wisdom of "Kel's" arguments and advocate that he consult a physician immediately. The symptoms are alarming.

Ed Delehanty's Career.

The recent death of Ed Delehanty, better known as "the Only Del" and "Home Run Delehanty," was tragic in the extreme. It goes to show that the sooner a ball player cuts out all sorts of dissipation from his programme the better off he will be. "Del" had been living a rather fast life for the last year and had lost a large sum of money at the New Orleans races. His losses made him despondent, for when he came to his senses at the close of the New Orleans season he found that he had spent the greater part of $4,000 advance money drawn from the New York National league club. The major leagues decided that he could not play with the New Yorks this year because he had signed an agreement with the Washington club of the American league prior to his contracting with the Giants. He accordingly went to Washington after doing all in his power to obtain the privilege of playing with New York.

"Del" Was In Poor Form.

The Washingtons paid New York the advance money that had been placed at "Del's" disposal, and the latter jumped into his playing togs, appearing with the Senators for several weeks. "Del" could not seem to get his eye on the ball, however, and the "fans" were greatly disappointed by his showing. The Washington management prodded him along a bit, and he said: "Wait until the warm days come; then you will see me line them out." The warm days came, and still "Del" was playing a poor game. Suddenly he disappeared from the club, and nothing more was heard of him until like a thunderbolt came the news of his death.

A Noted Player.

Delehanty was one of the best known and most valuable ball players in America. He was thirty-seven years old and a native of Cleveland. He was the oldest of five brothers, all professional ball players. In 1899 he led the batting list of the National league, with a percentage of .408. Last year he led the American league, with the redoubtable Napoleon Lajoie ranking second.

High Salaries Soon to Go.

The high salaried ball players have been coming in for their "bumps" of late, and it is certain that the widespread agitation of the subject will bear fruit at some date not far distant. The present salaries, of course, extend only to the time stated in the contracts, and now that the two major leagues have "got together" it is a foregone conclusion that they will chop down the excessively high prices paid for the services of the leading players.

Prominent men in both the American and National leagues are even now considering plans for a joint agreement on a salary limit, after the fashion in vogue in some of the minor leagues. Then will the golden days of the ball tosser be at an end, for a period, at least, and once more will they have to subsist on the lean fare of the athletes of days gone by. It will be a sad awakening, but such is the fortune of war and baseball.

A well known club owner told the writer not long ago that it was his belief that beginning with 1904 the salary limit of both the big leagues will be placed at not more than $2,500, truly a striking contrast to the days of the present, when men like Willie Keeler, Lajoie, Fred Clarke, Pitcher Christy Mathewson and others receive sums well over the $5,000 mark for their services for a single summer.

BERTHA GALLAND AND HER NEW PLAY.

The new play in which Bertha Galland is to star next season is "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall." It is a dramatization by Paul Kester of the latest novel by Charles Major, author of "When Knighthood Was In Flower." Miss Galland will open in the play Sept. 28 in the Chestnut Street Opera House, Philadelphia.

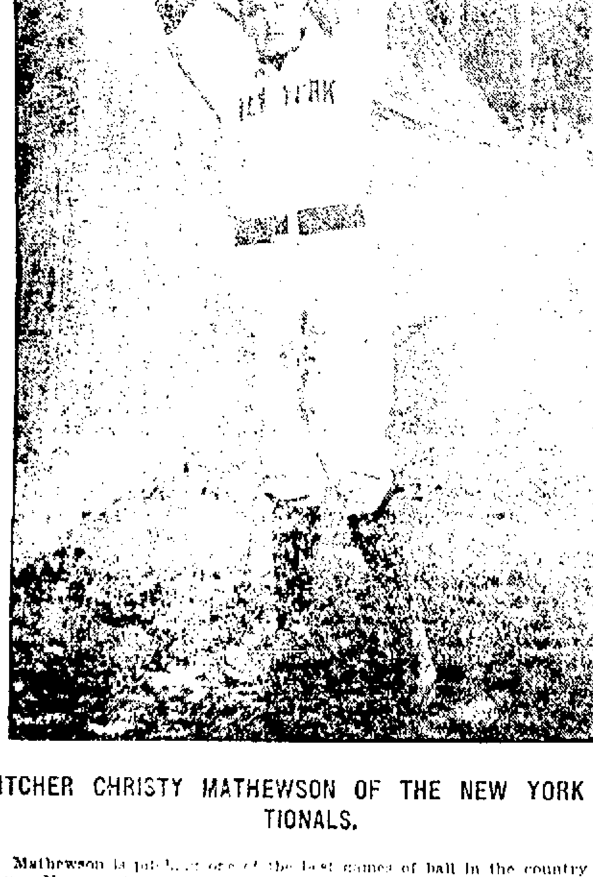

J. Fred Zimmerman, Miss Galland's manager, has engaged William Lewers, a former member of Julia Marlowe's "The Cavalier" company, for leading man. He will enact the role of Sir John Manners. Mr. Lewers was to have appeared with Mrs. Langtry next season, but at the request of Mr. Major and Mr. Kester she agreed to release him. Frank Losee will be Sir George Vernon, Dorothy's father, a strong character part.

Mathewson is pitching some of the best games of ball in the country these days. He recently won take consecutive games and is the mainstay of the Giants in their fight for the pennant. A MIDGET JOCKEY.

St. Louis has been noted in the last few years for many attractive characteristics. Her latest claim to originality is that she has now within her boundary one of the smallest jockeys in the world.

This latest recruit to riding honors in St. Louis is a little bit of a tot named James Hennessy.

He is the smallest boy that has ever taken part in an actual race in any race course in the United States.

And this means that he is probably the smallest in the world. He is not small through any oversight or unkindness of nature, but simply because he is young, being only eleven years old. His height is 3 feet 10 inches.

With all this he is a sturdy chap and can hold his own with any boy of his age.

His weight is fifty-six pounds, so that if he were invited to ride a good horse in a handicap the lead in the saddle would outweigh the jockey himself.

James was born in St. Louis of Irish parents, and as he lived in the neighborhood of the fair grounds he was always around the stables and occasionally managed to be allowed to exercise some of the thoroughbreds that are constantly there.

Although he has only ridden in two or three races, he is very vain about his profession already, and he recently had an encounter with a boy who laughed at his pretensions to jockeyship.

His antagonist was some fifteen pounds heavier than he, but James had no trouble in defeating him.

Hennessy is at present under the care and protection of Wade Harris, who is a horse trainer of recognized ability. Harris has a five year contract on the boy's services and intends to teach him all he knows about the riding game.

Jimmy has two great friends in the animal world that he values highly. One is the race horse Handsborough, who will come at the boy's call and deliberately kiss him.

Another is a beautiful water spaniel. This dog is wonderfully intelligent, and he is Hennessy's constant companion. The boy was recently engaged to ride the horse Called Back.

SPORTING ...GOSSIP

Lipton's Aggressive Modesty — Golf.... — The Turf — Pugilism

IT is with the utmost confidence that the American yachting sharps await the sailing of the America's cup races. The challenger has come, has been seen in trials during all sorts and conditions of wind and wave, and that she will conquer there seems to be not even the slightest chance. So paste this statement in your respective hats, all ye croaking pessimists and doubters. The time will come and is not far distant when you will be strikingly reminded of its truth.

While the trials on this side of the Atlantic have shown the decided superiority of Shamrock III. over Shamrock I., it is the fervent hope of all Yankeedom that the day is far off when a craft of the mediocre ability of Shamrock I. will be considered a worthy "trial horse" for a prospective America's cup defender. Our actual knowledge of the performances of Shamrock I. in many kinds of weather is such that no matter how much we may admire the sportsmanship of Sir Thomas we cannot consider any comparisons in which she figures as having any important significance. If John Jones' bay horse Billy the Bug can defeat Sam Smith's plow horse sixteen minutes in a mile, would you feel warranted, "gentle reader," as the novelists say, in putting your real gold on the aforementioned Billy the Bug to win a Suburban, an American Derby or a Brooklyn handicap? Assuredly not, and therefore don't permit your Anglomaniac friends to jolly you into wagering the price of a bonnet for your blue eyed sweetheart on the inflated chances of a British built cup challenger that has succeeded in worsting the plow horse of international yachting.

Lipton a Great Jollier.

But the omnipresent Sir Tom is bulling the Shamrock market in great style. He is the jollier-in-ordinary of the yachting world. He says Shamrock I. is so much faster now compared to her form of four years ago that he had serious thoughts of challenging with her this year. Only his consideration for the feelings of George Watson, designer of Shamrock II., prevented him from so doing, so it is alleged.

And as for Shamrock III.—why, she is so wonderful, according to the gallant globster of yachting experience, that only his regard for the American public prevents him from accepting the America's cup without the formality of winning it. He insists on giving us a chance to defend it. Surely such a noble spirit should be rewarded. It has been insinuated by some of our foreign admirers that Americans have not yet taken time to learn the proper way of showing gratitude as a nation. We are accused of court martialing our successful military men, of "investigating" the operations of our victorious naval officers, of not sending rich gifts to the Akound of Swat, who refused to annex Texas; all these base sins of commission and omission are tallied against us. To expose their falsity why do we not show our appreciation of Lipton's magnanimity by electing him a signer of the Declaration of Independence or by sending him a life subscription to the Congressional Record?

Lipton's Modesty Exposed.

In a recent interview Sir Thomas, who had been coaxed from his shell for the fifth time in four minutes by insolent representatives of the press, said:

"I expect to lift the cup with Shamrock III., and she'll win her three straight races by at least five minutes' margin, barring accidents."

Such evidence of a retiring, diffident disposition is rarely brought to light outside the circles of American political life. All the more credit is due Sir Tom. We do not believe that his motto is "Every man his own press agent," and we stamp his reported statement that "Conversation victories are the spice of a yachtsman's life" as a base libel on the well circulated name of one who early realized that the inner circles of English royalty can be butted into by the man with the dough.

A New Golf Organization.

The new Women's Western Golf association should prove a decided benefit to the supporters of the game in the wide territory covered by the organization. Representatives of fourteen clubs met at Chicago recently and formed the association, its stated object being "to promote team play and to give an annual championship tournament."

The clubs interested included all those within a radius of 500 miles of Chicago that were members of the Western and United States Golf associations, and the outlook is that entire success will crown the movement to give women players wide recognition as golf factors of national importance.

The officers elected are thoroughly representative, and the personnel of the executive staff, which is made up of women of playing reputation, is such as will command the confidence of the supporters of the game.

The officers are as follows: President, Miss Alexander, Exmore; vice president, Mrs. Deworf, Onwentsia; secretary, Mrs. Brower, Edgewater; treasurer, Mrs. Bartlett, Lake Geneva; directors, Miss Carpenter, Indianapolis Country club; Miss Anthony, Glenview; Miss Cotton, Chicago Golf club; Miss Taft, Midlothian; Miss Douglas, Cedar Rapids, Ia.

Racing at Brighton Beach, N. Y.

The midsummer meeting of the Brighton Beach (New York) Racing association has just closed after seventeen days of exceptional prosperity. The attendance broke all records for the course, and the races were of a distinctly high class.

The principal event of the meeting was the Brighton handicap, worth almost $20,000, which was captured by the sensational record breaker Waterboy, bred and owned by John B. Haggin. Other valuable races at Brighton were the Brighton Derby, $10,000; the Produce stakes, $15,000; Brighton Junior, $10,000, and the Brighton cup, $10,000.

The next races at Brighton will be the trotting events of the grand circuit scheduled for Aug. 17-22. The Brighton Beach track will close its season of activity in the fall with its annual autumn meeting for the thoroughbreds.

The Brighton track is attractively situated just outside of Brooklyn and within a few hundred feet of the Atlantic ocean. The course is considered one of the fastest in the world.

Jeffries and His Troubles.

The members of the happy pugilistic family of Jim Jeffries, now dallying with the salty zephyrs of the Pacific coast, are anything but harmonious these days, and Tommy Ryan, if you please, has caused most of the trouble, with Bob Fitzsimmons running a close second as a disturber.

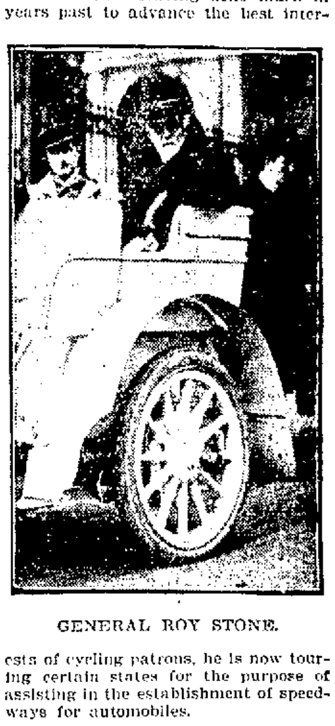

Tommy tied himself up to the Jeffries camp together with Fitz to assist in preparing the bigger Jim for the coming championship bout to be held in Frisco. He of the clan of Ryan shortly became dissatisfied with the modus operandi of the training quarters and "vamoosed the ranch." That was bad enough. But, to make matters worse, from Jeff's viewpoint, Tommy bought a ticket for Corbettville and offered his services to the ex-champion. He of the pompadour that was accepted Tommy's proposition to become sparring partner. Straightway the news was carried to Jeff, and his conversation is said to have been positively emphatic on the receipt of the "info."

But, stay! The end is not yet. Shortly after the victim of Kid McCoy's jabs and jolts escaped from the house of Jeff close unto the Gate called Golden the once mighty Fitz found occasion to hand the retort discourteous to one Billy Delaney—a sojourner of repute, who engineers Jeff's championship deals. And be it truthfully said, much smoke arose and the belligerents waxed exceeding wroth. Whereupon Fitz said, "I don't want to play in your yard." The one so addressed thereupon threw out his chest and in making reply spake thusly, "Take your clothes and go." And when the eventide drew near these obstreperous individuals were seated far apart, each wearing chips on their respective shoulders. And still doth their coolness remain warm in spite of the fact that he of the full grown freckles remaineth close unto the dwelling of his two times conqueror.

THE SEAWANHAKA CUP.

Eastern yachtsmen are taking considerable interest in the season's race for the Seawanhaka International cup, which has been held by the Royal Canadian Yacht club ever since 1896. The race will be sailed on the home waters of the latter club, Lake St. Louis.

At the annual meeting of the Seawanhaka-Corinthian Yacht club the report of the race committee informed the members that the Manchester Yacht club of Manchester, Mass., was the challenging club this year. Nothing definite was stated regarding the plans of that club for a suitable racing boat, but the fact has recently been announced that the Manchester club syndicate has already ordered two boats from Burgess and Packard, and one is already under construction. The syndicate of the club builders is headed by A. Henry Higginson and Reginald Boardman.

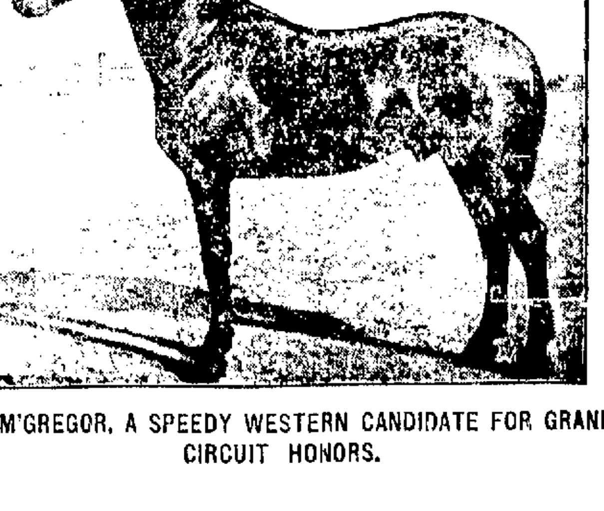

A third boat has also been designed by E. A. Boardman, a member of the Manchester club.

REVOLVER CONTESTS.

The championship matches of the United States Revolver association, which turned out to be such exciting and interesting contests last year, will be held again this year at Sea Girt, N. Simultaneously matches will take place at Boston, St. Louis, Chicago and San Francisco.

AN EXCITING FINISH

Fall River Won by One Run Saturday

McKenna and Morgan Each Hit for Seven Hits But the Home Team Bunched Them—Merritt Back in the Game

Lowell lost to Fall River Saturday in a pretty game and an exciting finish, the home team pulling off the victory in the eighth inning.

McKenna and Morgan were on the slabs and they were each hit for seven up but Fall River bunched their seven and hence the victory. Merritt, Lake, and Hickey were in the game again, all full of ginger, and the 4000 people present saw one of the best games of the season. Timely batting by Warren and Weddige did the business for the home team.

The Lowell team remained over in Fall River Saturday night and will play there again today.

GREAT PITCHING

McCarthy Struck Out 17 Men in Eight Innings

That the T. R. and T.'s of North Billerica are in a class by themselves has been proven repeatedly this season by their administering crushing defeats to teams bearing gilt edged reputations. Saturday afternoon they met and defeated the much touted Hewes & Potter team of Boston by the score of 19 to 0, in a game characterized by excellent pitching by McCarthy and heavy batting by the home team, Tim McCarthy, who pitched for the victorious team, made another record, striking out 12 of the first 15 men at the bat and 17 men in eight innings and allowing but one hit in all. Tom Murphy took his place in the ninth and struck out two men and retired the third man on an easy grounder.

The home team had their batting clothes on as usual and fattened their batting averages. They found the opposing team's pitchers for 18 with a total of 22. Murphy, Cowdrey, A. Hennessey and P. Hennessey had three hits each. The only hit made by the opposing team should have resulted in a put out, if the fielders only half tried for it.

INDEPENDENTS WON.

The Lowell Independents played a team of Bloomer Girls at the Fair Grounds Saturday and entertained nearly 800 spectators. The Bloomer Girls consisted of six women and three men and for women they put up quite a lively game of ball. The star player for the girls was Miss Neilson, the pitcher.

Miss Neilson batted better than any other player on either team. She was at bat five times and made four singles.

Although Miss Neilson had five strike outs to her credit, she was batted freely at times, Maguire being especially strong in this respect.

It was amusing to watch the expression of disgust on the faces of some of the Independents when they were struck out by the young lady. Albie Allard struck out once, as did Maguire, Tetreault, Fratus and Crawford. The lineup:

Independents—Maguire ss, McVoy 2b, Thorpe 1b, Tetreault c, Fratus p, Niland rf, Crawford cf, Allard 3b, Dunleavey lf.

Bloomer Girls—Miss Moore cf, Miss Hall lf, Mr. Mack c, Miss Neilson p and ss, Mr. McKenzie ss and p, Miss Dunbar 1b, Miss Sindquist 2b, Mr. Ledwidge 3b, Miss Butler rf.

DIAMOND NOTES.

Bushey will pitch today.

Red Gilligan umpired at Fall River, Saturday and did well.

Manchester had 10 errors in Saturday's game and still won. Talk about luck!

Mike Mahoney has been engaged to umpire at the Grocers' picnic next Thursday.

Billie Hamilton has not yet joined the Nashua team. It's a good bet that he won't either.

It looks natural to see Harry O'Neill back again at second base, but the fans believe that Chapman is the better man of the two.—Haverhill Gazette.

Lowell has won seven games from Haverhill and lost three this year. Slightly different from the results of the past two years, when Lowell was one of the easiest teams for the Shoemakers.

Howard Perry is rapidly developing into one of the finest catchers in the league. His batting and general all-round work is of the best.

Morgan of the Fall Rivers has pitched in nine games that were won by one run, and he has landed but two of these games. He is one of the best in the league at that.

Lowell, Manchester and Concord are giving the league a pretty race. Any day finds these teams shifting about. There is not a league in the country which is so close. And a couple of victories for Nashua would put that team back into the running.—Haverhill Gazette.

Richardson continues to play the game for the locals. Besides fielding in great shape he is batting finely, having missed only two games in the past 11 in getting in a safe drive. His facility for batting easy grounders seems to have passed him for good.—Haverhill Gazette.

John Carney went to Newport, N. H., with his team the other day and met defeat, and now John is so sore that he wants to bet $50 that the same team can trim the same team that Newport put up on any date that the Newports will make.

Once more we call Manager Lake's attention to young McCarthy of the T. R. and T.'s as a most promising pitcher. In Saturday's game he struck out 17 men in eight innings and 12 in the first five innings. The week before he struck out 13 men. In Saturday's game he allowed but one hit. Try him out, Freddie.

Concord got a chance to dodge another game yesterday on the "wet grounds" excuse. There was little rain in the forenoon and by feeling around the diamond Carney found a spot wet enough to convince Fred Lake that a postponement would be in order. The less games they play the slower the will go down the ladder.—Manchester Mirror.

The Manchester and Concord scribes are having a little war all to themselves this year. We can hardly see how that Concord bunch can go very far down the ladder under present conditions. We are beginning to think that Bro. Cooper was right when he "guessed" early in the season that Concord would finish second and Manchester first.

Tom McDermott wants to exchange Lake Dorsey for Roy Sheets. Both are good men, but we are of the opinion that Sheets is the better man, although Dorsey was not played enough to show his worth.—Haverhill Gazette.

The Concord Monitor can't see where Stroh will fit in the New Bedford team. The Monitor evidently did not know that Stroh was a great infielder, having played that position before he went behind the bat. Stroh fits right in at shortstop for the Doc aggregation, as Allen has been reduced to the bench. And Strohsie putting up a good game, too.

Jack Carney told Captain Weddige Thursday that if Fall River would take two out of three games from Manchester he would buy Al a new hat. Let's see if he was only joshing.—Fall River Globe.

Jack Titus' friends came from Concord yesterday, but the weather was a grievous disappointment. Jack has fallen off in his hitting now so that he is down to .254, and he has been taken off the team. Manager Zimmer said yesterday he did not consider the player ripe for fast company, although he promised well. He said Titus did not play with the confidence of an experienced player and seemed afraid to let himself out.—Boston Herald.

Pitcher George Lee of the Concords does not object to his nickname of "Nutty," but when the papers around the circuit take to printing it "Nutty" he has a strenuous kick coming.—Concord Monitor.

We have seen the little man when the name would fit him to perfection after some of the decisions made famous by certain umpires in the N. E. shakedown.—Haverhill Gazette.

The Lawrence American is already beginning to figure out that Lawrence ought to win the pennant next year. The American contends that if Manager Flanagan keeps the same team, with two good outfielders to help O'Hara out, there will be something doing next season. Rather early to make guesses. Better figure out the result of this year's contest first.

JUVENILE DIAMOND.

The West Chelmsford base ball team went to Pepperell Saturday afternoon and crossed bats with the Pepperell team. The score in the seventh inning was a tie 5 to 5, when a kick arose over a decision of the umpire and as the West Chelmsford team refused to play in the umpire's decision the umpire gave the game to Pepperell 9 to 0.

The Beacons defeated a picked team on the Mountain Rock grounds Saturday afternoon by a score of 1 to 0. A crowd of about a hundred saw the game.

The Riverside base ball club went to Maynard Saturday and defeated for the second time the strong team of that place by a score of 19 to 10. The features of the game were the brilliant playing of Hunt at second base and the good hitting of the Riversides. The latter would like to arrange a game for Saturday, August 4.

The Crescents defeated the Tulons of North Chelmsford by a score of 7 to 6. The features of the game were the pitching of Hickey of the Crescents, who had 10 strikeouts, also the timely batting of the Crescents. The batteries were Tighe and Gauthier for the Tulons, Hickey and Brigham for the Crescents.

The Crescent base ball team is open to meet any semi-professional team in the state. Send challenges to J. H. Owens, manager, 7 Walker place.

The Centralville Blues defeated the West Ends of North Chelmsford by a score of 20 to 11. The features of the game were the batting of J. Tate and the pitching of Gauley of the Blues.

Hudsons, Hudsons, rah! rah! rah! The Hudsons defeated the Hustlers last Friday, 14 to 4.

THREE VICTIMS

Train Crashed Into an Electric Car

By Associated Press to The Sun

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., July 27.—An accommodation train on the Vandalia road en route to St. Louis ran into a well-filled electric car on the East St. Louis & Suburban street railway near Lansdowne, three miles north of here, yesterday, killing three persons and injuring a score. The dead:

JOHN RAY, Vandalia, engineer.

J. J. LENHARTH.

DAVID H. BEATTIE.

The seriously injured:

Vincent Higgins, fireman, will die.

Charles Burkhardt, motorman.

W. E. Miller, electric car conductor.

The injuries of the others were not severe.

The accommodation train was drawn by an engine which was backing and was running at a good speed when suddenly the tender crashed into the trolley car at the street crossing.

CHEAPER COAL

MOVEMENT STARTED BY HAVERHILL BOARD OF TRADE.

Says the Haverhill Gazette:

The board of trade will interest itself in the coal question and every board in the Merrimack valley and also the state board of trade will be asked to assist them in their attempt to secure coal at cheaper rates than at present. Judge Abbott brought the matter to the attention of the directors of the board last evening and at his suggestion it was voted to take some action in regard to interesting the other boards in this vicinity and in the entire state, in the matter. Judge Abbott was of the opinion that something might be done to remove the duty from provincial coal, although he admitted that his plan would meet with the opposition from the mine owners in the United States. The board did not transact much important business except this. A committee of five was appointed to confer with Fred M. Hodgdon relative to returning to this city from Derry, N. H.

Judge Abbott thought that the boards of trades of New England should take some action on the coal question. He believed that the result of the coal strike and the arbitration committee's report had succeeded in raising the price of coal 25 per cent. He contended that this increase was gradually hampering manufacturers and thus gradually was depopulating the entire state. He stated that he thought there was no better plan to start a reform than in the boards of trade. The judge believed that the coal question was a most serious one. He thought that if the duty of provincial coal was taken off, conditions would be much better, although he added that this would meet with opposition from the coal producing regions. Judge Abbott then moved that the secretary be instructed to communicate with the state and Merrimack valley boards relative to some measures of bettering present conditions, and the motion prevailed.

WITH THE POLICE

Two Bad Boys Under Lock and Key

Napoleon Heroux, 15, was arrested by Officers Giroux and Mallonev Saturday evening and although he at first tried to make the officers believe he was a real good boy he finally broke down and admitted that he was the lad who broke into the grain store of Paul Vigeant & Co., in Moody street. He told how he concealed himself behind the sacks of grain when the store was being closed for the night and when the coast was clear how he "touched" the cash drawer for its contents, amounting to $4. And then, to get away, he dug a hole underneath the fence in the rear and made good his escape.

Inspector Walsh, Saturday evening, arrested Napoleon Paul, a boy who escaped from the Lyman school about three weeks ago.

TWO SEIZURES

Made by the Liquor Squad Saturday

Two small seizures were made by the liquor officers Saturday afternoon. They visited the premises occupied by Stephen H. Murphy at 251 Dutton street and found a pint and two half pints of whiskey there.

They next visited a former saloon at the corner of Malden lane and Market streets and found a small quantity of beer and some empty bottles.

BREWERY HELP

Held Merry Outing at Mountain Rock

That the relations of capital and labor are most harmonious at the Harvard Brewing Co.'s plant was emphasized on Saturday when the great plant shut down in order to give its employes a day's pleasure in the woods and all repaired to Mountain Rock grove where the festivities were held.

Even the man who gives us the weather was "with" the brewers, for Saturday was an ideal day for an outing in the woods.

Everyone took a hand in making the affair a grand success from the management down the line. When the employes notified Mr. Carl Grundler, the genial brewmaster, that they desired to have an outing on a working day he acted as a committee of one to interview the management and through his kind offices not only were the help allowed the day without loss of pay but were allowed wet refreshments without limit.

Thus it was a happy gathering that started away Saturday noon in two gaily decorated special cars with the National band, Dick Griffiths, leader at the head. The band met the party at the brewery and all marched down Plain street to Chelmsford where they took the specials. Aside from these many of the Germans took their families in carriages, Brewmaster Grundler's two seated carriage flying two large American flags.

Upon arrival at the picnic grounds the party repaired to the pavilion where a local caterer had provided a bountiful repast. During the dinner, the band rendered an acceptable program. After dinner the party roamed about the woods while the hall was being cleared for dancing and an impromptu program of sports was run off. The dancing was greatly enjoyed for the music was good and the dancers merry. There were nearly twice as many men as women present but the ladies didn't dive easily and the men found partners for every number. During an intermission big Dan Finnegan challenged any man in the grove to dance an Irish jig and Billy Johnnie McGuane took him up. They were given the entire floor and right royally they had at it. Little Johnnie was no match for big Dan but he worked an Irish trick on him. When he got tired out he watched his chance and while Dan was wheeling around with his back to his opponent, Billy Johnnie slid out and left Bob McMenamon slid in and when Dan got all the way around he found a new opponent dancing for dear life. Being a Kerry man he never quit and the holes were beginning to appear on the floor when the judges called it off and awarded the prize to Dan.

During another intermission the party, headed by the band, marched to an enclosure near the pavilion where James Doyle, chairman of the committee on games and communication made a brief speech and acted as presiding officer of an informal meeting. The other speakers were Carl Grundler, brewmaster, Hans Scholeuder, one of the assistant brewers, Emile Leiber of Boston, secretary of the Brewery Workers' union and Patrick Kelly and Giles A. McDonald of the board of directors. Mr. Grundler received great applause as he was introduced. He referred to the fact that though the president and the manager of the brewery were unable to be present they were heartily with the employes in spirit and endorsed them in their desire for an annual outing. Personally, he hoped that there would be no distinction of employes, such as inside outside and bottling house men, but all act as one great family of co-workers. After the speechmaking there was dancing and the woods rang with "Hi Le, Hi Le" the woods rang with "Hi Le, Hi Le" and "Down by the Tanyard Side." John T. Kirseth by special request sang "My Dad's Dinner Pail" and Joe King rendered a few selections.

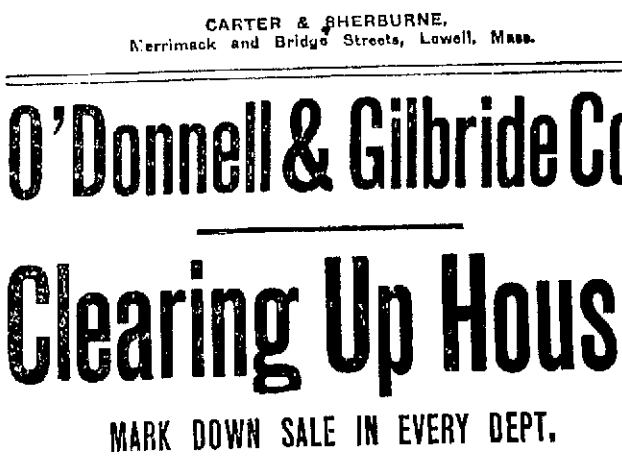

At 8 o'clock in the evening the party returned to Lowell in special cars and they sang all the way home. The affair was a great success in every respect and much credit was due to Messrs. Leo Lehrer, chairman of the committee on arrangements; Hans Scholeuder, representing the brewers; James T. Doyle and Joseph King, representing the drivers and James Casey and James Sullivan, representing the bottling house. Michael Hiller, the popular engineer of the Brewery was absent, owing to illness and his genial presence was missed.

SUFFERED TWENTY YEARS WITH ECZEMA—

Then Zema-Cura Completely Cured G. F. Brown of "This Miserable, Harrowing, Racking Plague."

G. F. Brown is a well-known employe of the Navy Yard at Washington, D. C. Mr. Brown suffered horribly with Eczema for twenty years and was cured by Zema-Cura. Every Eczema sufferer in the world should read this letter from Mr. Brown—it tells the whole story in his own language:

"Inasmuch as I have found relief through the use of Zema-Cura, I deem it not only a duty, but a great pleasure to say to all who may be sufferers from the "Eczema" plague that I can and do, with all honesty and candor, recommend it as a most wonderfully soothing and peace-giving remedy for Eczema. I speak from experience, having been a sufferer for twenty years with this miserable, harrowing, racking plague, Eczema. Physicians, and physicians' remedies have not only failed to give me relief and comfort, but did not check in any degree the progress of the disease.

"I have been going from bad to worse for twenty years, until, through an acquaintance, I was persuaded to use Zema-Cura. After using one bottle the result was marvelous in reducing swelling, and checking the weeping, besides giving me immediate relief. At this time I was confined to my bed, and my condition was horrible and pitiful. Physicians pronounced my case the worst that they had ever seen. Upon assurance that there was nothing contained in Zema-Cura that could possibly result in any injury, no matter how much I might use it, I commenced bathing my legs in Zema-Cura and kept them saturated day and night. In less than two weeks I was out of bed, and able to wear my clothes and resume my work. I am now entirely well and have no racking or unpleasant sensations which accompany Eczema. The skin on my legs has assumed its normal condition and natural color. Can anything be more conclusive than that? Sufferers from Eczema should use Zema-Cura and use plenty of it. Don't be afraid; it won't hurt you. The more you use, the better the results you get and the sooner you get them. This is my experience. I am very glad to say that in less than four months I have been cured of Eczema which I have had for twenty years."—G. F. BROWN, 606 North Carolina Avenue, Washington, D. C.

15,000 CASES IN —— THE CITY.

There is no one so young or none so old that are not liable to have an attack of cholera in the good old summer time. There is no sickness so severe while it lasts, and people have been known to die with it, especially children. If they only had a bottle of Dows' Cholera Cordial in the house all the suffering and danger might be avoided and misery turned to happiness. 25 cents is all that it costs to guard against this terrible sickness. Remember the name of the remedy, Dows' Cholera Cordial. No cure, no pay.

MATRIMONIAL.

Mr. William Rondeau and Miss Marie Vitaline Demers were married yesterday afternoon at St. Joseph's rectory. Rev. Fr. Lamothe officiated. The witnesses were Messrs. Emmanuel Rousseau and Antonie Demers.

You can't expect to weave white satin with blackened hands, any more than you can expect good results from papers with a bogus circulation.

A GLORIOUS MEDICINE

George A. Saunders Says Dr. Bartlett's Vital Force Deserves the Warmest Confidence of the People Everywhere.

Mr. George A. Saunders, the widely known clerk in Patten's flower store, 8 and 10 Merrimack square, Lowell, Mass., is an enthusiastic proclaimer of the merits of Dr. Bartlett's Vital Force. He says:

"I am positive that Dr. Bartlett's Vital Force is a sure remedy for the cure of muscular rheumatism. For 20 years I had muscular rheumatism and a friend of mine who had been cured permanently of a chronic rheumatic trouble with Dr. Bartlett's Vital Force after trying all other advertised remedies, recommended me to try it. On the strength of his testimony and what I knew the medicine had done for like sufferers, I obtained a bottle and never felt so well in the past 20 years as I have since I began to take this glorious medicine. It deserves the warmest confidence of the people everywhere and I recommend it to rheumatic sufferers with the same confidence that I would give roast beef to a person suffering from hunger."

GEORGE A. SAUNDERS,
58 Methuen street, Lowell, Mass.
July 24th, 1903.

This marvelous medicine is prepared by Dr. Bartlett, the nerve, blood and lung specialist, and for 20 years it has performed cure after cure where other remedies proved worthless. If you are on the list of chronic sufferers, whether it be rheumatism, kidney, liver, stomach or nerves, consult Dr. Bartlett. His crowded office, 106 Merrimack street, Lowell, Mass., is evidence enough of his ability and skill.

TRIBUTE TO LEO XIII

Rev. T. Clayton Welles Met Late Pontiff

And Told Interesting Story of His Visit to the Vatican at the Highland Congregational Church—Other Sunday Services

Rev. T. Clayton Welles of the Highland Congregational church, entertained his congregation last evening with the story of his audience with Pope Leo XIII and his impressions of the personality of the pontiff.

The invitation to visit the papal palace, he said, came through the president of the American college, after solicitation. "Every lady present was clad in a simple gown of black, with a veil of lace only thrown over her head. Every man was attired in full evening dress, for which he had probably paid an exorbitant fee to a Roman tailor, but which he did not dare to neglect, as it was suggested to him in the invitation. Precisely at the moment indicated on the invitation, three officials in waiting appeared, followed by the personal body guard of the pope, and then the only infallible man on the face of the whole earth, venerable, white haired, genial, stood before us. At the sight of him the whole company kneeled and engaged in silent prayer. His face was full of benignity and peace; his voice was musical and full of kindness, and his movements were strong and brisk, surprisingly so for a man of his years. It seemed to give him genuine pleasure to meet the numerous friends. His face lighted up with a charming smile, and he gave his blessing without question and without stint. He seemed to be especially gratified to meet the friends from across the ocean, and we heard him repeat the word "Americano" again and again, as he passed from one to another, as if it were a source of great delight. So I was prepared for a genial reception; but when he put his hand upon my head, brushed back the hair and looked with almost paternal interest into my eyes, as he pronounced the blessing, it was impossible to find words to express my feelings—especially in Italian.

"And now this kind-hearted shepherd of so numerous a flock has passed away, and the world has been for a week making up its estimate of his personal and official career. The general verdict seems to be unanimous, that as a man, Pope Leo XIII. was entirely above reproach. He was auditable through and through; he cherished a genuine love for his fellow men, and he earnestly sought, I believe, their welfare. He honestly thought, no doubt, that their welfare would be secured by their union with the church of which he was the head but even if he could not persuade them all to accept his views, he still exercised a spirit of compassion toward all, and wished them well. We may truly say that he was lover of humankind and in this respect was far more fitted to be, what he always claimed to be, the proper head of universal Christendom, than many of his predecessors. He would never have ordered an inquisition, or approved a St. Bartholomew's massacre. There have been men in the papal chair whose whole appearance was indicative of a supreme regard for self and for earthly things. Pope Leo's whole appearance was of a man who enjoyed frequent communion with God in humble loyalty and faith. As a man who loved God and his fellowmen, he has commended himself to his Protestant brethren throughout the world. We respect him for his devout character and his Christian life, and we have no objection to the term 'father in Israel,' which we often apply to those who have served many years for their fellow men. We believe his genial spirit has done much to help forward the conditions and the times when all who confess the true headship of Jesus Christ shall dwell together in harmony.

"In his official capacity he has been a wise and interesting pontiff. The very doctrine of infallibility, ridiculous as it is even to the most intelligent Catholics, has not seemed so very absurd in the hands of one who has made so very few mistakes.

"Though we may truly say that he has been a progressive, broad-minded pontiff, yet he has not compromised himself or his church in the least. In those great principles of the historic faith of Rome, the doctrines peculiar to the Roman Catholic church, which the Protestants repudiated centuries ago, have been strongly upheld by this head of popes. The two branches of the churches of Christ are no nearer together than in the days of Cromwell; but between those two branches there has arisen a broader and more Christian toleration. Let us hope and pray that the spirit of tolerance and fraternity may be still further extended and exercised between all branches of the Christian church, by whomsoever may be elected his successor."

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL.

At the First Congregational church, yesterday morning, Rev. Mr. Gilliam preached on the subject: "Christ's mission on earth." The church is to be closed the first two Sundays in August to allow many needed repairs.

WESTMINSTER PRESBYTERIAN.

Rev. Mr. Foster, at the Westminster church, yesterday, preached to a large congregation on the text: "Come ye yourselves apart—and rest awhile."

IMMANUEL BAPTIST.

At the Immanuel Baptist church yesterday Rev. Robert F. True preached a practical and effective sermon at the morning service from the words of Paul to the Philippians, "This one thing I do," as expressive of the apostle's single and positive aim and purpose in life; from which he deduced many helpful lessons for twentieth century Christian living. The evening was devoted wholly to an "Old Home" service. The pastor's topic was "The Power of Early Home Memories," which he treated in a most impressive manner, illustrating the same by vivid illustrations taken from actual old home scenes so familiar and dear to all. The interests of the service were greatly enhanced by the beautiful singing of old home songs by the chorus choir and soloists. The solos rendered were as follows: "Home, Sweet Home," by Mr. William J. Beaven; "Love at Home," Miss Isabelle Gillespie and "I'm going Home," by Rev. R. F. True. The choruses of songs were most inspiringly sung by the choir and congregation. The service was altogether one of the most effective ever held by this church and must have produced a lasting impression for good.

SUDDEN DEATH

Of a Little Girl From the Heat

Eva Lafontaine, aged 12 years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lafontaine, died suddenly at the home of her parents Saturday night.

The Lanfontaine family has been in this city but three weeks, having come here from Canada, and just before the family moved little Eva was suffering with the measles. After arriving here she seemed to have fully recovered, and seemed to be in the best of health.

Saturday afternoon she was playing outdoors until five o'clock. About 7.30 o'clock the little one complained of a severe headache and lying down on a couch passed away.

The body of the little girl was taken last evening to Plessisville, Can., for burial. Dr. Bellehumeur, who was called in to attend the litle girl, stated that the cause of death was cerebral meningitis.

Ten Others Afflicted With Beriberi

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW BEDFORD, July 27.—News has been received here by cable that the whaling brig Leonora, Capt. William B. Ellis, had put into St. Helena with seven of her crew dead with beriberi and 10 others so badly affected with the disease that they had to be landed there and sent to the hospital.

The news has caused consternation for no names if the dead have been received, although particulars have been asked for by cable with the brig's agent, Capt. T. C. Allen.

The Leonora sailed from this port Dec. 17, 1902, and was fitted for a cruise to Patagonia after right whales. Capt. Ellis is an Arctic whaleman of some fame and this particular kind of whaling is what he is used to. The cruise of the brig was planned on the news of the poor Arctic catch last season and the consequent high price of whalebone.

Once before Capt. Ellis had taken the little whaler Ada Dalison down to Patagonia and made a small barrel of money cutting in 10 whales and getting a large quantity of bone, which sold at high prices.

Capt. Ellis sailed on his present voyage with a crew of 20 men and more than half this number is dead or disabled. The Leonora has taken two right whales on the cruise, but probably had to leave on account of the sickness among the crew.

The disease affects the legs of the victims, which swell and bloat and when the swelling reaches the heart it kills them.

It is a disease peculiar to vessels cruising off the South American coast some claiming that the germs are blown from the land.

Several whaleships arriving at this port have had men die with the disease.

Rev. Fr. Desrochers Was Overcome by Illness

HE WAS PREPARING TO CELEBRATE MAN

In St. Andrew's Church North Billerica

Rev. Fr. Desrochers, O. M. I., pastor of St. Andrew's church, North Billerica, was overcome by a sudden attack of illness, yesterday morning while in the vestry of St. Andrew's church, preparing for the 8 o'clock mass.

He became unconscious and being alone in the church at the time lay for some time unconscious in the vestry until discovered by Mr. O'Toole, who immediately notified Dr. O'Donnell. The latter responded promptly and in a short time Fr. Desrochers was sufficiently relieved to be able to return to the Oblate novitiate at Tewksbury.

It was necessary to omit the 8 o'clock mass but one of the priests from the novitiate officiated at high mass at 10 o'clock. Fr. Desrochers recovered during the day though for some time he was quite ill.

CHILDREN DYING

Fifteen Succumbed Since Saturday Noon

Big Epidemic of Cholera Morbus and Infantum in Lowell—Druggists Report Unprecedented Call for Cholera Cures

At noon today the mortality record in the office of the health department showed 20 deaths since Saturday noon.

Of the whole number 15 were children under five years of age and nine of these died from cholera infantum.

The run of cholera infantum and cholera morbus is unprecedented in this city and is attributed to the changes in the weather rather than to the food and drink partaken of by the public.

Agent Knapp of the health department who is well informed on the subject, in speaking of it said to The Sun reporter: "I am not surprised at the large amount of cholera infantum reported as that disease rages more or less severely at this time every year, but I am at a loss to understand the cause of the disease among so many adults. I think the sudden changes of the weather are responsible for it. I am sure the city water has nothing to do with it as we have the best water that can be obtained anywhere."

Milk Inspector Allen, who carefully watches the city milk supply for traces of disease germs, said: "The milk supply is in no way responsible for the present epidemic. The milk that comes into Lowell is free from all disease. I believe that the weather is responsible for the vast amount of cholera morbus now existing."

Druggists all over the city, without exception, state that they put up more prescriptions for cholera cures and sold more patent cholera cures last week than ever before in any one week:

Down town, Ed. Ellingwood said:

"Last week beat any in my memory for cholera cures."

Up-town James J. Brown, manager of Lang's City Hall Pharmacy, said:

"Last week beat all records for cholera cures, both at the prescription desk and for patent medicines. Furthermore, we have had an unusually large number of people, principally from the mills, calling for cures for headaches and dizziness. Upon questioning them invariably we have found them to be suffering from cholera morbus."

The druggists in the vicinity of the churches yesterday had many calls from people who had been taken with dizzy spells while in church.

IN POLICE COURT

Mixed Collection There Today

MAN WANTED TO MAKE A SPEECH

But the Court Cut Him Short

TOLD HIM SILENCE WAS GOLDEN

Judge Hadley in Joking Mood

Judge Hadley had a hetrogeneous aggregation to deal with this morning. There were tall men and short men, fat men and lean men and boys. To this collection were added four women whose goo goo eye days had long since fled. Some were penitent, others were surly, and a few had their mouths puckered for pent up speeches.

Thomas Nevins was charged with drunkenness. He wanted to say a word, but the court told him that in his case silence was golden. Thomas took his cue and was placed on probation.

Judge Hadley must have been joking when he said to Jeremiah Sullivan that no liquor was being sold in Lowell. Jeremiah was charged with drunkenness.

"You have to go out of town to get liquor, don't you?" asked Judge Hadley.

Jerry looked a bit puzzled and leaned over the cage. He evidently thought he didn't hear the judge aright.

"There's no liquor sold in Lowell," continued the court, and Jerry looked as though he would like to be at home where he wouldn't be afraid to laugh right out loud.

"No temptation for a drinking man in Lowell," went on the court in apparent seriousness, and Jerry looked actually funny as he gazed into the face of the court, with a cross between a blank and a quizzical expression.

The face of the court was stern. Jerry waited long enough to give the judge a chance to smile if he wanted to and satisfying himself that the court didn't intend to come out of it, he stammered. "Yes, no, well, yes, in a way. You see, your honor, there is always more or less temptation for the man who takes a social glass and while it is possible for him to hold aloof from such temptation it is often a hard struggle. I promise you, however, that I will steer clear of dangerous places and look not upon the wine while it is red, if you will give me one more chance."

Jeremiah was placed on probation under a suspended sentence to the state farm.

Paul Biroux, the boy who broke into Paul Vigeant's grain store in Moody street was ordered in $100 for his appearance before the court July 31.

William Larese, a young fellow charged with assault and battery on Benjamin Snyder, July 24, was fined $10.

FOR DRUNKENNESS.

Thomas Egan, state farm; Michael Dillon, workhouse; Thomas F. Murray, jail, one month; Thomas Seymour, jail 4 months; William Quigley was fined $6 and George Morse, James H. McDonald, George Bouvier, Thomas Higgins and John Beaten were fined $5 each.

Seven first offenders were fined $2 each and four were released.

DREW REVOLVERS

Burglars at East Chelmsford Were Desperate

Threatened to Shoot Constable Mooney—Broke and Entered Residence of Robert Barris

Burglars who entered Robert Barris' home in East Chelmsford last night, ransacking it from cellar to attic, pulled revolvers on Constable Thomas C. Mooney, who attempted to prevent them from getting away in a team.

The police believe that the burglars who robbed Mr. Barris' house also entered the Holden residence in North Billerica. They gained entrance to the Barris' house by means of a ladder leading to a shed roof. From the roof they forced an entrance through a window to a bed room on the second floor.

There was no one in the house at the time that the burglars operated. Mr. and Mr. Barris and family, with the exception of one son, are at Salisbury beach. The boy who did not accompany the family to the beach was camping out with some other boys on the banks of the Concord.

He arrived home last evening about 10.45 and upon opening the door was confronted with a state of affairs that left no doubt in his mind as to what had happened in his absence. The floors up and down stairs were strewn with the contents of drawers and cupboards and the house was a wreck from top to bottom.

The young Barris boy notified Constable Mooney and he in company with Mr. Brown and others of the neighbors started to investigate. In the course of his prowling in search of a clue the constable came upon a horse and covered buggy standing in the road a few yards from the house.

There was one man in the buggy when the constable first saw the team but before he got to the team another man jumped into the buggy and both occupants of the vehicle pulled revolvers and told the constable to stand back unless he wanted to get filled with lead.

The constable made a grab for the horse's bridle, but the driver was too quick for him and raising the whip he struck the horse. The constable was knocked down and one wheel of the carriage went over him. The carriage went in the direction of Billerica. Constable Mooney communicated with the various stable keepers in Lowell but could not learn that a team, such as he described, had been let Sunday evening. Mr. Mooney went to Billerica this morning and consulted with Chief of Police Conway of that place. Both officers are of the opinion that the same burglars operated in Billerica and East Chelmsford.

The Barris boy could not tell how much spoil the burglars succeeded in getting away with and Constable Mooney telegraphed to Salisbury beach to Mr. Barris asking him to come to East Chelmsford at once.

KING IN BELFAST

He Unveils a Statue of His Mother

By Associated Press to The Sun

BELFAST, July 27. The welcome extended to King Edward and Queen Alexandra at the capital of Ulster, was marked by the same enthusiasm which has followed their progress through Ireland. The city was elaborately decorated and thronged with sightseers, and the streets were lined by 10,000 troops, 2000 bluejackets and 5000 police. The lord mayor and corporation awaited their majesties at the railroad station and presented them with an address. Upwards of 50 other addresses were presented on the same occasion. The king, in reply, said his highest ambition was to follow in the footsteps of his mother and make the well-being of his people, the prosperity of the realm and the maintenance of the peace of all nations his constant aim.

The royal procession was then formed and traversed the streets to the city hall, where the king unveiled a statue erected in honor of Queen Victoria.

KEARSARGE HERE

By Associated Press to The Sun

BAR HARBOR, Me., July 27—The U. S. Battleship Kearsarge arrived at Bar Harbor at 5.42 yesterday afternoon and dropped anchor in the upper harbor at 6.12. She left the Needles at 1.25 p. m., on Friday, July 17th and Mount Desert Rock at 12.30 today, covering the distance of 2900 miles in 9 days four and one quarter hours, an average speed of 13.16 miles an hour. The highest speed attained was a little over fifteen knots an hour and the slowest was ten. Three times during the trip, the ship was slowed down; once on account of being in the vicinity of an iceberg and twice on account of a very thick fog. Head winds and thick weather retarded the speed of the ship and under favorable conditions she would have covered the distance in less than nine days.

Geo. W. Harrington, the well-known bottler, had been a sufferer for years.

To D. J. Murphy Co.

Dear Sirs: I have been a sufferer of Rheumatism for 18 years, and in that time scarcely a month has passed that I have not felt its effects on me. I have visited the Sulphur Springs and used all kinds of remedies, but to no avail. Last August I was attacked with the pains, and hearing of your Rheumatic Remedy, I commenced using it, and the result was wonderful. I used seven bottles and today I feel better than I have for years. I could feel the effects of your remedy immediately and commenced to improve in a very short while after using it. When attacked before with the pains I would be compelled to stay in bed during a month or two, but this time I did not lose but two days' work. Your remedy benefited me so much that I freely recommend it to any one who has Rheumatism. It cured me and I know it will benefit others. Yours truly,

PANIC IN PANAMA

Military Made an Attack on Civil Officials

By Associated Press to The Sun

PANAMA, Colombia, July 27.—Not since the days of the last revolution, when an attack upon the city by the Liberals was feared, has there been such a panic in Panama as occurred Saturday night. Shortly after 9 o'clock the officers of El Lapiz, the organ of the Liberal party on the isthmus, was visited by some officers of the general staff of the army who destroyed Saturday's edition of the newspaper.

One of the directors was slightly wounded but managed to escape.

The news spread rapidly and in the Santa Anas neighborhood where most of the Liberals reside, sentiment rose to a high pitch and a few of the prominent people counselled retaliation. They took no action, however. The next event came like a bombshell. A company of soldiers, apparently under the orders of Gen. Vasquez Cobos, commander of the national forces, surrounded the residence of Governor Mutis but the governor and his wife who is an American lady, having been warned a few minutes before the arrival of the troops, succeeded in escaping.

Gen. Huertas, commander of the battalion of Colombia, when he learned of the El Lapiz incident repaired to headquarters where he found Gen. Cobos and, according to current reports, the latter ordered Gen. Huertas to remain in quarters. Exactly what has taken place is unknown, but it is said that Dr. Aristides Arjona, secretary of the government; Fernando Arango, chief of police, and Efrain Navia, a member of the departmental superior tribunal of justice, are under arrest, the latter for trying to argue with Gen. Cobos the illegality of his action.

An attempt is also said to have been made to arrest Senor Guera, secretary of finance, but he refused to accompany the officer who went to his house to arrest him and when the officer returned with soldiers Guerra had departed.

Gov. Mutis spent Saturday night at the British consulate, but it is reported that he will take refuge in the American consulate. United States Consul Gudger made several unsuccessful attempts yesterday to secure an audience with Gen. Cobos. It is reported that Gen. Cobos offered the governorship to different conservatives who refused to accept and that he himself will assume civil command. It is said that Consul Gudger attempted to send a cablegram to Arthur M. Beaupre, the United States minister at Bogota, but that the agent refused to accept the message claiming that the lines were interrupted.

There was little excitement on the street yesterday but the condition of affairs is very serious. Gov. Mutis is virtually a prisoner. Undoubtedly Gen. Cobos will issue later in the day a proclamation giving the reasons for his actions which up to this time are unknown. The national government in certain quarters is being held responsible for much of what has happened because the soldiers have not been paid for some time and Governor Mutis declined to give more of the money of the department of Panama for national expenses. The refusal of Governor Mutis is the origin of the discord between the civil and military authorities. Violent articles written in El Lapiz against what the Liberals call the assassination of Gen. Victoriano Lorenzo, the leader of the guerillas during the recent revolution, who was court-martialled and shot May 15, precipitated events. The effect of what is now going on upon the Colombian congress, it is believed, will be favorable to the canal treaty, for the enemies of the treaty, it is now believed, will be easily convinced of the necessity of certain clauses which it contains in regard to the control of this zone.

Cable communication with Bogota has been restored.

QUIET IN COLON.

By Associated Press to The Sun

COLON, Colombia, July 27.—The city is perfectly quiet, as Saturday night's coup on the part of Gen. Cobos against Governor Mutis of the department of Panama is known only to few here. Gen. Luis Maria Gomez, governor of this province, has been called to Panama.

FOUR MEN KILLED

H. Coger, fireman.

Fred Horton, the passenger who was killed, was said to have been standing in the vestibule of the front sleeper talking to a friend, and was instantly killed, while his friend escaped injury.

THE IRISH LEAGUE

Discovers Rare Talent Among Its Members

The United Irish League had a well attended meeting at their quarters in Barristers' hall last evening, M. A. Lee in the chair.

The excursion to Revere beach on Thursday was reported to have been very successful, although the weather prevented many from going. Those who went were delighted with the day's pleasure.

A committee was appointed to assist Miss Conmee, the financial secretary, in mailing a circular to the members appealing for a renewal of the annual fee.

Several new members were admitted at the meeting. The members felt enthusiastic in the ever increasing number of its friends as well as in the bright prospect of soon seeing Ireland restored to her right to own the soil and to govern herself through her own parliament.

A very excellent musical and literary program was rendered, including a recitation entitled "No Cross, No Crown," by Miss Margaret McDonough. This little miss, although but a school girl, gives evidence of elocutionary talent of a high order. She was enthusiastically encored.

Miss Katie Conmee sang "Ireland I Love You," with a great deal of sweetness and pathos and won much applause.

Miss Elizabeth Honan sang "That Beautiful Isle" in splendid style. She has a remarkably rich, sweet soprano voice which she controls with ease in every register and is altogether a very promising vocalist.

John Raffrey gave an interesting patriotic reading which was well received and Dennis Brassil with his usual fire gave a recitation entitled "Death of King Connor MacNessa." The meeting adjourned for one week.

The woman had a bullet in her heart and another in her left wrist. The man was shot in the heart.

After a thorough examination of all the effects of both man and woman, the coroner was satisfied that both came from Schenectady.

BUSY TROOPERS

Cavalry Men Shoot in Two Matches

WON THE SHORT RANGE COMPETITION

But Lost at 500 Yards Target

At the North Chelmsford shooting range Saturday, the military men of Lowell and Chelmsford held forth and Troop F defeated Co. G at the 200-yard targets but lost to Co. C at 500 yards.

As only eight of the ten men of the cavalry team reported at the range, the contest between the troop and Co. G was made an eight man match, and in the Troop's contest against Co. C, the two absent men were allowed each the team average, thus making a ten man match.

Troop F cavalry made 312, and Co. G made 280 at 200 yards.

Troop F cavalry made 342 and Co. C made 380 at 500 yards.

The Lowell Military Rifle association, consisting of the three local military companies will hold a meeting at the armory this evening to plan for a tournament of shooting for the remainder of the summer and fall. Captain McNulty will preside.

Lieut. Gardner Pearson will take the Phalanx team to South Framingham next Saturday, to shoot against Capt. Damon's team of Co. E, 6th regiment as a return match of the shoot held at the Dracut range with C, July 11th when the Phalanx team defeated the South Framingham boys.

GODDU INQUEST

Judge Hadley Will Hold Private One

Out of respect for the feelings of the Goddu family, Judge Hadley has decided that the inquest into the death of Georgiana Goddu shall be a private one.

Judge Hadley feels that the family has already had enough to bear and while there is no necessity of the inquest being a private one, inasmuch as the party charged with the crime is dead, yet the judge feels that it would be wrong to further unnecessarily wound the feelings of a family so sorely afflicted. The inquest will open in police court at 2.30 this afternoon.

VIOLENT TEMPER

Led to Capture of Escaped Prisoner

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 27.—When Matthew Callahan escaped from the Tombs prison together with Robert Booth, June 23, the authorities did not feel much alarmed for they knew he would fall into the hands of the police before long. Today Callahan is back in prison with a long term before him. He owes his re-capture to his violent temper and his desire to make matters unpleasant for his wife and children.

Officers of the West 68th street station were surprised by a woman who rushed in and asked for protection from her husband who was threatening to burn their home. She added that he recently escaped from prison. When the policemen reached the house they found the children in the hallway weeping. Callahan was found under the bed. When he was pulled out, he made a determined resistance but was subdued and identified later by the Tombs keepers.

FELL FROM WAGON

Fire Truck Passed Over the Driver

By Associated Press to The Sun

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 27—While responding to an alarm for a fire early this forenoon, Driver John E. Carlin of Hose 2, pitched suddenly forward, fell to the pavement, and the wheels of the heavy truck passed over his chest, crushing out his life. The reins were seized by two firemen, who brought the horses under control and returned to where the injured man lay. Death resulted before the arrival of medical assistance.

The accident occurred in North Main street, one of the principal thoroughfares of this city. An attack of heart failure is thought to have caused Carlin to fall from his seat. He is 50 years old and is survived by a widow and two children.

The fire to which the department was called, caused trifling damage.

CARDINAL GIBBONS

WELCOMED TO ROME BY CHURCH DIGNITARIES.

By Associated Press to The Sun

ROME, July 27.—Cardinal Gibbons arrived here yesterday, accompanied by Fr. Garvan, his secretary. He was received at the station by Mgr. Kennedy, rector of the American college at Rome, and Fr. Hertzog, procurator general of the order of Sulpicians. They drove to the Sulpician house, where mass was celebrated.

Being tired and the hour late, Cardinal Gibbons did not attend the meeting of the cardinals this morning. In the afternoon he drove to the vatican and paid his respects to Cardinal Oreglia, who received him most cordially. He had a friendly conversation with the latter in which the camerlingo informed Cardinal Gibbons of the leading decisions made by the congregation with reference to the conclave. Cardinal Gibbons will receive no one, except cardinals, until after the conclave.

OFFERED PRAYERS

FOR REPOSE OF THE DEAD PONTIFF'S SOUL.

By Associated Press to The Sun

ROME, July 27.—Several thousands of the faithful crowded St. Peter's yesterday to pay tribute before the sarcophagus containing the remains of the late pontiff, on which is the following simple inscription in gilded letters:

"Leo XIII Pont Max."

Meanwhile requiem masses continued in the Chapel of the Sacrament as well as in many other Roman churches. The will of Leo was read yesterday. While nominally leaving the estate of Carpineto to his nephew Ludovico Pecci it really makes no change as the whole family property, amounting approximately to $120,000, has already been divided among the three nephews, Count Camillo having already sold his share. The congregation again made further progress with the arrangements for the conclave. Cardinal Gibbons arrived yesterday but did not attend the meeting. A wall is being built around the apartments where the conclave will be held. It is already ten feet high.

Some of the Italian bookmakers here proposed to conduct public betting on the chances of the papal candidates and in order to obtain permission to do so offered to donate their gains to charitable institutions. The government, however, promptly vetoed the proposition and refused the request.

THE POPE'S WILL

PORTION OF IT WAS MADE PUBLIC YESTERDAY.

By Associated Press to The Sun

ROME, July 27.—That portion of the pope's will made public is as follows:

"In the name of the Father, the Son and the Holy Ghost, as the end of our mortal career is approaching, we put in this holograph will our last desires. Before all, we humbly supplicate the infinite bounty and charity of the blessed Lord to condone the faults of our life and receive benignantly our spirit in the beatific eternity which we specially hope through the merits of Jesus the Redeemer, trusting to His very sacred heart, an ardent furnace of charity and fount of spiritual life and humanity. We also implore as mediators the blessed virgin Mary, mother of God, and our own much beloved mother, and that legion of saints whom in our life we venerated in a special way.

"Now, coming to dispose of the family patrimony, which is ours according to the deed of division drawn up by the notary, Curzio Franchi, Dec. 17, 1882, we appoint as heir of this patrimony our nephew, Count Ludovico Pecci, son of Giovanni Battista, our deceased brother. From this property must be deducted that already donated to Count Ricardo, another nephew, on the occasion of his marriage, according to a deed of Feb. 13, 1886, by Notary Franchi. Equally from this property must be deducted all the estate in the capinneto Romano belonging to the holy see, according to the declaration in our chirograph of Feb. 8, 1900.

"In this, our testamentary disposition, we have not thought of our other nephew, Camillo, and our nieces Anna and Maria, son and daughters of our brother Giovanni Battista. For them we have in life properly provided decorous maintenance on the occasion of their marriages.

"We declare that no one in our family can claim any right in anything not contemplated in the present document, because all the other belongings of whatever nature which have come to us as pontiff consequently are and in any case we wish to be, the property of the holy see.

"We confide the exact execution of this our disposition to Cardinals Mariano, Rampolla, our secretary of state, Mario Mocenni and Serafino Cretoni. This declaration is to be our last will.

"The Vatican, Rome, this eighth day of July, 1900.

"Gioacchino Pecci.
"Leo PP XIII."

A still alarm at 7.30 o'clock Saturday night was for a fire in an ashbarrel in the rear of the property owned by A. G. Thompson in Chestnut street. Several of the members of Engine 4 in High street responded to the alarm.

BOLD BURGLARY

Thieves Robbed the Holden Residence in Billerica

Took Quantity of Silverware—Gave Paris Green to a Bull Dog—Constable Conway Hot on the Trail

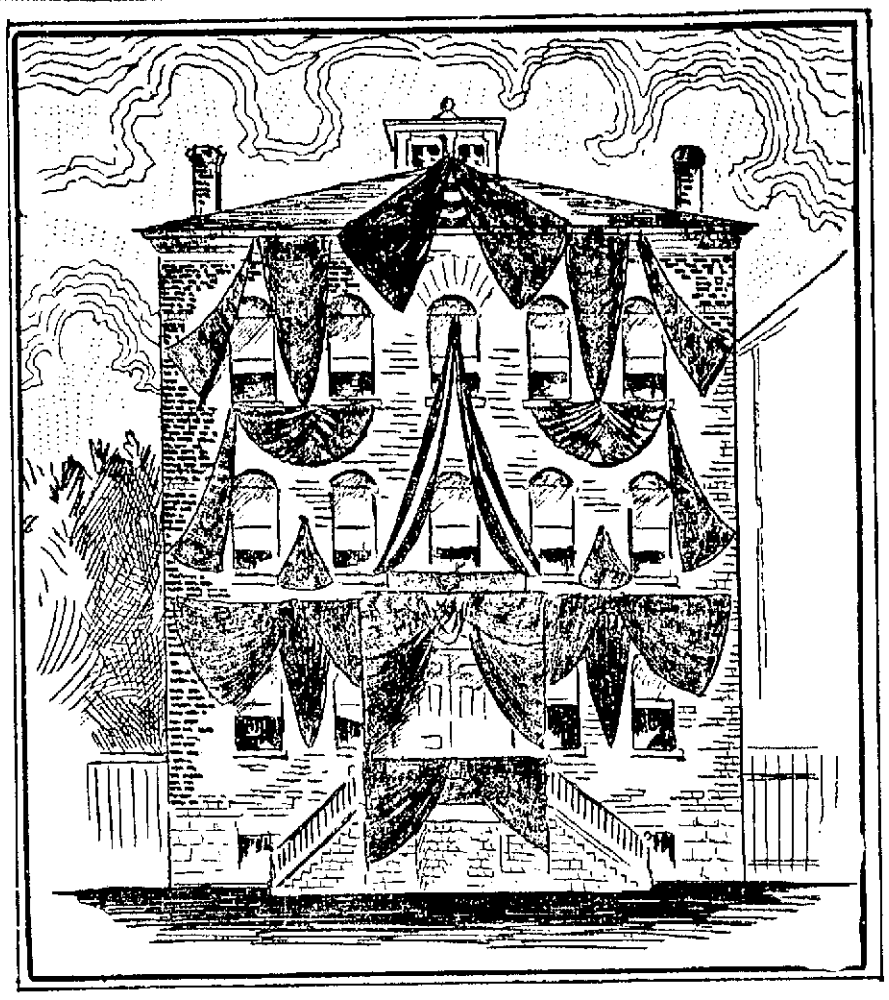

The residence of Joshua B. Holden, Jr., in Billerica Centre, was broken into Saturday night and robbed of a quantity of silverware. In order to put a quietus on a bull dog the burglars gave him to eat meat dusted with paris green, and the fact that they gave the dog an overdose saved his life. He remained quiet, however, while the thieves were operating.

The silverware was taken from the dining room and the living rooms on the first floor were ransacked. Mr. and Mrs. Holden were sleeping up stairs and the servants were in the rear of the building. Mrs. Holden thought she heard a noise down stairs and tried to arouse her husband, but he listened awhile, heard nothing and went to sleep again.

The break was not discovered until Sunday morning. When Mr. Holden came down stairs he found the floor in the dining room strewn with a little of everything in the house. He notified the town officer, Martin Conway, Jr., and the latter set about to ferret out the perpetrators of the bold robbery. A lantern taken from the street railway line, where laborers had been working, was used in the break.

He made a thorough examination of the premises and found that a window on the north side of the house had been broken and that the burglars had gone in through the window. Mr. Conway also found an auger on the veranda on the front of the house and he believes that the burglars intended to bore around the lock of the door and take it out in its entirety. He thinks the burglars were old hands at the business.

The following articles were stolen: Six solid silver candlesticks, two plated silver candlesticks, two tall solid silver vases, one large Sheffield plated tray, one large Dresden china tray, one solid silver card receiver, two solid silver picture frames one Sheffield plated covered vegetable dish, two Sheffield plated platters, one solid silver castor or fern dish, one mackintosh coat.

MOURNING DECORATIONS ON ST. PETER'S PAROCHIAL RESIDENCE IN HONOR OF THE LATE POPE LEO.

REQUIEM SERVICE

For the Late Pope Leo in Catholic Churches

Impressive Mourning Draperies and Catafalque in Sanctuary Made Service Deeply Impressive —Eulogies Upon Pope Leo Delivered

In all the Catholic churches yesterday requiem masses were offered for the late Pope Leo and eulogies were delivered upon his life and labors.

AT NEW ST. PETER'S.

The rubrical ceremony was observed in every detail at St. Peter's church. The altar was surmounted by the papal colors. The catafalque, with head slightly raised, was in place within the railing.

Draped candles burned at both ends of the catafalque and the crucifix at the foot was towards the congregation. The catafalque was prepared by T. J. McDermott.

Solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. D. J. Heffernan, Rev. Francis Rogers, deacon; Rev. W. G. Mollin, sub-deacon; Thomas A. Ginty, master of ceremonies.

Schmidt's mass of requiem was sung by the choir of the church, under the direction of John Warburton. At the offertory "O Meritum Passionis" was sung by Mr. Warburton; and the "De Profundis" was sung by a mixed quartet, composed of Miss Mollie Ivers, soprano; Miss Regina Gerard, alto; James E. Donnelly, bass and John Warburton, tenor. After the mass the "Libera" was sung by the choir, with solos by Mr. Warburton. During the mass another "De Profundis" was sung by the Mozart quartet. Mrs. Josephine W. McKennedy was the organist.

The eulogy on Pope Leo was preached by Rev. W. H. Grant. He took his text from the 29th chapter of the book of Job: "The ear that heard me, blessed me: the eye that saw me gave witness to me, because I had delivered the poor man that cried out and the fatherless that had no helper. . . I was an eye to the blind and a foot to the lame—and the cause which I knew not I searched out most diligently." The preacher, after reviewing the significance of the words above quoted, said in part:

"Happy is the minister of God, who, when his course is run, can truthfully repeat those words." The speaker referred briefly to the universality of the law of death and continuing, said:

"During the past week Almighty God in His divine Providence has been pleased to call from our midst unto Himself our venerable pontiff-ruler of the spiritual world, after he had spanned almost a century upon this earth.

"And we, his spiritual children, are gathered here today about this altar of sacrifice, to give public expression, by a supreme act of religion to our belief in Jesus Christ—the Incarnate Word and Redeemer of mankind and to take courage from the fact that in a critical period like that of the last quarter of a century, almost without a parallel in human history, a leader like Leo XIII had been placed over us, whose massive intellect all things and events seemed to find their proper place and to fall into their proper proportions—as a pope of peace, who preached peace to the individual, the family, the state and nation, and who sought to bring about a reconciliation of all Christendom.

"The very rehearsal of his life is sufficient. No further words of mine are necessary to draw its moral. May God take unto Himself, if He has not already done so, this noble old shepherd of the Christian world—and lead him back into the eternal sheepfold of the blessed in Heaven—

"Eternal rest give unto thy servant Leo, O Lord,

IMMACULATE CONCEPTION.

Very impressive and solemn were the services held at the Immaculate Conception church yesterday morning for the repose of the soul of the late Pope Leo XIII. The outside of the church had been profusely draped in purple, the royal mourning color, and purple was the prevailing color in the interior of the edifice. In the rear of the main altar was a broad strip of purple with white fringe, and the altar rail was completely hidden by purple. The pulpit was also veiled in a purple canopy.

The rubrical ceremony was carried

BOY DROWNED

Lost His Life While Bathing in River

Patrick J. Boland, the eleven year old son of Edward and Catherine Boland of 9 Sullivan's court, off Fenwick street, lost his life while bathing in the Merrimack river in the vicinity of Aiken street bridge yesterday afternoon. The accident occurred about five o'clock.

The boys had been swimming but a short time when the little boy was seized with cramps and being youngsters nothing could be done to assist the drowning boy.

Help was summoned but it arrived too late, as the little fellow had gone down for the last time before the older people arrived on the scene. Undertaker Molloy was notified soon after the drowning and his men were soon on the scene with grappling irons. After a search of more than an hour the body was found only a few feet from the point at which it was seen to go down.

It was removed to the warerooms of Undertaker Molloy and later to the home of the boy's parents.

Fight Broke Out In Syrian Colony

By Associated Press to The Sun

LAWRENCE, July 27—A factional fight over the presence of some members of a gathering in a Syrian club room at 53 Valley street, yesterday afternoon occasioned a visit of the police with the result that evidence of violation of the liquor law was secured and James Brox, proprietor of the club, and Joseph Arah, owner of the building, were arrested on the charge of maintaining a liquor nuisance.

According to the police objection was raised to a man being in the room. His friends insisted that he would remain and the issue led to a division of forces. When the police arrived matters were decidedly lively. The arrival of the police ended the free-for-all fight, but the officers found a quantity of beer.

Before taking possession of it, the police had their attention attracted to the house next door, where the fight had extended. They left the club room to quell the disturbance in the house and when they returned they discovered that the beer had been spirited away in their absence. This did not prevent them from arresting Brox and Arab, however.

STRUCK BY CAR

MEN WERE WALKING ON THE TRACK.

By Associated Press to The Sun

HAVERHILL, Mass., July 27—Frank Follensbee and Duncan McMillan, both of Byfield Centre, were struck by an electric car on the Georgetown, Rowley and Ipswich street railway near Byfield Centre early yesterday morning. Both suffered fractured skulls besides other injuries. Follensbee will probably die but McMillan has a chance of recovery. They were walking on the track at the time of the accident. They were brought to the hospital here.

INSTANTLY KILLED

VETERAN DRIVER WAS THROWN FROM HIS WAGON.

By Associated Press to The Sun

SOUTH BINGHAM, July 27.—Edward Hines of 44 Southampton street, Boston, who had driven one of the teams of the Boston Lead company for more than 30 years, met death here suddenly yesterday under peculiar circumstances.

He had come down Saturday to pay a visit to his nephew, John Hines. Yesterday morning his nephew took him out in a democrat wagon for a short drive. They returned home about 12.30, and Edward Hines remained seated in the wagon for a few minutes.

The horse, in an effort to crop the grass, gave a sudden start and Hines was thrown out over the back of the wagon, striking on his head and shoulders. When picked up it was found that his neck was broken. He was about 62 years old and is survived by a wife, son and daughter.

ALL MAY RECOVER

Victims of Trolley Accident Improving

By Associated Press to The Sun

WORCESTER, Mass., July 27.—The condition yesterday of those who are at the city hospital as a result of Saturday's head-on collision of trolley cars on the Boston and Worcester line in Shrewsbury showed a little improvement in each case, including that of William H. Savage, the Boston artist, whom it was supposed Saturday could not survive the night. While his condition yesterday was not wholly favorable to his recovery, he was resting a little more comfortably and late last night was sleeping well and had taken nourishment. With no further complications to retard his progress, the hospital physicians say Mr. Savage is likely to pull through.

The condition of Mrs. Savage, wife of W. H. Savage, was much improved today.

Mrs. Winnifred Wilde and Allen C. Wilde, her husband, are much better and both will survive their injuries.

Mrs. Thomas H. Brown, the woman who threw her infant out of the electric and thereby undoubtedly saved the little one's life, is resting well and will recover.

The other accident cases were, late last night, doing as well as could be expected.

FALL RIVER, Mass., July 27.—William Brackett, 33, of 212 Bedford street was struck by a train at the Crescent Park station of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad last night. The train arrived here at 9.40 and was met by an ambulance and the man was removed to the Union hospital. He is suffering from internal injuries.

HAZED BY BOYS

VICTIM IS IN A SERIOUS CONDITION.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BARTON, Vt., July 27.—A hearing that promises to continue several days is in progress before Justice Guild at Barton Landing concerning injuries received by a boy at the hands of his schoolmates a few weeks ago which caused his death.

Raymond Waterman, Raymond Adams and Alva Day, aged 9, 10, and 11 years old, had read of a college hazing and decided to try it upon Ralph Canning, a young companion. They heated stones red-hot in a pasture back of the schoolhouse in Brownington and made Canning stand on them and sit on them also until he was badly blistered.

Then, according to reports, two boys held him down, while the third jumped on him and nearly rendered him unconscious before releasing him. He was taken sick at once, with great pains about the stomach, and died two weeks later.

The case is exciting great interest. The boys are so young that they probably did not realize the enormity of their acts. The lads are members of prominent families and have had a good reputation in the past.

The hearing will determine their punishment. There are about 40 witnesses on each side.

You can't expect to weave white satin with blackened hands, any more than you can expect good results from papers with a bogus circulation.

Boy Drank a Glass of Whiskey

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 27.—A physician worked over a 7-year-old boy at his home on Linwood street, Somerville, for several hours yesterday, and finally succeeded in saving him from dying as the result of alcoholism.

The little fellow had his mother bordering on hysteria. His father sobered up completely and now swears he will never take another drink and the neighbors who were called in to minister to the boy, pending the arrival of the physician, were treated to a serio-comic episode which they will probably remember for a long time.

The boy acquired his drunkenness in the bathroom of his home. He happened to find in a corner of the room a water glass filled to the brim with an amber colored fluid which he thought looked pretty enough to drink.

He drank it and soon became unconscious. It was whiskey which his mother had taken from his father. He will recover.

IS LIFE WORTH LIVING?

A great deal depends on the liver.

The joy of living, of feeling the rich, red blood leap through the veins; the quickening pulses, the enjoyment of the good things of life—all these blessings are denied to him who is a slave to his liver.

Your liver cannot work properly if your stomach and bowels are out of order—if you suffer from Constipation, Indigestion or Dyspepsia. Abbey's Salt of Fruits, a most pleasant tasting tonic laxative, aids digestion, acts gently on the bowels, cleanses the system and keeps the blood rich, the circulation perfect, the nerve centres keyed to the right tone and the whole anatomy aglow with the fire and the vigor of good health.

CARDINALS ARRIVE

Austria Has Given Instructions to Cardinal Gruscha

By Associated Press to The Sun

ROME, July 25—During the early hours this morning the plaza of St. Peter's was not so crowded with persons desirous of viewing the body of Pope Leo XIII as on the two preceeding days; but before long it became known that the opportunity would cease at noon and all those who had been waiting until the last moment hurried to the cathedral. The rush produced a heaving, struggling group of humanity which the police had some difficulty in handling. Meanwhile the cafes in the vicinity and the vendors of post cards and small objects bearing Leo's likeness were liberally patronized.

It seems to have been the firm conviction of many persons that their children had received some benefit from seeing the pope, as this morning whole families were conducted to St. Peters. One peasant entered the chapel with a two months' old baby in his arms.

"Please be careful—don't push," he pleaded vainly. Both his ribs and those of the baby suffered until a soldier deliberately took the screaming child from its father's arms and ordered the parent to come for it later at the police station.

It having been remarked that the whole scene of the lying in state was wanting in light, those passing scarcely being able to see the features of the late pope, especially as they were not allowed to pause before the body, the authorities of the vatican added this morning to the flickering candles a line of electric globes, fixed over the gales on the chancel of the sacrament, the rays falling directly on the face of the late pontiff, which seemed to be cut in stone, and illuminated it with great clearness.

The body will be buried at sunset this evening.

Almost all the cabinet ministers visited St. Peters today.

Each train brings new cardinals. During the night Cardinal Perraud, archbishop of Autun, arrived, as did Cardinal Herrerory Espinosa, archbishop of Velencia, who, being created a cardinal at the consistory preceeding the death of the pope has not yet received his red hat. But this does not invalidate his elevation nor lessens his position in the conclave. He was received by the Spanish ambassador to the vatican and they both went this morning to St. Peter's, entered the chapel of the sacrament and knelt beside the bier, remaining there, praying for some time.

Cardinal Taliani, the nuncio at Vienna, who was also created a cardinal at the last consistory; Cardinal Gossens, archbishop of Mechlin and Cardinal Gruscha, archbishop of Vienna arrived here this morning. The latter received before his departure from Vienna, instructions from the Austrian government concerning the conclave.

When the time came to take the fisherman's ring from Pope Leo's finger, it has just developed another was found in its place. This did not surprise anyone, as generally the pontiff does not wear it, the ring being less of an ornament than an unused seal. At the first meeting of the congregation of cardinals after the pope's death when the famous ring should have been broken, the ceremony was omitted and it was put on record that the ring, for the moment could not be found. The fisherman's ring is known to have been lost twice before.

Among the state papers preserved at Simancas, near Valladolid, Spain, is a letter from Count Olivares, then Spanish ambassador at Rome, to Philip II, dated September 5, 1588, saying:

"Sixtus V has ben ill from anxiety and vexation. The vexation to which I refer was at missing the fisherman's ring. He carried it with him in a purse and he discovered that he had been robbed of it by a cup-bearer. Unless the publicity given to the affair obliges him to punish the man he will not do so, or even dismiss him. Such is his affection for those who serve him. The pope would do anything to avoid showing the world that his confidence had been abused.

In September, 1899, Pope Leo was one day insistently asked for an audience by an under servant and yielding to curiosity granted it, whereupon the man entered, and kneeling said:

"Your holiness, I have to restore to you what has been a loss not only to you but to the world."

After these words the man proffered the pope the Fisherman's ring, which he had found. Pope Leo looked at it in surprise and then solemnly putting it on his finger said:

"The thanks of the church are due to you, my son. I shall see that you are rewarded."

The next day the man called at the treasury and was given three dollars.

THE LAST FAREWELL.

On the stroke of the midday as the noon gun from the castle S. Angelo was fired, the laying in state of the body of Pope Leo XIII came quietly to an end and those few who still lingered at the gates of the chapel of the sacrament, in St. Peters were ordered to leave and some two or three hundred persons including Cardinal Goessens, who arrived from Mechlin just in time, passed slowly out of St. Peters into the sun-lit plaza and the world's last farewell to the great pope was over. Ten minutes later Italian bersaglieri (infantry) and gendarmes, poured out of the basilca and lined up on the steps in imposing array.

As the last company passed the outer gates were closed and the body of the pope was left to the tender care of those who had watched Leo XIII in his lifetime. The preparations for this evening's interment were immediately commenced.

While the bells of the basilica rang out their daily noon chorus, the troops formed in column and then marched off to the barracks. Their historic incursion into vatican territory ended without the slightest friction.

It is estimated that 80,000 people passed the catafalque since Thursday morning.

The most solemn and imposing ceremony today was the reception by the sacred college in the hall of consistory, of the whole diplomatic body accredited to the vatican. All the diplomats were gorgeous uniforms and the cardinals had on their magnificent violet robes and were seated in huge arm chairs according to right of precedence. The Portuguese ambassador, M. Matin D'Antas, dean of the diplomatic corps, was at the head of the body. He advanced and delivered an address in French, expressing the sorrow of all the powers at the death of Pope Leo who had acquired the universal esteem of the world.

Cardinal Oreglia, dean of the college of cardinals, rose and answered in Italian. With firm, sonorous voice he thanked the diplomats in the name of the sacred college for the part all the governments had taken in this mourning of the church. He eulogized Pope Leo and his work during his long pontificate and ended with expressing the hope that God will suggest to the sacred college a worthy successor to Leo XIII. After this the members of the diplomatic body kissed the hands of all the cardinals and especially congratulated Cardinal Oreglia on the sentiments he had expressed, and which produced the best of impressions.

CHURCH CROWDED

MASS CELEBRATED FOR REPOSE OF POPE'S SOUL.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 25.—The first solemn high mass of requiem for the repose of the soul of Pope Leo XIII, to be celebrated in Boston, was sung at the Church of St. Leonard of Port Maurice (Italian) in the North End this morning. The ceremony was especially notable as the church is the headquarters of the Franciscans in Boston of which order the pontiff was protector. The interior of the edifice was hung in black, gold and white.

Before the high altar stood a catafalque in the form of a draped casket, surrounded with tall mourning candelabra and surmounted by a canopy.

The celebrant of the mass was Rev. Father Ubaldus, pastor of the church, the deacon was Father Liberti and the sub-deacon Walther Wenceslaus. The church was crowded throughout the long service.

HUMAN BRIDGE

TWO MEN WERE RESCUED FROM DROWNING.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 25.—By suspending themselves from pier No. 3, East river, to the water, John Crowley, Daniel Larkin and Michael Touhey, longshoremen, saved two men from drowning early yesterday. James Short, 28 years old, of 346 East 9th street, and Joseph McGulhan, aged 26, a waiter of 306 East 11th street, had gone to sleep on the stringpiece of the pier. Short half awoke with a start and rolled over into the water. As he did so he grabbed McGuigan, dragging him, too.

The men shouted, and the watchman of the pier, Jerome Waring, jumped into the river after the men, but he could not swim. The watchman managed to keep the heads of the men above the surface and by shouting awakened the longshoremen who were also sleeping on the pier.

There was a heavy piece of rope attached to a stanchion on the pier, and this Crowley tied around his legs. He then took hold of Larkin's legs and Larkin did likewise to Touhey. This brought Touhey within a few inches of the surface of the water.

The watchman managed to push the two men in the water with him within reach of Touhey, and after a struggle all three were dragged out.

The watchman then pulled Touhey back on the pier, and then Larkin, Crowley's feet were then untied and all was well.

Short and McGulhan were found to be suffering slightly from shock. They were taken to Gouverneur hospital.

AMERICANS LEAVE LONDON.

By Associated Press to The Sun

LONDON, July 25—The American rifle team left London for Liverpool this morning. Lord Cheylesmore, chairman of the council of the National Rifle association, made the farewell speech and Col. Leslie C. Bruce, captain of the American team, replied, thanking Lord Cheylesmore for the cordial reception accorded to the Americans here. The train steamed out with bands playing "The Star Spangled Banner," followed by "Auld Lang Syne."

SAUGUS RACES

New Trotting Record for the Track

ONE HEAT WAS RUN IN 2.10

Big Crowd Saw the Events

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 25—The largest crowd ever gathered at Old Saugus saw Lady K place a new trotting record for the track on the books yesterday afternoon. The latest figures are 2.12½ and replace the 2.13¾ made by those good racing machines Caprice and Adra Belle away back in 1896.

The fast mile was not the only attractive feature that Manager Hitchings had to offer his record-breaking crowd. The 2.10 pace was a race worth going a long way to see, and it was won by that always popular warrior Terrell S. In the excellent time of 2.11½, 2.10¾ and 2.10. The racing right through was the kind that the large assemblage had turned out to see.

The track was in fine condition, and of the six horses who won heats in the course of the afternoon four took records which puts them in faster company for their future races.

The 2.05 pacers, the same old bunch who have been giving us such good races for two years, were the special drawing card. Louise G., the Maine-bred queen, who was making her first start of the season, and who is always ready to fight and give a good account of herself, was slated to win. Ned Wilkes, on his good victory at Dover, had many admirers, as did old reliable Terrell S.

Chester Lasell brought the clean-gaited son of Strathmore to the post well prepared and he went a race which must be counted one of his very best. Louise G. carried him the first. Cinch the second, and then Ned Wilkes, who had pulled up two heats, went after him in the third.

It was no use, he had his racing shoes on, and this third heat in 2.10 tells what a good horse he is when in shape. It was a great race to win and one that was no discredit to lose.

Cinch started out for the first heat, but at the quarter went to a break, letting Helen R. get the pace up the backstretch. Louise G. moved by her coming out of the upper turn and looked to be able to make her friends happy, but the drive home was too much for her and Terrell S. went under the wire first.

Bass made a try for the second heat with Cinch and kept the son of Alcantara in front until almost at the finish.

Princess Moquette acted as leader a good part of the third mile. On the upper turn Louise G. and Terrill S. closed up on her and she dropped out of the hunt. The talent rather expected Ned Wilkes to come to life in this heat, for he had not been hurried earlier in the race. Switzer made a drive through the stretch and passed all but Terrell S., but the latter was full of pace, too, and was able to stall his fresh rival off.

Jimmie Timothy won a rattling good race with Mary Rachel. "Lovely Mary," as the rathbirds at Myrtle have dubbed the cradle daughter of Simmons, was the flip in the 2.17 trot, but it looked like misplaced judgment when she did her sonic and dance act in the first heat.

Then when she did behave herself in the second she found herself up against a trotter who was able to place the track record of 2.12 1-2.

This did not discourage Timothy. He kept on trying and was rewarded, for the two-heat winner went to the bad early in the third mile, and out of the 2.19 class went "Lovely Mary."

She acted badly early in the fourth heat, which was won by the son of Nominator, Notion. Timothy kept Mary on her stride in the next two heats and she was then able to dispose of Notion.

Lady K, the winner of the first two heats and maker of the trotting record for the track, had the hard luck to get distanced in the fifth heat. She rapped herself and after that was not able to stay on a trot. She is a 9-year-old black mare, sired by Frank L, 2.14 1-2, son of Sentinel Wilkes, and her dam was by H. B. Banning.

A. H. Gaffney of Nansen, Penn., who owns that good race horse Rommer, turned a new one loose in the 2.07 pace, and one who looks as if he was a high-class pacer. His name is The Judge and he is a son of Gen. Turner's old trotter, Bellini, 2.13 1-4. He goes without boots or hopples, and his first heat in 2.15 1-4 was easy for him. Lady Nance, a pupil of Bob Durland's, won second money to him, with Frank Hayden's Strathbelle third and Bard Palmer's Wilkesbrino fourth. Wilbur Danley's Fanny Derby made her maiden start and performed well.

There was nothing to the 2.22 pace but Frank Wilson, the fibred Gambetta Wilkes that Lon McDonald is educating for his stake engagements in the eastern end of the grand circuit. Walter Cox, with an unmarked member of the Alcander family, made him beat 2.15 in the third heat, but it was only a good work out for him.

ANOTHER TRIAL

OF THE FAMOUS MINNIE HEALEY MINE CASE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BUTTE, Mont., July 25.—The famous Minnie Healey mining case, which has involved a judicial scandal that spread over the country, will be tried again.

The supreme court yesterday denied that the conduct of Judge E. W. Harney, who decided the case, was such as to justify a reversal of his decision. It finds that his relationship with Ada H. Brackett, the woman employed for the alleged purpose of influencing the judge and his decision, was very reprehensible, and he is severely criticised. Some of the sensational letters that passed between the woman and Harney while he had the case under advisement are quoted by the court, and it is declared that they were very improper.

The court finds that Harney never really did deny the authenticity of the letters, and they are therefore accepted as true.

The decision is a great victory for the Amalgamated company.

LAND OFFERED CITY

Free for a School Site in Centralville

By Mr. Wyman Who Owns the Land Adjoining the Boisvert Lot—It is Better Than the Site Selected

The Sun today is able to make public a proposition which if accepted by the city may obviate the necessity of purchasing a school site in Centralville.

The land adjoining the Boisvert lot in Centralville is owned by Isaac Wyman, a resident of Boston. Mr. Wyman attended the hearing upon the purchase of the site offered by Mr. Boisvert.

After the hearing was over he made the statement to several gentlemen well acquainted with him, one of whom is D. W. Stewart, the plumber, that he would give the city all the land needed for a school site, provided the school should be named after him, the Wyman school.

It does seem that in our present financial straits the city council would be willing to accept any such offer. We do not know Mr. Wyman and have no reason to doubt his entire sincerity in making this offer. Neither have we any reason to assume that there is any stigma attached to his name, that would make the proposition undesirable to the city.

It is stated that this land has been held by the Wyman family for over twenty years past and that the offer is made in entire good faith, although it has not yet been submitted to the mayor or the city council as representing the city.

The lot which Mr. Wyman would offer is in every way as desirable as that which the city council selected. It has the additional advantage of being a little farther away from the Aiken street dump. It is to be hoped that Mr. Wyman will submit his proposition in a formal and authentic manner so that it may be acted upon by the city. It would save the price of the site and leave that much more with which to start the building.

Offers of this kind are so rare that they should not be let pass without careful examination and scrutiny. Mayor Howe will do well to suspend action upon the resolution for the purchase of the Boisvert land pending the receipt of Mr. Wyman's proposition.

REFUSED TO WORK

Balky Automobile Scared Horses

A balky automobile gave a Fourth of July exhibition in Market street this afternoon that scared horses and attracted everybody within sound of its expolsions which were loud enough to be heard for blocks away.

The machine raised the flag of truce sometime in the forenoon and an auto expert spent three hours of his time and a goodly supply of his energy in trying to persuade the pesky thing to get a move on.

He finally succeeded in getting the machinery to move and after touching 50 or 60 different screws and cogs he jumped aboard with an air of confidence that was of short duration.

The machine made ten loud explosions while turning and as it moved slowly down Market street it produced on an average of about ten explosions a minute. The first horse to start was an old grey wearing a sun bonnet and attached to an express wagon. He came very nearly getting away but the young man who was driving him did a 50 yard dash that was too much for the old horse and he was led back to his old position.

Several other horses were so scared that the drivers had to stand at their heads, but the auto man didn't notice them. He crept along and seemed to be interested only in the number of explosions that the machine was capable of producing.

Suddenly, however, three great loud reports were heard and the machinery stopped. The man at the brake swore and the men who were losing good time holding their horses were glad that the horseless carriage had balked again.

BURNED HIS HANDS

CORNELIUS McCARTHY INJURED AT GAS HOUSE.

Cornelius F. McCarthy, aged 24 years, and residing at 56 Parker street, while at work at the gas house this afternoon sustained severe friction burns on both hands.

He was at work painting on one of the houses in the yard when gas began to escape and becoming frightened he slid down the rope which held the ladder on which he was working. When he reached the ground his hands were badly burned from coming in contact with the rope. He was taken to the Emergency hospital where his wounds were dressed.

SLIGHTLY INJURED.

WOMAN DESERTED

Husband Returned and Took Furniture

A very pitiful case has been brought to light by the desecration of a home by a husband who has been absent from his family for some time. He was not satisfied with allowing his wife to support the family, but after a long absence returned and broke up the little home which the unfortunate woman was trying to sustain.

The woman in question is Mrs. Seeton, who resides in Hart's avenue, off Hildreth street, and who has been supporting her eight children since her husband deserted her some time ago. Recently Mrs. Seeton had three of the children placed in a local charitable institution, and while she was working a girl of about twelve years looked after four younger children.

Mrs. Seeton is employed as a washerwoman by a number of the residents of Centralville and by long and faithful work had managed to maintain her home and support her children.

The climax was reached yesterday when her husband made his appearance at the house, while she was out working, and putting the oldest girl in through one of the windows, he gained an entrance to the house and when Mrs. Seeton returned from her work at night she found the furniture removed and her oldest child missing, the father having taken both the child and the furniture.

FLOOD OF WATER

WAS CAUSED BY DISCONNECTED PIPE.

A large stream of water spouting from a manhole in Merrimack street near John, just before noon today, made many people think that one of the water mains had burst and that the street would be flooded, but the cause of the miniature geyser was the disconnecting of the pipe which supplies water to the street car sprinklers.

The car was stopped near the manhole and the supply pipe attached after which the water was turned on. When the tank in the car was about half filled, the pipe got disconnected and the water shot up in the air to a height of about 20 feet. Before the water could be shut off that portion of Merrimack street was filled with water.

LIBERAL DEFEATED

LABOR CANDIDATE NOW OUT IN PARLIAMENTARY ELECTION.

By Associated Press to The Sun

LONDON, July 25.—The report of election yesterday in the Brainard castle division of Durham county of a successor to Sir Joseph W. Pease, liberal, resulted:

A. Henderson labor), 3,370.
W. L. Vane (unionist), 3,323.
Mr. Beaumont (liberal), 2,809.

The result of the election was a complete surprise, for since 1886 the division had returned a liberal. It is another of a succession of labor victories in recent years by elections and the result is significant because Vane is a strong supporter of colonial secretary Chamberlain's fiscal policy. While personally popular he received fewer votes than when he ran for the same division in 1900.

On the other hand, it is asserted that the contest was more influenced by the education act, the division being strongly non-conformist.

The wounded man, who is supposed to be Charles J. Allan, a sailor, died later. The shooting followed an attempt at burglary and a struggle in which the watchman was badly beaten. When the police arrived at the scene the watchman was lying almost unconscious, over the body of the burglar, whose companions had fled.

MILLS WILL CLOSE

COTTON MARKET HAVING ITS EFFECT ON WARE FACTORIES.

By Associated Press to The Sun

It is understood that unless conditions speedily improve, the Otis Manufacturing company may shut down several of its mills early next month, or else place the whole plant on a half time schedule.

ABANDONED CHILD

Mother's Love Led to Her Arrest

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 25.—Attiring her seven-weeks-old babe in a lace gown, with a coat of white silk and a cap of pretty frills, Sophie Kohler, desperate, late Thursday night laid the infant on the doorstep of the house at No. 97 Greenpoint avenue, Williamsburg. She started to steal away. Suddenly she stopped.

What if those who found the child might be very poor—might not be able to care for it and feed it! She turned back.

Across the street a man was walking. He stared at her curiously. She did not hesitate. She went back to the doorstep. She bent over the child until the man had passed and was some distance up the street. Then impulsively, the woman tossed her purse beside the sleeping babe and went away.

In the moment of her action she had forgotten that the purse contained other things as well as $6—all the money she had in the world. It was a handsome purse. It bore on it the initials, "S. K." So John Craven discovered this when, on coming home late he found the child and the purse. Then he called the policeman.

The policeman found inside the purse a New York Transfer company check, and on it was the address, "Vollmer, 627 East Twelfth street." Also there was a card made out to John Keifer, 963 North 5th street. It was a membership card in St. Peter's church, Philadelphia.

At the Twelfth street address it was found that recently arrived from Philadelphia and staying with the Vollmers was Sophie Kohler. The girl was arrested. The police say that she confessed to having abandoned the child.

The woman is silent concerning the card of John Keifer. He is superintendent of the St. Vincent Orphan asylum at Tacony, Pa. He is out of the city, but his son, when seen in Philadelphia, yesterday, said that his father had merely loaned the card to the young woman to help her get the child in some institution in New York city.

RACE ABANDONED

THE SHAMROCKS BECALMED NEAR SCOTLAND.

(From Sr. Erin via DeForest Wireless.)

NEW YORK, July 25.—The Shamrocks left Sandy Hook under their own sails at 9.40 a. m. today for a race after which they will be taken to Erie Basin to be cleaned and polished. Sir Thomas Lipton sailed on board the challenger today. The wind was northwest and blowing about seven knots.

The course is from Scotland lightship around Sandy Hook lightship four and a half miles and return, once or twice around, depending on the wind. The starting time was:

Shamrock III, 10:57:15.
Shamrock I, 10:57:19.

At the turn the time was:

Shamrock III, 11:27:37.
Shamrock I, 11:27:59.

Half way back to Scotland lightship the yachts were becalmed. Shamrock III had gained in beating back and was half a mile ahead of Shamrock I. The race was then abandoned.

TURKISH GOVERNMENT

WILL HAVE SHIP BUILT BY CRAMPS.

By Associated Press to The Sun

PHILADELPHIA, July 25.—In 1900 Ahmed Pasha, chief engineer of the Ottoman navy came to this country for the purpose of examining the American system of naval construction. As a result of his investigation the Turkish government contracted with the Cramp Ship-building company for the construction of the warship Medjidia, which is of the protected cruiser type and will be launched today.

The general dimensions and characteristics of the vessels are: Length on the load line 330 feet, beam extreme 42 feet; draft, mean, 16 feet; displacement, 3300 tons; speed, 22 knots.

The armament consists of two six-inch rapid fire guns 45 calibres long, eight 4.7 rapid fire guns, 5 calibres; six 3 pounder rapid fire guns, 50 calibres, six 7 pounder rapid fire guns, 50 calibres; one 3-inch field gun; two torpedo tubes for 14-inch Whitehead torpedoes.

The battery is capable of firing projectiles of 584 pounds at one round of all guns. Using the standard rates of firing for guns of the calibre given the total discharge of all guns in one minute would be 5,000 pounds. The maximum thickness of the protected deck over the space occupied by the engines and boilers is four inches. Otherwise the vessel is unarmored with the exception of the conning tower and tube leading to protected deck.

The vessel is provided with a strong ram at the bow.

MORE CHARGES

MAY CAUSE MILLER TO BE DROPPED.

By Associated Press to The Sun

WASHINGTON, July 25.—A committee of the bookbinders was in conference today but they announced that there was nothing to give out at present. They assert confidence that the matter will be adjusted satisfactorily and that on account of the new charges which have been filed Miller will be dropped from the service. The charges which are the ones on which Miller's expulsion from the union were based, are now under investigation by government officials. President Barrett of the local union said today that the situation is such that no statement can be made by the union at this time but that no hasty action is contemplated and no clash with the law has been contemplated.

LONDON CIRCLES

Made Money by Drop in Market

WALL STREET BEGAN BUSINESS WITH ANXIETY

Orders Given to Buy at Declines

By Associated Press to The Sun

LONDON, July 25.—Comparatively little interest is taken in financial circles here in the liquidation in the New York market which it is believed will likely clear the atmosphere. The American holdings of the British people are insignificant and, as a matter of fact there has been much selling recently and profits were reaped from the falling prices in New York. A strong feeling prevails that the level of prices has been reached which caused an advance in Americans and a consequent better tone of the market. At the opening the general average of prices was a dollar above parity, with some trading on New York exchange.

Isaac Seligman said: "The market here has been regulated by New York. As an indication of the importance of the New York market, a fact may be cited which I strongly believe in, that nearly all the European financial markets are regulated by the tone of New York. New York is rapidly becoming the financial centre of the world. For all that, I am afraid they have been overdoing it. The state of the market there is simply the natural result of over-speculation and the over-financing of the last three years. It is very difficult to say when the bottom will be reached; but, if it was known exactly how many weak pools or cliques still exist it would be possible to prophesy with more assurance. We will have a series of fluctuations yet, I think. The situation here is quite sound; but the market is also suffering from losses in mining ventures and from the effect of the three years African war. Now there is a new agitation, the tariff question, which tends to unsettle business people's minds.

A representative of Brown, Shipley & Co., said: "We are bankers, and not prophets. We are getting down to reasonable, level prices. The New York market has been weak and nervous but here this morning prices have risen."

Most of the brokers closed their offices at the usual hour, one o'clock, today, not waiting for the quotations from the New York. The failure of Frederick Lowe, a member of the stock exchange, was announced. He was only a small operator.

CLERKS AT WORK

EXAMINING BOOKS OF THE FIRMS THAT FAILED.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 25.—No additional information concerning affairs of Talbot J. Taylor and company, and W. L. Stow and company were obtainable this morning. The clerical forces of both firms were at work examining the books, assisted by expert accountants. Latest reports place the liabilities of Taylor and company at not less than $3,000,000. James R. Keene was at the office of Taylor and company all the morning but denied himself to all interviewers. The assignee of Stow and company was in charge of that firm's office. He sent out word that he would be unable to file even an approximate schedule of assets and liabilities before Monday. The market became stronger generally in the last hour on the belief that a favorable bank statement would be issued. The list sold off again just before publication of the bank statement.

The increased loans shown by the bank in place of a decided contraction which has been looked for, was a disappointment but was not offset by the large cash gains. The market sold off, became dull and narrow, then rallied here and there and closed irregular and unsettled at prices generally below the best. Some further apprehension was excited by the weakness of such stocks as Evansville and Terre Haute and Des Moines and Fort Dodge. No definite explanation was forthcoming.

MAY NOT RACE

MORGAN KNOWS NOTHING OF COLUMBIA-SHAMROCK SPIN.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEWPORT, R. I., July 25.—When ex-Commodore E. Morgan was seen on board the Columbia by the Associated Press representative this morning in regard to the reported arrangement for a race between the Columbia and the Shamrock I he stated that he had been informed of the report but that he himself had made no agreement nor had there been any talk of a race with his consent. What Mr. Morgan would be willing to do in case the matter were properly advanced he was then of course unprepared to state but it was apparent from what he said that he had thus far given the matter no serious consideration and there is a strong belief here that such a race will not be arranged. Just what grounds such a report could have started from cannot be understood among the yachtsmen here for they are in the same position as Mr. Morgan, they have heard no talk.

Mr. E. D. Morgan is the manager of the Columbia, the owner of the boat being Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan, who is now in Bar Harbor.

GEORGE GARDNER

Did Not Foul Jack Root in Fight

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 25.—George Gardner of Lowell saw himself fight Jack Root of Chicago all over again last night at the Grand Opera House, this city. A private view of the fight on July 4 was held through the medium of moving pictures. The reproduction lasted over an hour and was voted a success by those present. The films are the best taken of a mill in the past seven years, not barring the Corbett-Fitzsimmons pictures.

If any foul was committed by either man the pictures do not show it.

TWELVE INJURED

Trains Collided Near Hutchinson, Kansas

By Associated Press to The Sun

HUTCHINSON, Kas., July 25.—Twelve persons were injured, two fatally, in a collision between a Santa Fe east-bound passenger and a Missouri Pacific north-bound train at the junction west of this city today.

Both trains were running behind schedule time and neither knew of the approach of the other. The Missouri Pacific train was just crossing the Santa Fe tracks when the Santa Fe train came around the bend at tremendous speed. The heavy engine crashed into the rear cars of the other train, piling them and the Santa Fe locomotive and baggage cars into the ditch together. All those injured were on the Missouri Pacific train.

Doctors have gone to the scene and the injured are being conveyed to the hospital.

GAVE HIS LIFE

To Save Woman and Her Babe

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 25.—To save the lives of a woman and her baby crossing Tremont avenue, near Boston road in the path of a runaway horse and wagon last night, Richard Meyers, of No. 809 Columbus avenue, Manhattan, made a heroic sacrifice of his own life. Trampled by the horse and run over by the wagon, he was instantly killed.

Meyers' heroism was witnessed by a large number of women and children, who themselves narrowly escaped injury.

The hero was employed by a grocer at Tremont avenue and Boston road as a driver. He returned to the store about 7.30 o'clock, after having delivered a number of orders. He was asked to deliver an order a block away. When returning Meyers saw the horse he had been driving coming toward him through Tremont avenue at a furious pace.

In the middle of the driveway, and directly in front of St. Thomas' Roman Catholic church, stood a woman who afterward said she is a Mrs. Spero, but who refused to give her address. She was pushing a baby carriage. Several other women, also pushing baby coaches, were nearly across the street. They rushed to the sidewalk.

Mrs. Spero seemed petrified with fear. Meyers rushed into the roadway. The frightened horse was almost upon the woman as he reached her side. Gathering all his strength Meyers pushed Mrs. Spero and the baby carriage to one side. At the same time he tried to grab the bridle of the horse. He missed it and the horse struck him. He was knocked down. The horse trampled on him and the wheels of the wagon passed over his body. The baby carriage rolled to the curb and Mrs. Spero fell to the ground. The wagon passed within a few inches of her.

The horse, now doubly frightened, increased his speed and ran westward, but was stopped by Patrolman Barnecott at Vyse avenue.

Meyers' brave act had been witnessed by the Rev. Fr. Parks, rector of St. Thomas church. He helped to carry the body to the sidewalk.

SHIP LAUNCHED

WAS BUILT FOR THE TURKISH GOVERNMENT.

By Associated Press to The Sun

PHILADELPHIA, July 25.—In the presence of a distinguished gathering of diplomats, foreign and American naval officers and prominent citizens of Philadelphia the Turkish cruiser Medjidia, first warship ever built here for the Ottoman empire, was launched today at 1.54 p. m. at Cramp's ship yard. The sponsor for the new addition to the Sultan's navy was Mrs. Edwin S. Cramp, and the baptism was an evasion of the Korans teaching turned into a graceful compliment to the American people. The Sultan forbids women from participating in a christening at which wine is used.

When the Medjidia glided down the ways after one o'clock, grouped about the christening platform were a dozen Turkish officials. They included Chekib Bey, Turkish minister to the United States, his two sons, Ali Bey and Osman Bey, Djelal Munif Bey, first secretary of the Ottoman legation; Sidekey Bey, consul New York city, his secretary, Selim Bey; Halid Bey and secretary, Selman Bey; Halid Bey and Bahadin Bey, besides Lieut. Commander Sabri Bey and Lieut. Ali Bey of the Turkish navy, inspectors of machinery and hull construction respectively on duty at the ship yard for the sultan.

LEGAL NOTICES

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS, Middlesex, ss. Superior Court.

To the Honorable the Justices of the Superior Court next to be holden at Cambridge, in the county of Middlesex:

Respectfully represents William M. Bascom of Lowell, in said county, that he is the owner in fee simple of a lot of land situated on the southerly side of Merrimack street, in said Lowell, containing two thousand two hundred sixteen and ½ square feet bounded and described as follows: Beginning at a point on the southerly side of said street twelve feet from the northwesterly corner of the sidewalk to the block of brick stores near the Congregational meeting-house, thence running westerly on said street twenty-three and one-third feet parallel to Lowell street, and one hundred and eighty-eight and one-half feet distant therefrom; thence southerly at a right angle ninety-five feet; thence easterly parallel to Merrimack street twenty-three and one-third feet; thence northerly at a right angle ninety-five feet to the point of beginning. The said Congregational meeting house being the First Congregational Meeting-house in Lowell. Being the same premises conveyed to Timothy Bascom by James Russell and Cummings Barr by their deed dated June 6, A. D. 1843, recorded Middlesex Reg. Deeds Southern Dist. Book 427, Page 491, and by the said Timothy Bascom devised to me by his will duly recorded in the Registry of Probate in and for said Middlesex county.

2. That the record title of said land is encumbered by an undischarged mortgage given by said Timothy Bascom to one William B. Daniels of Boston in our County of Suffolk dated October 6, 1846, and recorded with Middlesex Reg. of Deeds So. Dist. Book 492, Page 183, to secure the payment of the sum of three hundred and fifty dollars in two years with interest, which said mortgage was on the 11th day of July, A. D. 1861, assigned to Rebecca Bascom now deceased, wife of said Timothy Bascom, by the administrator of the estate of said William B. Daniels, which assignment was recorded with the Middlesex North District Registry of Deeds Book 28, Page 130.

3. That said mortgagor and those having his estate in said land have been in uninterrupted possession of said land for more than twenty years after the expiration of the time limited in the mortgage for the full performance of the condition thereof.

4. That no payment on account of the debt secured by said mortgage within twenty years after the expiration of the time limited for the performance of the condition thereof has been made or any other act done within such time in recognition of its existence as a valid mortgage, and that your petitioner believes that said mortgage was long since paid and by accident or mistake the discharge thereof has not been recorded in said Registry of Deeds.

Wherefore your petitioner prays that such notice may be ordered to be given to the representatives of the said Rebecca Bascom, and those interested in her estate, and to all other persons interested in said land, as the court may order; and that a decree may be entered reciting the facts above set forth and declaring said mortgage to have been fully paid and discharged, and ordering that from and after such decree no action to enforce a title under said mortgage shall be maintained, and that said mortgage be released and cancelled upon the records.

Dated the 1st day of July, A. D. 1903.

The beach weather has arrived. Make the most of it.

Again is it necessary to remind parents to look out for the little ones. Keep them cool, give them wholesome food in limited quantities, and give them large surfeits of fresh air. By so doing they will be tided over the hot spell.

The waitresses in Chicago are forbidden to chew gum. It is regarded as a sort of vice and the employers have set out to stop it. Since the recent strike the waitresses are under contract not to chew gum. A violation of this contract of course justifies their discharge. It is regarded almost as bad as the cigarette habit.

There is a law against prize-fighting in Massachusetts, and the police of Boston apparently did not know that a fight occurred within their jurisdiction Wednesday night. Nevertheless, there was a gathering at the Hub of sports from all over the state that evening and wherever groups of them were found they were discussing the prospects of the "fight." It is possible that they were not as good judges of the article as are the police. —Haverhill Gazette.

The metropolitan police are too busy stirring up mare's nests of their own growing at Revere and blaming the town officials for the evil.

Practical Politics discusses the embarrassments which President Roosevelt is bringing upon the party managers by his kitchen cabinet by his determination to push too many of his friends to the front. If the president keeps on in this line, by the time the convention assembles, he will have broken down the mainstays of his support. On the whole it would seem that the prospects are daily getting brighter for the election of a democratic candidate.

THE CHILD LABOR

The state inspector has gone through the mills and found no evidence of any violation of the child labor law. So we expected. The inspectors assigned to Lowell are not in the habit of finding violations of the factory laws. They are apparently so long accustomed to passing everything as all right that they find it difficult to make a departure for the purpose of enforcing the law.

AIKEN STREET PARK.

It is proposed to turn the made land on the east side of Aiken street bridge into a beautiful common, covered by a soft coating of velvet grass and planted with trees and shrubs. The citizen, the board or commission that makes a beautiful common from a malodorous dump well deserve the gratitude of the city at large. No part of the city is in greater need of a common than this very locality. It is therefore hoped that the proposition will be carried out. The fact that a new school is to be erected in the vicinity will make the new park much more desirable.

DROWNING ACCIDENTS.

We may expect to hear of several drownings this hot weather. When boys get into the water they do not know where to stop. As a result they get over their depth or in some other way become the water's victims. We presume it would be useless to advise certain boys. The boys who refuse to be advised by their seniors are the boys who get drowned. There are quite a few of them up in the cemetery and many more will soon follow.

MORIARTY FOR MAYOR.

Ex-Representative Eugene M. Moriarty of Worcester, the business manager and treasurer of the Worcester Post, is quite favorably mentioned as a candidate for mayor in that city. Mr. Moriarty is a man of very considerable executive ability and his experience of twelve years in the legislature besides his training in local offices should make him a highly desirable candidate for the people of Worcester. Mr. Moriarty is known throughout the state as a clean, upright gentleman, who during his long service in the legislature stood firmly for the right as he saw it and never betrayed the plain people who elected him. We believe he would make an excellent mayor.

SERIOUS CHARGE MADE.

On Saturday during the trial of a liquor case in police court the lawyer for the defendant charged the government with being susceptible to influence in disposing of such cases. The court promptly repelled the insinuation so far as it might refer to the interrity of the presiding judge, but it had no reference whatever to the court. A great many people are wondering what it meant or whether it is a fact that evidence of violation in certain case is hushed up so that the case never goes to court. The question to be considered then is whether there is anybody disposing of cases privately without letting them go to court.

ROOSEVELT EMBARASSING HIS MANAGERS.

President Roosevelt is in conflict with the bookbinders' union for having restored an employe of the government printing office who was under the ban of the union. In restoring him the president simply stated that labor unions could not overrule the laws of the United States. The affair has apparently been given undue significance by the press of the country. The bookbinders have threatened to strike but a strike against the federal government could result only in permanent removal from their places. The government cannot long be hampered by the action of any union. Besides there is the danger of being charged with treason in the conduct of such a strike. Verily, the government of the United States is very autocratic when its powers are invoked by its employes.

THE PAPAL SUCCESSION

There is now much discussion over the papal succession, even among the cardinals. Not all of the despatches can be relied upon as accurate as some of the correspondents are liable to be more sensational than the facts would warrant, but nowadays very little can be kept from the vigilant reporters. The merits and demerits of various candidates are discussed pro and con and while the cardinals differ in their opinion in regard to who should be elected, yet they are all desirous of selecting the one who is best calculated to promote the interests of the church. The cardinal who will bring the most ability to the office and who will incite the least possible enmity is the one who will probably be elected. The election will be made after due deliberation and discussion without the possibility of outside interference after the conclave opens.

It is certain that a choice will be made without much difficulty and that the work of the church will go on without any perceptible change. The pope may die but the papacy and the church over which he ruled remain, and were never more vigorous and influential than at present.

SEEN AND HEARD

The truth is often a bitter pill to swallow, but as Judge Hadley told a police officer in police court a few days ago, it should be uppermost in a man's mind.

From statistics recently computed the inference is drawn that the heads of three in every ten college boys instead of being convenial residences for brains are nothing more or less than gardens for football hair.

In a window of one of the most modest and unpretentious drug stores in the city the following sign is displayed: "Nobby petticoats $1.75. It does not say that the petticoat has any mission to perform other than that of the common-everyday petticoat.

At a ball game recently a little boy was calling out, "Ice cold tonic and cigars here." A spectator hearing this ordered a bottle of tonic and much to his surprise upon opening it discovered that the tonic was warm instead of "ice cold," as the boy had led him to believe.

"This tonic isn't cold," said the man in a tone that would cause a lion, and the boy replied, "Well, why didn't you buy it when it was?" The reply was too much for the man and he decided to grin and bear it.

A story is going the rounds, but of course I am not in a position to vouch for the truth of it, to the effect that a certain quite swell young man who has been paying strict attention to a fair young maiden in the Highlands is not going to her house any more. They do tell that the young couple had a little argument about the goodness and badness of men and women. He said that the men are better as a whole than the women and the fair young maiden reversed the opinion. "Then," said the gallant youth, "I will compare notes with you. I will confess my life to you and you can tell me of your past and we will judge the whole by the result." The young maiden assented and the young man started in and unfolded his life to her. When he had finished she looked at him and asked rather doubtfully if he had told her all.

"Yes," he stoutly declared, "I have told you all."

"Then I am unworthy of you. Farewell, for, for-ever," sorrowfully sobbed the fair maiden.

A junk collector endeavoring to wheel what old timers would term "a lazy man's load," had Prescott street all to himself for about fifteen minutes Wednesday evening. His junk cart was loaded with bags on the top of which were several long pieces of inch and two inch iron pipe that had long since gone out of commission. The wheels of the cart, that had seen better days, were twisting and turning under the heavy load and the junk collector was beating the kangaroo walk all to pieces by the contortions he was going through in an endeavor to get his cart out of the car tracks. The iron pipe was reaching far out and pedestrians were in danger of being swept off the sidewalk. The man at the cart handles had his first bit of trouble in Merrimack square, but a dozen or more newsboys went to the rescue and assisted him in pushing his cart in to Prescott street. Then he dismissed the boys and greatly to his sorrow. He found sledding just as hard in Prescott street as in the square.

Two or three times he was assisted by passers-by but as they were not sharing in the profits of the old rags and iron pipes they did not care to waste too much time with the junkman. The poor fellow was blistered at and sworn at but he still continued to throw his left leg over the shafts and push for all he was worth. Just as he was about to free his cart from the car tracks the left wheel squeaked and then it was the junkman's turn to sweat. He swore a blue streak and in recognition of his grand attempt at using cuss words a young man went to his assistance and helped him to push his cart to the sidewalk. The junkman was about all in and after mopping his brow with a handkerchief that left a black streak in its wake he proceeded on the run and divided the lazy man's load. Men who are in the habit of going to Lawrence please take notice.

ATTACKED BY MOB

By Associated Press to The Sun

SCRANTON, Pa., July 27.—An attempt to lynch John Peel, a Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company detective was made Saturday night at Foster by a crowd of villagers who were infuriated upon learning that he had gained evidence which would connect a score of the families of the village with wholesale thievery of brass and other junk from the company's property.

Peel was attacked at a hotel while waiting for a train. He stood off the mob at the point of a revolver until the arrival of a passenger train, the crew of which rescued him with difficulty.

The ringleader of the mob is said to be one of the leading citizens of the town and it is alleged that because the detective had gained evidence in connection with the thieving which would disgrace him and his son forever, he gathered the mob and led them in the murderous attack.

KILLED A MAN

Woman Wanted for Murder Surrendered

By Associated Press to The Sun

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., July 27.—A young woman giving the name of Mrs. Aurora Hodge, her age 19 and her home, Dennison, Iowa, entered the office of Supt. of Police Carr yesterday and said she wanted to give herself up, declaring that she had killed a man near Salt Lake City, Utah, on July 11th last. She said she had parted from her husband a few months after their marriage and went on the road with a traveling medicine vender as his bookkeeper. "When on a lonely road near Salt Lake City, July 11," she said, "he attempted to assault me and I shot him with a revolver I had been carrying. I left him in the wagon and went to Salt Lake City to give myself up but my nerve failed me at the time."

A telegram late last night from Acting Chief of Police Burbridge of Salt Lake City to Chief Carr confirms Mrs. Hodge's story and states that there is a warrant out for her arrest for murder.

Dewey grove was never conducted more quietly or peaceable than since Martin and "Tom" established themselves there.

SUES THE CITY

Clerk of Police Board Wants That $300

Joseph Smith, clerk of the police court, has brought suit against the city to recover $300, amount alleged to be due him for salary.

The writ was issued Saturday afternoon. The ad damnum of the suit is $500, the writ is returnable the first Saturday in September.

This suit grows out of the action of the police board in increasing the salary of their clerk from $1500 to $1800 last year. The committee on appropriations did not make the necessary provisions for this increase. They, in accordance with the city charter—the one recommended by the commission on revision of the city charter, reported an itemized appropriation, allowing and specifying $1500 as the amount for the clerk's salary. The police board, notwithstanding this action, increased the salary. The city council adopted the order presented by the committee on appropriations and refused to vote the money for the increase.

Now the question comes, did the board of police have a legal right to increase and vote a salary when sufficient money was not appropriated for the specific purpose.

Mr. Butler was found in an adjoining field.

TRIED TO ESCAPE

Five Boys Succeeded in Attempt

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 27—More than a score of boys of the House of Refuge on Randall's Island tunnelled under and through the 35 foot high and two feet thick wall surrounding the building yesterday and five succeeded in escaping. A dozen others who were discovered in the act of escaping submitted and seven who tried to get away were captured. Two had swam almost to the Manhattan shore across the channel. Two more were caught in Little Hell Gate, into which they plunged, and another was caught in the water trying to swim to Ward's island.

The escape was made by means of a wooden shed which had been built as a tool house and store house against the inside of the wall surrounding the house of refuge. It contained a lot of diggers' tools, such as picks, crowbars and other instruments that the boys disemployed to cut into use in aiding away from the institution. The leaders enlisted about 25 boys in the attempt. Their ages range from 18 to 20.

RAIDS AT REVERE

Liquor Dealers Were Visited Twice by Officers

By Associated Press to The Sun

REVERE BEACH, July 27.—When the history of the remarkable complications of official authority in Revere for the year 1903 is written, several chapters will have to be devoted to yesterday's doings.

Although Officer George C. Neal, who is in charge of the local activities of the district police, spent the day here, it was one of apparent quiet on his part. But the department of the metropolitan park police, under Chief H. W. West, and the town police force, under Chief Edward H. Oakes, had a lively time of it.

Chief West had a campaign against suspected liquor sellers on Ocean avenue all mapped out and lying on his desk over night. The first thing noticed in the morning was a remarkable scarcity of police in uniform at their accustomed beats along the boulevard. But any one watching the station about 11:30 would have seen squads of men in citizen's clothes issuing from the building in all directions.

They walked rapidly for such a hot morning. One squad, led by Sergt. Hawkins, headed for the premises of Elijah M. Moreland, 524 Ocean avenue, known as the Crescent club. The sergeant took his post at the door while Policemen D. O'Connor, Smith, Quirk, Crowley and Weinert searched the place and seized 192 bottles of beer and 21 glasses. Moreland was arrested, charged with maintaining a common liquor nuisance.

Meanwhile the other raiders were busy. Sergt. Birkford and Patrolmen Chapman, Post, Qualler, McDonald and Shaughnessy went to the Revere Beach hotel on the same street. State Officer Neal accompanied this party. They arrested John H. Lacy, charged with maintaining a common liquor nuisance. All the liquor they could find was about a gill of whiskey derived from 15 empty bottles, but they found hundreds of empty bottles which they will use as evidence.

Patrolmen Chainey, Marshall, T. O'Connor, Sancrie and Haddock visited Manuel Costa, who has been raided a half dozen times this year by Chief Oakes of the town force. Costa was arrested on the same charge as the others, and a quantity of beer on a lot in the rear of his house was seized.

Officers Hardiman, Brawley, Bravoseal and Brookings went to the "Cycle Lunch," 726 Ocean avenue and arrested Mrs. Octavia King. Fifty-two bottles of beer were seized.

The Star of Sea cottage, kept by Michael G. Dougherty, was also searched, but no liquors were found.

CHIEF OAKES RAIDS, TOO.

News of the raids spread rapidly and the street was soon in a turmoil of excitement. Hundreds of people surrounded the places and watched the operation of the mark police.

The news also traveled to the office of Chief Oakes of the town police. Here it excited even more interest than among the kneeling men at the beach, for Chief Oakes also had a bunch of warrants to serve, and among them were warrants against Costa and Dougherty.

This is the first occasion since the metropolitan park force was established on the beach that Chief West ever made such a vigorous rally away from the reservation limits. It was another case of state officers exercising police authority within the town limits, and Chief Oakes felt a little nettled. But he was not to be outdone.

At the hotel Cleveland, occupied by Annie Sherman, Chief Oakes, with Patrolmen Stuart, Lafler and Friel, seized six cases of beer. And as the hotel Cleveland is only about a stone's throw from Chief West's residence, the town authorities think it is their turn to smile.

Chief Oakes also served his search warrants on Manuel Costa and Michael Dougherty, and at the former place succeeded in finding a small quantity of beer, which the park police must have overlooked. Two other warrants were served by them, but nothing was found.

After the seizure at Hotel Cleveland the town officers loaded the beer taken into their police wagon and drove up the boulevard. The crowd showed a quick appreciation of the humor of the situation and laughter and applause greeted their passing.

Nearly all the amusement enterprises at Revere beach were wide open yesterday, and the great boulevard from one end to the other presented an almost unbroken front of holiday gayety and activity.

Flags were flying from every available pole, museums, merry-go-rounds, scenic theatre and railways, and all the nautical attractions were in merry blast, while more than a dozen dealers in beach pails and shovels; canes and souvenirs did a rattling business all day.

In front of each amusement enterprise, with the exception of some of the nautical features, hung a sign which stated that the show was run by a benevolent organization.

Conspicuous for their closing, however, were the photographers, some of whom were in court recently. Not one photographer offered to do business yesterday.

POPE LEO BURIED

Body of Dead Pontiff Interred in St. Peter's

By Associated Press to The Sun

ROME, July 27.—The body of Pope Leo was interred in St. Peter's Saturday night. The strokes of the hammer which resounded through the immense dome of the cathedral announced to the earnest gathering in the nave that Leo XIII had been laid to rest.

At sundown the most important and solemn of all the obsequies took place. The front doors of the basilica were closed and the vast church appeared deserted save for a row of lights at the shrine of St. Peter, the candles about the bier and those persons who had with the utmost reverence gathered there.

About 1000 persons had received invitations to attend the ceremonies. The cardinals, who met earlier in the Vatican, entered the chapel choir, waiting there for the arrival of the procession. Cardinal Oreglia holding the keys of a command.

Through special permission a representative of the Associated Press was allowed to enter the Chapel of the Sacrament before the remains of the dead pontiff were removed. Cardinal Rampolla, as arch-priest of the basilica, was waiting outside the gates in violet robes, surrounded by the chapter of the cathedral, which was led by Mgr. Coppotelli, who conducted the service.

Drs. Lapponi and Mazzoni directed the work of the removal of the bier, which was executed by eight sediari, or pope's carriers, attired in their brilliant red brocade costumes. They at first tried to raise the bier, but, finding it too heavy, they slid it on to a low car with noiseless wheels.

Then, to the strains of the "Miserere," the procession carrying candles and torches, slowly left the chapel and went up the church, passing the bronze statue and beyond the shrine of St. Peter. Those gathered fell to their knees.

St. Peter's is peculiarly fitted to be the background of such a scene. The cold whiteness of her vast pillars showed up the bright uniforms of the guards, the violet robes of the clergy and the red of the bier, while the flickering light of the candles made the funeral procession the only visible object and rendered the obscurity behind it more noticeable.

After slow progress around the church, the cortege arrived at the chapel choir, the bier being so carried that the dead pope entered head first, according to the ceremonial, the chapel from semi-obscurity flashing into the brilliancy of the suddenly turned on electric lights.

Here all those who had received invitations were stopped, remaining in the main part of the basilica behind a double line of the Swiss guards. Within the chapel was Count Camillo Pecci, a nephew of the late pope, wearing the red uniform of a general of the noble guard.

In the chapel the music changed to notes of joy and triumph. From the outside the five bells of St. Peter's rang their accustomed salute to the coming night, mingled harmoniously with the music of the choir.

The scene in the chapel was most effective. The bier bearing the body of the pontiff was received by Cardinal Oreglia. It was placed in the centre, backed by an altar with a beautiful image of the Madonna, before which were burning four immense candles.

Around the two sides of the chapel, in the choir seats, were 36 cardinals, all wearing violet robes except Cardinals Gotti and Pierotti, who wore white mantles of their orders; Cardinal Martinelli in black, as an Augustinian, and Cardinal Vives y Tuto, in Franciscan brown.

In the middle of the right side of the chapel, among the cardinals, sat Prince Mercantonio Colonna, assistant to the pontifical throne, with an empty seat next him, owing to the fact that Prince Orsini, who held the same position, had resigned.

The body was sprinkled with holy water, absolution was given and the foot of Leo XIII was kissed for the last time by Major Domo Cagiano, Master of the Chamber Gisletti, and Count Camillo Pecci. The major domo then covered the venerable features and hands with a white silk veil bordered with gold. Over this the prefect of ceremonies spread a large red silk veil which covered the whole person.

Fire was lighted in a brasier and blown by a bellows, the sparks rising almost to the ceiling, while Mgr. Bartolini read for about 20 minutes the oratio brevis, eulogizing the dead pontiff, and Notary Popani, 84 years old, read out the burial record, a service which he performed upon the occasion of the deaths of Pope Gregory XVI. and Pope Pius IX.

The Monsignors of the Basilica, aided by the noble guard, then laid all that was mortal of Leo XII. in a cypress coffin lined with red satin and bearing on the cover an inlaid cross, the entire sacred college and Prince Colonna rising to their feet as a last tribute and sign of respect.

When the body had been placed in the coffin it was entirely concealed with the red velvet covering which before had been on the bier. The major domo put beside the body two silk purses containing coins of silver and a bronze medal struck during Leo's pontificate. A cutosy, written in magnificent Latin and setting forth the great events of Pope Leo's life and reign, inclosed in a metal tube, was also interred with the body.

When all had been arranged the supreme prayer was said and the last benediction given, all present joining. Half suppressed sobs were heard on all sides.

The second coffin was of lead and very heavy. On the cover at the head was a cross, just below which was a skull and cross bones, while below these were the arms of the late pope, with the triple crown, but without the colors as they signify living authority. At the bottom was a plate bearing the following inscription:

"Corpus Leoni P. H. Vixit an XCIII. Eccles Univers Prefuit an XXV. Mensis 5, Obiit Die XX Julii an MCMIII."

This coffin was sealed personally with the arms of the Camerllenge. The major domo of the chapter of the Basilica lighted a brasier which was used in soldering the coffin, producing sounds and sights strange to hear and see in a church. These coffins were enclosed in a third casket of polished walnut without decoration.

When the last supreme moment came, the heavy coffin, weighing in all 1322 pounds, was rolled out of the chapel, preceded by mace bearers and choirs singing as they went, and followed by all the cardinals, among whom the bowed figure of Oreglia, the strong, upright Vannutelli brothers, the white-haired Agliardi and the immense, black-browed Svampa, were the most conspicuous. Pulleys were attached to the coffin and soon, to the strains of the "Benedictus Dominus Dous Israel," it was hoisted to the stone sarcophagus above the door, where it will remain until the grateful cardinals created by the late pontiff shall erect a suitable tomb in the basilica of St. John Lateran, which was chosen by the pope himself as his final resting place.

Thus was Pope Leo consigned to his long rest.

NARROW ESCAPE

Aeronaut Half Dead When Picked Up

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW HAVEN, July 27.—Alfred Patneau, an aeronaut, who made a balloon ascension at Savin Rock at 10 o'clock Saturday night, came very near finding a watery grave in Long Island sound. Patneau carried along in his balloon a quantity of fireworks which he expected to explode. The fireworks proved defective and the big balloon disappeared in the darkness.

Patneau was hurled against the flag pole on the Savin Rock theatre and then carried out over the sound. He made up his mind that he had struck a current that was carrying him out to sea and he cut loose his parachute.

He landed two miles off shore, but fortunately amid some oyster beds. His life preserver buoyed him up and he fortunately got hold of an oyster stake buoy. There he clung for two hours and yelled for help.

His cries were finally heard at City Point and four rowboats put out to search for him. Charles Hunt and Herbert Sturup, Jr., were the first to reach Patneau. He was up to his neck in water and half dead.

He was taken to the home of Joseph Larrabee in Howard avenue, where a physician worked over him for an hour. He was so nearly gone that they did not dare to move him to the hospital until nearly morning. Patneau was suffering from exhaustion, but after a night's rest he recovered sufficiently to leave the hospital last evening.

His home is in Haverhill, Mass. He is only 19 years of age. He says he will be ready to make ascensions again this week. Patneau was to set off fireworks so that his course over Long Island could be followed by a steam launch. The fireworks failed to explode and he was lost in the darkness.

The balloon landed early yesterday morning on the East Haven green, 10 miles from this city.

FOUND IN SEWER

Body of a Woman Recovered

By Associated Press to The Sun

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., July 27.—With a shoe lace tied tightly around the neck, the body of a woman was found in a sewer yesterday by a boy whose curiosity was aroused by some one up on a break in the sewer. The body appeared to be that of a German woman, a blonde, 30 years old, five feet, 8 inches tall, and weighing 115 pounds. The coroner said the woman had not been dead 24 hours. Although viewed by many people at the morgue the body has not been identified.

WOMAN LYNCHED

Negress Gave Poison to Young Girl

By Associated Press to The Sun

SHREVEPORT, La., July 27.—Information reached Shreveport yesterday that the negress Jennie Steer, who administered poison in a glass of lemonade to Lizzie Dolan, the 16-year-old daughter of John Dolan, from the effects of which she died, was lynched by a mob Saturday night. The lynching occurred on the Beard plantation near the spot where the woman's crime was committed. She was stubborn to the last, denying her crime.

While the body was dangling in midair, several bullets were fired into it by the enraged citizens.

REQUIEM SERVICE

out to the letter, including the pulled catafalque, with head slightly raised and towards the altar. Candles burned at both ends of the catafalque and the crucifix was towards the congregation.

The celebrant of the solemn requiem mass was Rev. Isadore Tresch, O. M. I., and he was assisted in the celebration by Rev. Lawrence J. Tighe, O. M. I., as deacon and Rev. Patrick J. McGrath, O. M. I., sub-deacon.

The choir was assisted by the Full American orchestra and was under the direction of Mr. P. P. Haggerty.

THE PURPLE CATAFALQUE IN THE SANCTUARY AT ST. MICHAEL'S CHURCH.

Schmidt's mass was sung, and after the Libera the choir sang the "Quando Corpus" from Rossini's Stabat Mater.

Rev. Eugene A. Dorgan, O. M. I., pastor of the church, delivered an eloquent sermon on the deceased pontiff. In opening the reverend speaker told the congregation that he would not go into the life of the deceased pope in detail as the newspapers had already told the story. Rev. Father Dorgan spoke on the debt of gratitude the world owed Leo. The reverend speaker said that when Pope Leo ascended the throne at St. Peter's there was a great deal of opposition to the church, but that through his efforts this has been largely overcome.

The world also owed Leo a debt of gratitude in regard to the encyclical on marriage, a duty of course which is known by the people, but which some were beginning to neglect on account of divorces granted by the civil courts. In the encyclical on marriage, the deceased pontiff made a firm endeavor to make marriage as binding all over the country as it is in the Catholic church.

Father Dorgan then spoke of the effect of the pope's teachings and encyclicals even in New England, where there had been a great deal of bigotry and opposition. The people all over the world realized the good works of Pope Leo. The reverend speaker spoke of the honesty of purpose in all the works of His Holiness, even when it displeased His own people. He spoke of the Fenian uprisings in which the pope's decree was against his own people and in favor of England, in order to have law and order. His works were all done openly and honestly and in the interest of the people.

Father Dorgan dwelt on the encyclical of the late pope in which the latter urged unity and the bringing the people together in one fold. At the close of his sermon the preacher urged the people to offer up their prayers for the repose of the soul of the late Pope Leo.

AT ST. MICHAEL'S.

The services at St. Michael's church were of unusual impressiveness, indicative of the great sorrow felt at the death of the pontiff. A large congregation attended the solemn high mass of requiem which was celebrated at 10.30 o'clock. The grand main altar was stripped of its usual adornments and only the light of a dozen candles surrounded by six candles and candelabra. It was elevated, the head of the casket being towards the altar. The celebrant of the mass was Rev. Fr. Mullen, assisted by Rev. E. A. Carney, deacon, and Rev. Charles F. Sullivan, a seminarian and a resident of Collinsville, sub-deacon. Rev. Dennis Murphy was master of ceremonies. The sermon was preached by Rev. Fr. Carney who paid eloquent tribute to the deceased pontiff. The sermon dealt with the important events in the pope's life and particular mention was made of his efforts to unite all in peace. The world owes a great debt to Pope Leo, said the preacher, for all he has done for mankind. When he assumed the papacy he found the country disturbed and all affairs in an unsettled state. His efforts were directed in the work of bringing about peace and quiet and his conciliatory policy accomplished much for which the world should feel grateful. Today, he said, the entire people, infidel, heathen and Christian mourn for the loss of a good man. The preacher referred to the important encyclicals written by the pope on Christian marriage, socialism and the labor question and pointed out that at all times Leo was the friend of the oppressed. He asked all to pray for the repose of his soul, and that God may give him that reward which all men who live according to His commands.

The music for the mass was rendered by the regular quartet of the church assisted by the choir. Director Murphy had prepared a special program for the service and Miss White presided at the organ.

The rubrics of the requiem mass provide for the singing of the "De Profundis," and so this was sung instead of the Asperges which is always sung just before the beginning of the celebration of the high mass on Sundays. Mr. Bonger sustained the solos and the quartet responses were given without organ accompaniment. At the offertory the beautiful and difficult "Quando Corpus" from Rossini's Stabat Mater was rendered by the quartet without organ accompaniment. Mr. James A. Murphy sang the tenor solo, Levitach's "Pie Jesu," after the elevation, and immediately after the sermon the Libera was chanted. Absolution was then pronounced by Rev. Fr. Mullen and at the conclusion of the service the quartet sang Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar," his being included in the musical program at the request of the pastor, Rev. Fr. Shaw. As the clergy and altar boys filed out of the sanctuary the quartet sang "Nearer, My God, to Thee." The entire service was strikingly solemn and impressive.

ST. PATRICK'S.

Masses for the repose of the soul of Pope Leo XIII were sung at St. Patrick's, not only by the rector and curates of the parish but by three visiting clergymen, Rev. Frs. Bonfield and O'Meara of Chicago, Ill., and Rev. John Casey of Rexville, N. Y. The last named officiated in the chapel of Notre Dame academy. Rev. Fr. Bonfield is a relative of Fr. O'Brien and was present in Ireland with the late Rev. Michael O'Brien when the latter died.

The mourning decorations were very striking, both inferior and exterior, being draped in black with white border.

Solemn high mass of requiem was sung at 10.30 o'clock by Rev. James Walsh, assisted by Rev. John J. McHugh, deacon and Rev. T. J. Callahan, sub-deacon. Rev. William O'Brien, P. R., occupied a seat within the sanctuary. The choir under the direction of Prof. Fred Boud rendered Schmidt's beautiful requiem mass. At the offertory Prof. Boud sang Leybach's "Pie Jesu," and as the congregation left the church "De Profundis" was sung by the choir. The eulogy was delivered by Rev. Fr. McHugh.

The preacher gave an eloquent review of the life of the late pope, its effect upon the world and upon the church. He also pointed out the vast amount of good that had resulted from the encyclicals issued by Pope Leo, by his statesmanship and his efforts to preserve peace and good feeling among the powers of and peoples of the earth. The sermon was attentively listened to by a very large congregation.

NEW PORTUGUESE PARISH.

Rev. J. V. Rosa, pastor of St. Anthony's (Portuguese) church of this city, the members of the church choir and several singers from other Catholic church choirs of this city and about 100 members of the congregation went to Lawrence yesterday and assisted in the first mass for the Portuguese of that city which was held in the Immaculate Conception church at 10.30 o'clock.

Rev. Fr. Rosa was the celebrant of the mass and also spoke upon the pope. He asked prayers for the repose of the soul of the pontiff.

Rosewig's entire mass was sung and Nevins' "Veni Creator" was rendered by Miss Hannah Kilkenney. At the offertory "Benedicti" by Cherubini was sung by Pete A. Clune, C. F. Calnan and Frank McCarthy. The organist was Miss Lulu Ginty and the director of the choir was Peter A. Clune. The singers were: Sopranos, Miss Hattie Fox, Miss White of Lawrence; altos, Miss Hannah Kilkenney and Mrs. Catherine Toole of Lawrence; tenors, P. A. Clune, C. F. Calnan and John Buckley; baritone, Daniel S. O'Brien and bass, Frank McCarthy. Hugh McElroy of this city played clarinet obligatos during the mass and before the mass played a solo.

ST. JOSEPH'S CHURCH.

At St. Joseph's, Rev. Fr. Lamothe, O. M. I., celebrated, assisted by Rev. Fr. Caillaud, O. M. I., as deacon and Rev. Brother McNamara, O. M. I., as sub-deacon.

Rev. Fr. Fournier, O. M. I., the director of St. Joseph's church, delivered the eulogy. He took as his text, "And I will raise me up a faithful priest who shall do according to my heart and my soul."—First Book of Kings, II 35.

During his remarks Fr. Fournier referred to his own personal experience with the late pontiff. Fr. Fournier and the Holy Father in Rome 12 years ago and told of his shaking hands with the head of the church. On being told that Fr. Fournier was a French Canadian, the pope said how much he loved the Canadians, who were among the most faithful of his subjects. He also told Fr. Fournier that he loved the Oblates. During this he held Fr. Fournier firmly but kindly by the hand, and the Lowell clergyman says that so great was the powerful magnetism of the pontiff that he felt a sort of dual penetrating him as Leo spoke these affectionate words to him. At this point of his narrative Fr. Fournier bowed his head, overcome with emotion, while his voice broke and tears filled his eyes. Every one among the listeners was deeply moved.

Miss Blanche Dextra gave Gounod's "Pie Jesu" at the elevation. At the offertory Michael's "Pie Jesu" was sung by the choir, and at the communion Rossini's "Quando Corpus" was given by Misses Ida Turte and Blanche Dextra and Messrs. A. July and H. A. Rochrel. The mass sung was that of the harmonized plain chant. As a processional Mr. Vincellette gave Beethoven's funeral march and as a recessional Chopin's. Mr. H. A. Rochrel directed the choir.

SACRED HEART CHURCH.

At the low masses at the Sacred Heart church yesterday special prayers were offered for the deceased pope.

At 10.30 a solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Fr. Kerwin, O. M. I., with Rev. Fr. McCarthy, O. M. I., as deacon, and Rev. Fr. Flynn, O. M. I., as sub-deacon.

"The Influence of Leo's Encyclical Letters on the Christian World" was the subject of the sermon by Rev. Fr. Flynn.

The musical portion of the service was under the direction of Mrs. T. H. Muldoon and Cherubini's requiem mass was sung by the choir. Mrs. Muldoon was the organist.

AT COLLINSVILLE.

The people of Collinsville paid tribute to the dead pontiff yesterday morning. Mass was celebrated in the little church by Rev. Dennis Murphy, who also spoke in eulogy of Pope Leo and dwelt on the universal manifestations of grief at his death, as a tribute to his worth and his work in the world. The altar was very prettily draped in purple as was the auditorium of the church.

ST. ANTHONY'S CHURCH.

On account of the choir of St. Anthony's church going to Lawrence to participate in forming a congregation there no solemn mass of requiem was sung.

At 10.30 o'clock a low mass was celebrated by Rev. Fr. H. R. Ferreira, the new curate of the church, and who came to this city from St. Michael's, Azores, only last Friday. Next Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock the solemn high mass of requiem will be celebrated. Prayers for the repose of the soul of the dead pope will be said at that time, and a eulogy will be delivered by the pastor, Rev. J. V. Rosa.

ST. JEAN BAPTISTE.

At St. Jean Baptiste, Rev. Fr. Campeau, O. M. I., officiated, with Rev. Fr. Amyot, O. M. I., as deacon, and Rev. Brother Stratton, O. M. I., as sub-deacon. Rev. Fr. Diss, O. M. I., delivered the papal eulogy, and took as his text the words of Christ as recorded in Matthew, "Thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church."

The choir, under the direction of Dr. George E. Calese, with Miss Alexander at the organ, gave Perreault's harmonized mass of the dead. At the elevation Dr. Calese sang Wiegand's "O Meritum Passionis." At the commencement of the service Miss Alexander gave Beethoven's funeral march, and at its conclusion the "Grand March of Saul."

Major League Doings — King Kelley's Plaint — Salaries

THE baseball season has reached the apex of its annual flight, and the season will now gradually wane as the fall approaches. The battle for first place in the American league proves the most interesting by reason of its closeness compared with that of the National. In the latter organization the Pittsburgs have a commanding position, which they should have no great difficulty in holding or, in fact, improving, and at present it seems likely that the tribe of Dreyfuss will make it three straight. Should the Pirates capture the pennant again this year President Dreyfuss will take the team abroad, playing in Australia and probably giving exhibitions in other countries.

Boston, Philadelphia, Cleveland and New York seem to be the likeliest pennant possibilities in the American league. The Bean Eaters and Connie Mack's Athletics have been putting up a fast article of ball and ought to finish one, two, in the order named on form computation.

St. Louis Teams In the Doldrums.

Both the St. Louis teams have been having rather a difficult row to hoe. Neither the Nationals nor the Americans appear to be able to play a game acceptable to the "fans," and not since the interclub series at the beginning of the season have the teams drawn the kind of crowds that mean a balance of cash on hand at the year's close.

Of course Patsey Donovan's Cardinals have been severely handicapped by the loss of Burkett, Heidrick and Padden. The acquisition of these stars, however, does not seem to have helped the Browns to any great extent. The latter team has been the means of helping many American nines up the ladder by its weak performances, and the same may be said of Donovan's troupe in the National. So what consolation is there in the situation for the backers of either of the St. Louis nines?

Good Individual Players.

Still, in spite of the low rating of the two teams, there are several individual players on both nines that are putting up a creditable article of ball. Take Jesse Burkett, the "scrappy" left fielder of Jimmy McAleer's Americans as an instance. Burkett made a reputation as a batsman with the St. Louis Nationals and since he has bunked with the American aggregation has shown that he has not forgotten how to wield the stick. He is one of the timeliest and most consistent hitters in the business.

Then there are Frank Donahue and Mike Kahoe, the former a pitcher and the latter the famous catcher, who are instilling all kinds of ginger into their work. Donahue is considered by many to be the bright particular star in the St. Louis Americans' twirling department, and he certainly has a splendid record.

Kahoe is one of the old timers in baseball. He can catch with his eyes shut and can throw to second with his arms in a sling. Mike cannot help playing ball well. In fact, he is said to have begun to play bawl while in his cradle.

Listen to Joe Kelley!

Joe Kelley, the irascible captain and manager of the Cincinnatis, has another kick registered with the secretary of the American Objection association, of which "King Kel" is a charter member. "Kel" says the umpires have too much power and that no player is safe while these bloodthirsty villains are permitted to roam at will. The fact that he believes the umpires to have combined to exterminate the genus ball player from the broad domains of this fair land has caused the ex-captain of the Brooklyns to lose a lot of sleep lately, and it has worn on him so that he recently had to call in the reporters and tell those kind hearted souls all about it.

The Dreadful Umpires.

The umpires abuse their privileges, according to "Kel." They order men out of games for almost any old kind of a reason and take especial delight, so he avers, in waving out of the grounds objectors to manifestly wrong decisions. "Kel's" idea is to have the league officials curtail the powers of the umpires to such an extent that they will have to obtain the permission of the score keeper before they can light a cigarette and that they will have to get the written consent of the league president before they can call a man out on strikes. We all can see the wisdom of "Kel's" arguments and advocate that he consult a physician immediately. The symptoms are alarming.

Ed Delehanty's Career.

The recent death of Ed Delehanty, better known as "the Only Del" and "Home Run Delehanty," was tragic in the extreme. It goes to show that the sooner a ball player cuts out all sorts of dissipation from his programme the better off he will be. "Del" had been living a rather fast life for the last year and had lost a large sum of money at the New Orleans races. His losses made him despondent, for when he came to his senses at the close of the New Orleans season he found that he had spent the greater part of $1,000 advance money drawn from the New York National league club. The major leagues decided that he could not play with the New Yorks this year because he had signed an agreement with the Washington club of the American league prior to his contracting with the Giants. He accordingly went to Washington after doing all in his power to obtain the privilege of playing with New York.

"Del" Was In Poor Form.

The Washingtons paid New York the advance money that had been placed at "Del's" disposal, and the latter jumped into his playing togs, appearing with the Senators for several weeks. "Del" could not seem to get his eye on the ball, however, and the "fans" were greatly disappointed by his showing. The Washington management prodded him along a bit, and he said: "Wait until the warm days come. Then you will see me line them out." The warm days came, and still "Del" was playing a poor game. Suddenly he disappeared from the club, and nothing more was heard of him until like a thunderbolt came the news of his death.

A Noted Player.

Delehanty was one of the best known and most valuable ball players in America. He was thirty-seven years old and a native of Cleveland. He was the oldest of five brothers, all professional ball players. In 1899 he led the batting list of the National league, with a percentage of .408. Last year he led the American League, with the redoubtable Napoleon Lajoie ranking second.

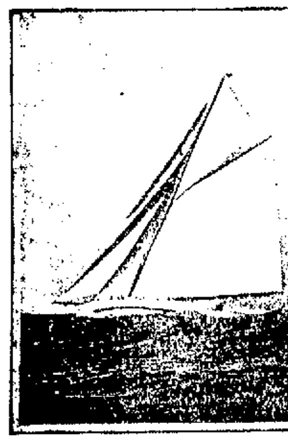

High Salaries Soon to Go.

The high salaried ball players have been catching it for their "bumps" of late, and it is certain that the widespread agitation of the subject will bear fruit at some date not far distant. The present salaries, of course, extend only to the time stated in the contracts, and now that the two major leagues have "got together" it is a foregone conclusion that they will chop down the excessively high prices paid for the services of the leading players.

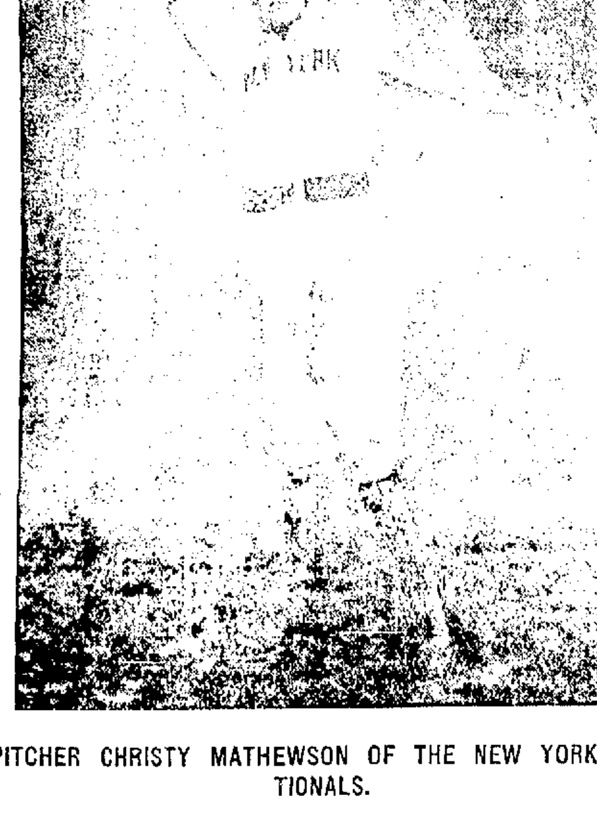

Prominent men in both the American and National leagues are even now considering plans for a joint agreement on a salary limit, after the fashion in vogue in some of the minor leagues. Then will the golden days of the ball tosser be at an end, for a period, at least, and no more will they have to [illegible] of the [illegible] of the athletic [illegible]. It will be a sad awakening, but such is the fortune of war [illegible].

A well known club owner told the writer not long ago that it was his belief that before long the salary limit [illegible] will be placed [illegible], truly a striking contrast to the days of the present, when men like Willie Keeler, Lajoie, Fred Clarke, Pitcher Christy Mathewson and others receive sums well over the $5,000 mark for their services for a single season.

HARRY GRANT.

SHAMROCK III. SAILING CLOSE HAULED OFF SANDY HOOK.

PITCHER CHRISTY MATHEWSON OF THE NEW YORK NATIONALS.

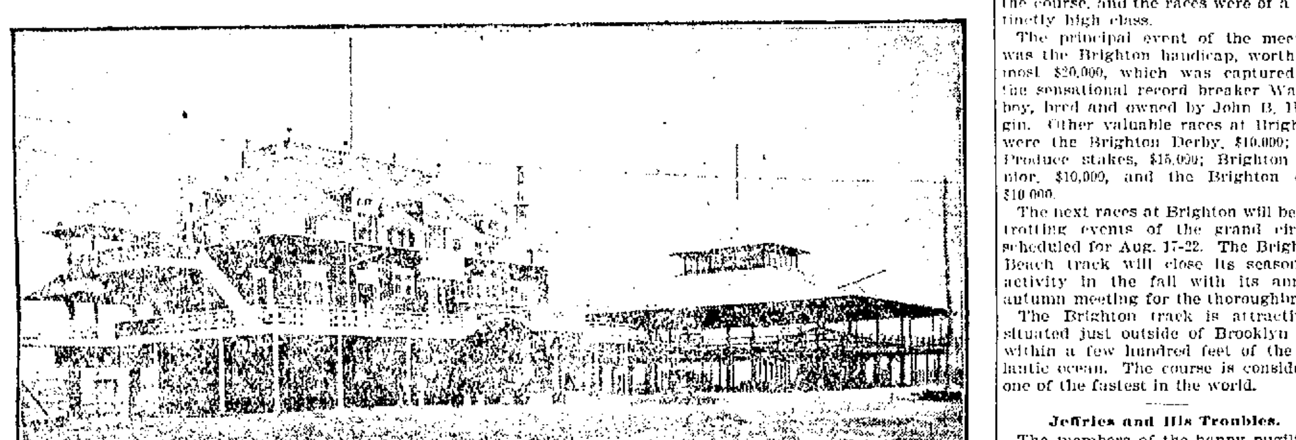

Mathewson is pitching one of the best games of ball in the country these days. He recently won nine consecutive games and is the mainstay of the Giants in their fight for the pennant. "Matty" has some of the most effective curves that ball sharps have ever encountered. His out drop has a "break" to it that few batsmen can gauge with any degree of accuracy

BERTHA GALLAND AND HER NEW PLAY.

The new play in which Bertha Galland is to star next season is "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall." It is a dramatization by Paul Kester of the latest novel by Charles Major, author of "When Knighthood Was In Flower." Miss Galland will open in the play Sept. 28 in the Chestnut Street Opera House, Philadelphia.

J. Fred Zimmerman, Miss Galland's manager, has engaged William Lewers, a former member of Julia Marlowe's "The Cavalier" company, for leading man. He will enact the role of Sir John Manners. Mr. Lewers was to have appeared with Mrs. Langtry next season, but at the request of Mr. Major and Mr. Kester she agreed to release him. Frank Losee will be Sir George Vernon, Dorothy's father, a strong character part.

THE CLUBHOUSE AND "COOLING OUT" PADDOCK AT BRIGHTON BEACH.

A MIDGET JOCKEY.

St. Louis has contributed in the last few years [illegible] distinctive characteristics. Her latest claim to originality is that she has now within her boundary one of the smallest jockeys in the world.

This latest recruit to riding honors in St. Louis is a little bit of a lad named James Hennessy.

He is the smallest boy that has ever taken part in an actual race in any race course in the United States.

And this means that he is probably the smallest in the world. He is not small through any oversight or unkindness of nature, but simply because he is young, being only eleven years old. His height is 3 feet 10 inches. With all this he is a sturdy chap and can hold his own with any boy of his age.

His weight is fifty-six pounds, so that if he were invited to ride a good horse in a big race the lead in the saddle would outweigh the jockey himself.

James was born in St. Louis of Irish parents, and as he lived in the neighborhood of the fair grounds he was always around the stables and frequently managed to be allowed to exercise some of the thoroughbreds that are constantly there.

Although he has only ridden in two or three races, he is very positive about his prowess and ability, and he recently had an encounter with a boy who laughed at his pretensions to jockeyship.

His antagonist was some fifteen pounds heavier than he, but James had no trouble in defeating him.

Hennessy is at present under the care and protection of Willie Harris, who is a horse trainer of recognized ability. Harris has a five year contract on his boy's services and intends to teach him all he knows about the riding game.

Jimmy has two great friends in the animal world that he values highly. One is the race horse Harlborough, who will come at the boy's call and deliberately kiss him.

Another is a beautiful water spaniel. This dog is wonderfully intelligent, and he is Hennessy's constant companion. The boy was recently engaged to ride the horse called Buck.

SPORTING ...GOSSIP

Lipton's Aggressive Modesty — Golf.... — The Turf — Pugilism

IT is with the utmost confidence that the American yachting sharps await the sailing of the America's cup races. The challenger has come, has been seen in trials during all sorts and conditions of wind and wave, and that she will conquer there seems to be not even the slightest chance. So paste this statement in your respective hats, all ye croaking pessimists and doubters. The time will come and is not far distant when you will be strikingly reminded of its truth.

While the trials on this side of the Atlantic have shown the decided superiority of Shamrock III. over Shamrock I., it is the fervent hope of all Yankeedom that the day is far off when a craft of the mediocre ability of Shamrock I. will be considered a worthy "trial horse" for a prospective America's cup defender. Our actual knowledge of the performances of Shamrock I. in many kinds of weather is such that no matter how much we may admire the sportsmanship of Sir Thomas we cannot consider any comparisons in which she figures as having any important significance. If John Jones' bay horse Billy the Bug can defeat Sam Smith's plow horse sixteen minutes in a mile, would you feel warranted, "gentle reader," as the novelists say, in putting your real gold on the aforementioned Billy the Bug to win a Suburban, an American Derby or a Brooklyn handicap? Assuredly not, and therefore don't permit your Anglomaniac friends to jolly you into wagering the price of a bonnet for your blue eyed sweetheart on the inflated chances of a British built cup challenger that has succeeded in worsting the plow horse of international yachting.

Lipton a Great Jollier.

But the omnipresent Sir Tom is bulling the Shamrock market in great style. He is the jollier-in-ordinary of the yachting world. He says Shamrock III. is so much faster now compared to her form of four years ago that he had serious thoughts of challenging with her this year. Only his consideration for the feelings of George Watson, designer of Shamrock II., prevented him from so doing, so it is alleged.

And as for Shamrock III.—why, she is so wonderful, according to the gallant sleeper of yachting experience, that only his regard for the American public prevents him from accepting the America's cup without the formality of winning it. He insists on giving us a chance to defend it. Surely such a noble spirit should be rewarded. It has been insinuated by some of our foreign admirers that Americans have not yet taken time to learn the proper way of showing gratitude as a nation. We are accused of court martialing our successful military men, of "investigating" the operations of our victorious naval officers, of not sending rich gifts to the Ahmed of Swat, who refused to annex Texas—all these base sins of commission and omission are tallied against us. To expose their falsity why do we not show our appreciation of Lipton's magnanimity by electing him a signer of the Declaration of Independence or by sending him a life subscription to the Congressional Record?

Lipton's Modesty Exposed.

In a recent interview Sir Thomas, who had been coaxed from his shell for the fifth time in four minutes by insistent representatives of the press, said:

"I expect to lift the cup with Shamrock III., and she'll win her three straight races by at least five minutes' margin, barring accidents."

Such evidence of a retiring, diffident disposition is rarely brought to light outside the circles of American political life. All the more credit is due Sir Tom. We do not believe that his motto is "Every man his own press agent," and we stamp his reported statement that "Conversation victories are the spice of a yachtsman's life" as a base libel on the well circulated name of one who early realized that the inner circles of English royalty can be butted into by the man with the dough.

A New Golf Organization.

The new Women's Western Golf association should prove a decided benefit to the supporters of the game in the wide territory covered by the organization. Representatives of fourteen clubs met at Chicago recently and formed the association, its stated object being "to promote team play and to give an annual championship tournament."

The clubs interested included all those within a radius of 500 miles of Chicago that were members of the Western and United States Golf associations, and the outlook is that entire success will crown the movement to give women players wide recognition as golf factors of national importance.

The officers elected are thoroughly representative, and the personnel of the executive staff, which is made up of women of playing reputation, is such as will command the confidence of the supporters of the game.

The officers are as follows: President, Miss Alexander, Exmore; vice president, Mrs. Dewerf, Onwentsia; secretary, Mrs. Brower, Edgewater; treasurer, Mrs. Bartlett, Lake Geneva; directors, Miss Carpenter, Indianapolis Country club; Miss Anthony, Glenview; Miss Cotton, Chicago Golf club; Miss Taft, Midlothian; Miss Douglas, Cedar Rapids, Ia.

Racing at Brighton Beach, N. Y.

The midsummer meeting of the Brighton Beach (New York) Racing association has just closed after seventeen days of exceptional prosperity. The attendance broke all records for the course, and the races were of a distinctly high class.

The principal event of the meeting was the Brighton handicap, worth almost $20,000, which was captured by the sensational record breaker Waterboy, bred and owned by John B. Haggin. Other valuable races at Brighton were the Brighton Derby, $10,000; the Produce stakes, $15,000; Brighton Junior, $10,000, and the Brighton cup, $10,000.

The next races at Brighton will be the trotting events of the grand circuit scheduled for Aug. 17-22. The Brighton Beach track will close its season of activity in the fall with its annual autumn meeting for the thoroughbreds.

The Brighton track is attractively situated just outside of Brooklyn and within a few hundred feet of the Atlantic ocean. The course is considered one of the fastest in the world.

Jeffries and His Troubles.

The members of the happy pugilistic family of Jim Jeffries, now dallying with the salty zephyrs of the Pacific coast, are anything but harmonious these days, and Tommy Ryan, if you please, has caused most of the trouble, with Bob Fitzsimmons running a close second as a disturber.

Tommy tied himself up to the Jeffries camp together with Fitz to assist in preparing the bigger Jim for the coming championship bout to be held in Frisco. He of the clan of Ryan shortly became dissatisfied with the modus operandi of the training quarters and "vamoosed the ranch." That was bad enough. But, to make matters worse, from Jeff's viewpoint, Tommy bought a ticket for Corbettville and offered his services to the ex-champion. He of the pompadour that was accepted Tommy's proposition to become sparring partner. Straightway the news was carried to Jeff, and his conversation is said to have been positively emphatic on the receipt of the "info."

But, stay! The end is not yet. Shortly after the victim of Kid McCoy's jabs and jolts escaped from the house of Jeff close unto the Gate called Golden the once mighty Fitz found occasion to hand the retort discourteous to one Billy Delaney—a sojourner of repute, who engineers Jeff's championship deals. And be it truthfully said, much smoke arose and the belligerents waxed exceeding wroth. Whereupon Fitz said, "I don't want to play in your yard." The one so addressed thereupon threw out his chest and in making reply spake thusly, "Take your clothes and go." And when the eventide drew near these obstreperous individuals were seated far apart, each wearing chips on their respective shoulders. And still doth their coolness remain warm in spite of the fact that he of the full grown freckles remaineth close unto the dwelling of his two times conqueror.

THE SEAWANHAKA CUP.

Eastern yachtsmen are taking considerable interest in the season's race for the Seawanhaka International cup, which has been held by the Royal Canadian Yacht club ever since 1896. The race will be sailed on the home waters of the latter club, Lake St. Louis.

At the annual meeting of the Seawanhaka-Corinthian Yacht club the report of the race committee informed the members that the Manchester Yacht club of Manchester, Mass., was the challenging club this year. Nothing definite was stated regarding the plans of that club for a suitable racing boat, but the fact has recently been announced that the Manchester club syndicate has already ordered two boats from Burgess and Backard, and one is already under construction. The syndicate of the club builders is headed by A. Henry Higginson and Reginald Boardman.

A third boat has also been designed by E. A. Boardman, a member of the Manchester club.

REVOLVER CONTESTS.

The championship matches of the United States Revolver association, which turned out to be such exciting and interesting contests last year, will be held again this year at Sea Girt, N. J., in conjunction with the annual meeting of the National Rifle association. The event will take place next September. Simultaneously matches will take place at Boston, St. Louis, Chicago and San Francisco.

WELTY TO RACE A STRING.

The Hon. John C. Welty of Canton, O., former owner of Pilot Boy, 2:09¼, will have a stable of campaigners out this year. It is to be hoped that there is a good winner or two in the lot.

AN EXCITING FINISH

Fall River Won by One Run Saturday

McKenna and Morgan Each Hit for Seven Hits But the Home Team Bunched Them—Merritt Back in the Game

Lowell lost to Fall River Saturday in a pretty game and an exciting finish, the home team pulling off the victory in the eighth inning.

McKenna and Morgan were on the slabs and they were each hit for seven up but Fall River bunched their seven and hence the victory. Merritt, Lake, and Hickey were in the game again, all full of ginger, and the 4000 people present saw one of the best games of the season. Timely batting by Warren and Weddige did the business for the home team.

The Lowell team remained over in Fall River Saturday night and will play there again today.

GREAT PITCHING

McCarthy Struck Out 17 Men in Eight Innings

That the T. R. and T.'s of North Billerica are in a class by themselves has been proven repeatedly this season by their administering crushing defeats to teams bearing gilt edged reputations. Saturday afternoon they met and defeated the much touted Hewes & Potter team of Boston by the score of 19 to 0, in a game characterized by excellent pitching by McCarthy and heavy batting by the home team. Tim McCarthy, who pitched for the victorious team, made another record, striking out 12 of the first 15 men at the bat and 17 men in eight innings and allowing but one hit in all. Tom Murphy took his place in the ninth and struck out two men and retired the third man on an easy grounder.

The home team had their batting clothes on as usual and fattened their batting averages. They found the opposing team's pitchers for 18 with a total of 22. Murphy, Cowdrey, A. Hennessey and P. Hennessey had three hits each. The only hit made by the opposing team should have resulted in a put out, if the fielders only half tried for it.

INDEPENDENTS WON.

The Lowell Independents played a team of Bloomer Girls at the Fair Grounds Saturday and entertained nearly 800 spectators. The Bloomer Girls consisted of six women and three men and for women they put up quite a lively game of ball. The star player for the girls was Miss Neilson, the pitcher.

Miss Neilson batted better than any other player on either team. She was at bat five times and made four singles.

Although Miss Neilson had five strike outs to her credit, she was batted freely at times, Maguire being especially strong in this respect.

It was amusing to watch the expression of disgust on the faces of some of the Independents when they were struck out by the young lady. Albie Allard struck out once, as did Maguire, Tetreault, Fratus and Crawford. The lineup:

Independents—Maguire ss, McVey 2b, Thorne 1b, Tetreault c, Fratus p, Nilund rf, Crawford cf, Allard 3b, Dunlavey lf.

DIAMOND NOTES.

Bushey will pitch today.

Red Gilligan umpired at Fall River, Saturday and did well.

Manchester had 10 errors in Saturday's game and still won. Talk about luck!

Mike Mahoney has been engaged to umpire at the Grocers' picnic next Thursday.

Billie Hamilton has not yet joined the Nashua team. It's a good bet that he won't either.

It looks natural to see Harry O'Neill back again at second base, but the fans believe that Chapman is the better man of the two.—Haverhill Gazette.

Lowell has won seven games from Haverhill and lost three this year. Slightly different from the results of the past two years, when Lowell was one of the easiest teams for the Shoemakers.

Howard Perry is rapidly developing into one of the finest catchers in the league. His batting and general all-round work is of the best.

Morgan of the Fall Rivers has pitched in nine games that were won by one run, and he has landed but two of these games. He is one of the best in the league at that.

Lowell, Manchester and Concord are giving the league a pretty race. Any day finds these teams shifting about. There is not a league in the country which is so close. And a couple of victories for Nashua would put that team back into the running.—Haverhill Gazette.

Richardson continues to play the game for the locals. Besides fielding in great shape he is batting timely, having missed only two games in the past 14 in getting in a safe drive. His faculty for batting easy grounders seems to have passed him for good.—Haverhill Gazette.

John Carney went to Newport, N. H., with his team the other day and met defeat, and now John is so sore that he wants to bet $50 that the same team can trim the same team that Newport put up on any date that the Newports will make.

Once more we call Manager Lake's attention to young McCarthy of the T. R. and T.'s as a most promising pitcher. In Saturday's game he struck out 17 men in eight innings and 12 in the first five innings. The week before he struck out 13 men. In Saturday's game he allowed but one hit. Try him out, Freddie.

Concord got a chance to dodge another game yesterday on the "wet grounds" excuse. There was little rain in the forenoon and by feeling around the diamond Carney found a spot wet enough to convince Fred Lake that a postponement would be in order. The less games they play the slower the will go down the ladder.—Manchester Mirror.

The Manchester and Concord scribes are having a little war all to themselves this year. We can hardly see how that Concord bunch can go very far down the ladder under present conditions. We are beginning to think that Bro. Cooper was right when he "guessed" early in the season that Concord would finish second and Manchester first.

Tom McDermott wants to exchange Lake Dorsey for Roy Sheets. Both are good men, but we are of the opinion that Sheets is the better man, although Dorsey was not played enough to show his worth.—Haverhill Gazette.

The Concord Monitor can't see where Stroh will fit in the New Bedford team. The Monitor evidently did not know that Stroh was a great infielder, having played that position before he went behind the bat. Stroh fits right in at shortstop for the Doe aggregation, as Allen has been reduced to the bench. And Stroh is putting up a good game, too.

Jack Carney told Captain Weddige Thursday that if Fall River would take two out of three games from Manchester he would buy Al a new hat. Let's see if he was only joshing.—Fall River Globe.

Jack Titus' friends came from Concord yesterday, but the weather was a grievous disappointment. Jack has fallen off in his hitting now so that he is down to 264, and he has been taken off the team. Manager Zimmer said yesterday he did not consider the player ripe for fast company, although he promised well. He said Titus did not play with the confidence of an experienced player and seemed afraid to let himself out.—Boston Herald.

Pitcher George Lee of the Concords does not object to his nickname of "Notty," but when the papers around the circuit take to printing it "Nutty," he has a strenuous kick coming.—Concord Monitor.

We have seen the little man when the name would fit him to perfection—after some of the decisions made famous by certain umpires in the N. E. shakedown. —Haverhill Gazette.

The Lawrence American is already beginning to figure out that Lawrence ought to win the pennant next year. The American contends that if Manager Flanagan keeps the same team, with two good outfielders to help O'Hara out, there will be something doing next season. Rather early to make guesses. Better figure out the result of this year's contest first.

JUVENILE DIAMOND.

The West Chelmsford base ball team went to Pepperell Saturday afternoon and crossed bats with the Pepperell team. The score in the seventh inning was a tie 5 to 5, when a kick arose over a decision of the umpire and as the West Chelmsford team refused to play to the umpire's decision the umpire gave the game to Pepperell 9 to 0.

The Beacons defeated a picked team on the Mountain Rock grounds Saturday afternoon by a score of 1 to 0. A crowd of about a hundred saw the game.

The Riverside base ball club went to Maynard Saturday and defeated for the second time the strong team of that place by a score of 19 to 10. The features of the game were the brilliant playing of Hunt at second base and the good batting of the Riversides. The latter would like to arrange a game for Saturday, August 1.

The Crescents defeated the Unions of North Chelmsford by a score of 7 to 6. The features of the game were the pitching of Hickey of the Crescents, who had 16 strikeouts, also the timely batting of the Crescents. The batteries were Tighe and Cluthier for the Unions, Hickey and Brigham for the Crescents.

The Crescent base ball team is open to meet any semi-professional team in the state. Send challenges to J. H. Owens, manager, 7 Walker place.

The Centralville Blues defeated the West Ends of North Chelmsford by a score of 20 to 11. The features of the game were the batting of J. Trudo and the pitching of Ganley of the Blues.

Hudsons, Hudsons, rah! rah! rah! The Hudsons defeated the Hustlers last Friday, 14 to 4.

THREE VICTIMS

Train Crashed Into an Electric Car

By Associated Press to The Sun

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., July 27.—An accommodation train on the Vandalia road en route to St. Louis ran into a well-filled electric car on the East St. Louis & Suburban street railway near Lansdowne, three miles north of here, yesterday, killing three persons and injuring a score. The dead:

JOHN RAY, Vandalia, engineer.

J. J. LENHARTH.

DAVID H. BEATTIE.

The seriously injured:

Vincent Higgins, fireman, will die.
Charles Burkhardt, motorman.
W. E. Miller, electric car conductor.

The injuries of the others were not severe.

The accommodation train was drawn by an engine which was backing and was running at a good speed when suddenly the tender crashed into the trolley car at the street crossing.

CHEAPER COAL

MOVEMENT STARTED BY HAVERHILL BOARD OF TRADE.

Says the Haverhill Gazette:

The board of trade will interest itself in the coal question and every board in the Merrimack valley and also the state board of trade will be asked to assist them in their attempt to secure coal at cheaper rates than at present. Judge Abbott brought the matter to the attention of the directors of the board last evening and at his suggestion it was voted to take some action in regard to interesting the other boards in this vicinity and in the entire state, in the matter. Judge Abbott was of the opinion that something might be done to remove the duty from provincial coal, although he admitted that his plan would meet with the opposition from the mine owners in the United States. The board did not transact much important business except this. A committee of five was appointed to confer with Fred M. Hodgdon relative to returning to this city from Derry, N. H.

Judge Abbott thought that the boards of trades of New England should take some action on the coal question. He believed that the result of the coal strike and the arbitration committee's report had succeeded in raising the price of coal 25 per cent. He contended that this increase was gradually hampering manufacturers and thus gradually was depopulating the entire state. He stated that he thought there was no better plan to start a reform than in the boards of trade. The judge believed that the coal question was a most serious one. He thought that if the duty of provincial coal was taken off, conditions would be much better, although he added that this would meet with opposition from the coal producing regions. Judge Abbott then moved that the secretary be instructed to communicate with the state and Merrimack valley boards relative to some measures of bettering present conditions, and the motion prevailed.

WITH THE POLICE

Two Bad Boys Under Lock and Key

Napoleon Heroux, 15, was arrested by Officers Giroux and Maloney Saturday evening and although he at first tried to make the officers believe he was a real good boy he finally broke down and admitted that he was the lad who broke into the grain store of Paul Vigeant & Co., in Moody street. He told how he concealed himself behind the sacks of grain when the store was being closed for the night and when the coast was clear how he "touched" the cash drawer for its contents, amounting to $4. And then, to get away, he dug a hole underneath the fence in the rear and made good his escape.

Inspector Walsh, Saturday evening, arrested Napoleon Paul, a boy who escaped from the Lyman school about three weeks ago.

Made by the Liquor Squad Saturday

Two small seizures were made by the liquor officers Saturday afternoon. They visited the premises occupied by Stephen H. Murphy at 23 Dutton street and found a pint and two half pints of whiskey there.

They next visited a former saloon at the corner of Marden Lane and Market streets and found a small quantity of beer and some empty bottles.

BREWERY HELP

Held Merry Outing at Mountain Rock

That the relations of capital and labor are most harmonious at the Harvard Brewing Co.'s plant was emphasized on Saturday when the great plant shut down in order to give its employes a day's pleasure in the woods and all repaired to Mountain Rock grove where the festivities were held.

Even the man who gives us the weather was "with" the brewers, for Saturday was an ideal day for an outing in the woods.

Everyone took a hand in making the affair a grand success from the management down the line. When the employes notified Mr. Carl Grundler, the genial brewmaster, that they desired to have an outing on a working day he acted as a committee of one to interview the management and through his kind offices not only were the help allowed the day without loss of pay but were allowed wet refreshments without limit.

Thus it was a happy gathering that started away Saturday noon in two gaily decorated special cars with the National band, Dick Griffiths, leader at the head. The band met the party at the brewery and all marched down Plain street to Chelmsford where they took the specials. Aside from these many of the Germans took their families in carriages, Brewmaster Grundler's two seated carriage flying two large American flags.

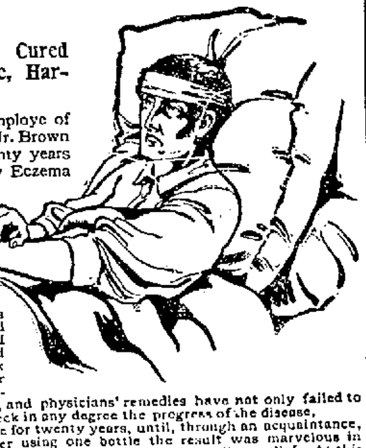

Upon arrival at the picnic grounds the party repaired to the pavilion where a local caterer had provided a bountiful repast. During the dinner, the band rendered an acceptable program. After dinner the party roamed about the woods while the hall was being cleared for dancing and an impromptu program of sports was run off. The dancing was greatly enjoyed for the music was good and the dancers merry. There were nearly twice as many men as women present but the ladies didn't tire easily and the men found partners for every number. During an intermission big Dan Finnegan challenged any man in the grove to dance an Irish jig and little Johnnie McGuane took him up. They were given the entire floor and right royally they had at it. Little Johnnie was no match for big Dan but he worked an Irish trick on him. When he got tired out he watched his chance and while Dan was wheeling around with his back to his opponent, little Johnnie slid out and little Bob McMenamon slid in and when Dan got all the way around he found a new opponent dancing foremost him. Being a Kerry man he never quit and the holes were beginning to appear on the floor when the judges called it off and awarded the prize to Dan.

During another intermission the party, headed by the band, marched to an eminence near the pavilion where James Daigle, chairman of the committee on grounds and transportation made a brief speech and acted as presiding officer of an informal meeting. The other speakers were Carl Grundler, brewmaster, Hans Scholender, one of the assistant brewers, Emile Leiber of Boston, secretary of the Brewery Workers' union and Patrick Kelly and Elie A. McBride of the board of directors. Mr. Grundler received great applause as he was introduced. He referred to the fact that though the president and the manager of the brewery were unable to be present they were heartily with the employes in spirit and endorsed them in their desire for an annual outing. Personally, he hoped that there would be no distinction of employes, such as inside, outside and bottling house men, but all act as one great family of co-workers. After the singing and speechmaking there was singing and the woods rang with "Hi Le, Hi Lo" and "Down by the Tanyard Side." John T. Kinsella by special request sang "My Dad's Dinner Pail," and Joe King rendered a few selections.

At 8 o'clock in the evening the party returned to Lowell in special cars and they sang all the way home. The affair was a great success in every respect and much credit was due to Messrs. Leo Lebrer, chairman of the committee on arrangements; Hans Scholender, representing the brewers; James T. Doyle and Joseph King, representing the drivers and James Casey and James Sullivan, representing the bottling house. Michael Hiller, the popular engineer of the Brewery was absent, owing to illness and his genial presence was missed.

SUFFERED TWENTY YEARS WITH ECZEMA—

Then Zema-Cura Completely Cured G. F. Brown of "This Miserable, Harrowing, Racking Plague."

G. F. Brown is a well-known employe of the Navy Yard at Washington, D. C. Mr. Brown suffered horribly with Eczema for twenty years and was cured by Zema-Cura. Every Eczema sufferer in the world should read this letter from Mr. Brown—it tells the whole story in his own language:

"Inasmuch as I have found relief through the use of Zema-Cura, I deem it not only a duty, but a great pleasure to say to all who may be sufferers from the "Eczema" plague that I can and do, with all honesty and candor, recommend it as a most wonderfully soothing and peace-giving remedy for Eczema. I speak from experience, having been a sufferer for twenty years with this miserable, harrowing, racking plague, Eczema. Physicians, and physicians' remedies have not only failed to give me relief and comfort, but did not check in any degree the progress of the disease.

"I have been going from bad to worse for twenty years, until, through an acquaintance, I was persuaded to use Zema-Cura. After using one bottle the result was marvelous in reducing swelling, and checking the weeping, besides giving me immediate relief. At this time I was confined to my bed, and my condition was horrible and pitiful. Physicians pronounced my case the worst that they had ever seen. Upon assurance that there was nothing contained in Zema-Cura that could possibly result in any injury, no matter how much I might use it, I commenced bathing my legs in Zema-Cura and kept them saturated day and night. In less than two weeks I was out of bed, and able to wear my clothes and resume my work. I am now entirely well and have no racking or unpleasant sensations which accompany Eczema. The skin on my legs has assumed its normal condition and natural color. Can anything be more conclusive than that? Sufferers from Eczema should use Zema-Cura and use plenty of it. Don't be afraid; it won't hurt you. The more you use, the better the results you get and the sooner you get them. This is my experience. I am very glad to say that in less than four months I have been cured of Eczema which I have had for twenty years."—G. F. BROWN, 606 North Carolina Avenue, Washington, D. C.

15,000 CASES IN —— THE CITY.

There is no one so young or none so old that are not liable to have an attack of cholera in the good old summer time. There is no sickness so severe while it lasts, and people have been known to die with it, especially children. If they only had a bottle of Dows' Cholera Cordial in the house all the suffering and danger might be avoided and misery turned to happiness. 25 cents is all that it costs to guard against this terrible sickness. Remember the name of the remedy, Dows' Cholera Cordial. No cure, no pay.

A GLORIOUS MEDICINE

George A. Saunders Says Dr. Bartlett's Vital Force Deserves the Warmest Confidence of the People Everywhere.

Mr. George A. Saunders, the widely known clerk in Patton's flower store, 8 and 10 Merrimack square, Lowell, Mass., is an enthusiastic proclaimer of the merits of Dr. Bartlett's Vital Force. He says:

"I am positive that Dr. Bartlett's Vital Force is a sure remedy for the cure of muscular rheumatism. For 20 years I had muscular rheumatism and a friend of mine who had been cured permanently of a chronic rheumatic trouble with Dr. Bartlett's Vital Force after trying all other advertised remedies, recommended me to try it. On the strength of his testimony and what I knew the medicine had done for like sufferers, I obtained a bottle and never felt so well in the past 20 years as I have since I began to take this glorious medicine. It deserves the warmest confidence of the people everywhere and I recommend it to rheumatic sufferers with the same confidence that I would give roast beef to a person suffering from hunger."

GEORGE A. SAUNDERS,
58 Methuen street, Lowell, Mass.
July 24th, 1903.

This marvelous medicine is prepared by Dr. Bartlett, the nerve, blood and lung specialist, and for 30 years it has performed cure after cure where other remedies proved worthless. If you are on the list of chronic sufferers, whether it be rheumatism, kidney, liver, stomach or nerves, consult Dr. Bartlett. His crowded office, 106 Merrimack street, Lowell, Mass., is evidence enough of his ability and skill.

TRIBUTE TO LEO XIII

Rev. T. Clayton Welles Met Late Pontiff

And Told Interesting Story of His Visit to the Vatican at the Highland Congregational Church—Other Sunday Services

Rev. T. Clayton Welles of the Highland Congregational church, entertained his congregation last evening with the story of his audience with Pope Leo XIII and his impressions of the personality of the pontiff.

The invitation to visit the papal palace, he said, came through the president of the American college, after solicitation. "Every lady present was clad in a simple gown of black, with a veil of lace only thrown over her head. Every man was attired in full evening dress, for which he had probably paid an exorbitant fee to a Roman tailor, but which he did not dare to neglect, as it was suggested to him in the invitation. Precisely at the moment indicated on the invitation, three officials in waiting appeared, followed by the personal body guard of the pope, and then the only infallible man on the face of the whole earth, venerable, white haired, genial, stood before us. At the sight of him the whole company kneeled and engaged in silent prayer. His face was full of benignity and peace; his voice was musical and full of kindness, and his movements were strong and brisk, surprisingly so for a man of his years. It seemed to give him genuine pleasure to meet the numerous friends. His face lighted up with a charming smile, and he gave his blessing without question and without stint. He seemed to be especially gratified to meet the friends from across the ocean, and we heard him repeat the word "Americano" again and again, as he passed from one to another, as if it were a source of great delight. So I was prepared for a genial reception; but when he put his hand upon my head, brushed back the hair and looked with almost paternal interest into my eyes, as he pronounced the blessing, it was impossible to find words to express my feelings—especially in Italian.

"And now this kind-hearted shepherd of so numerous a flock has passed away, and the world has been for a week making up its estimate of his personal and official career. The general verdict seems to be unanimous, that as a man, Pope Leo XIII. was entirely above reproach. He was amiable through and through; he cherished a genuine love for his fellow men, and he earnestly sought, I believe, their welfare. He honestly thought, no doubt, that their welfare would be secured by their union with the church of which he was the head but even if he could not persuade them all to accept his views, he still exercised a spirit of compassion toward all, and wished them well. We may truly say that he was lover of humankind and in this respect was far more fitted to be, what he always claimed to be, the proper head of universal Christendom, than many of his predecessors. He would never have ordered an inquisition, or approved a St. Bartholomew's massacre. There have been men in the papal chair whose whole appearance was indicative of a supreme regard for self and for earthly things. Pope Leo's whole appearance was of a man who enjoyed frequent communion with God in humble loyalty and faith. As a man who loved God and his fellowmen, he has commended himself to his Protestant brethren throughout the world. We respect him for his devout character and his Christian life, and we have no objection to the term 'father in Israel,' which we often apply to those who have served many years for their fellow men. We believe his genial spirit has done much to help forward the conditions and the times when all who confess the true headship of Jesus Christ shall dwell together in harmony.

"In his official capacity he has been a wise and far-seeing pontiff. The very doctrine of infallibility, obnoxious as it is even to the most intelligent Catholics, has not seemed so very absurd in the hands of one who has made so very few mistakes.

"Though we may truly say that he has been a progressive, broad-minded pontiff, yet he has not compromised himself or his church in the least, in those great principles of the historic faith of Rome. The one thing peculiar to the Roman Catholic church, which the Protestants repudiated centuries ago, have been strongly upheld by this host of popes. The two branches of the churches of Christ are no nearer together than in the days of Cromwell; but between those two branches there has arisen a broader and more Christian toleration. Let us hope and pray that the spirit of tolerance and fraternity may be still further extended and exercised between all branches of the Christian church, by whomsoever may be elected his successor."

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL.

At the First Congregational church, yesterday morning, Rev. Mr. Gilliam preached on the subject: "Christ's mission on earth." The church is to be closed the first two Sundays in August to allow many needed repairs.

WESTMINSTER PRESBYTERIAN.

Rev. Mr. Foster, at the Westminster church, yesterday, preached to a large congregation on the text: "Come ye yourselves apart—and rest awhile."

IMMANUAL BAPTIST.

At the Immanuel Baptist church yesterday Rev. Robert F. True preached a practical and effective sermon at the morning service from the words of Paul to the Phillipians, "This one thing I do," as expressive of the apostle's single and postive aim and purpose in life; from which he deduced many helpful lessons for twentieth century Christian living. The evening was devoted wholly to an "Old Home" service. The pastor's topic was "The Power of Early Home Memories," which he treated in a most impressive manner, illustrating the same by vivid illustrations taken from actual old home scenes so familiar and dear to all. The interests of the service were greatly enhanced by the beautiful singing of old home songs by the chorus choir and soloists. The solos rendered were as follows: "Home, Sweet Home," by Mr. William J. Beaven; "Love at Home," Miss Isabelle Gillespie and "I'm going Home," by Rev. R. F. True. The choruses of songs were most inspiringly sung by the choir and congregation. The service was altogether one of the most effective ever held by this church and must have produced a lasting impression for good.

SUDDEN DEATH

Of a Little Girl From the Heat

Eva Lafontaine, aged 12 years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lafontaine, died suddenly at the home of her parents Saturday night.

The Lanfontaine family has been in this city but three weeks, having come here from Canada, and just before the family moved little Eva was suffering with the measles. After arriving here she seemed to have fully recovered, and seemed to be in the best of health.

Saturday afternoon she was playing outdoors until five o'clock. About 7.30 o'clock the little one complained of a severe headache and lying down on a couch passed away.

The body of the little girl was taken on last evening to Plessisville, Can., for burial. Dr. Bellehumeur, who was called in to attend the little girl, stated that the cause of death was cerebral meningitis.

Ten Others Afflicted With Beriberi

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW BEDFORD, July 27.—News has been received here by cable that the whaling brig Leonora, Capt. William H. Ellis, had put into St. Helena with seven of her crew dead with beriberi and 10 others so badly affected with the disease that they had to be landed there and sent to the hospital.

The news has caused consternation for no names if the dead have been received, although particulars have been asked for by cable with the brig's agent, Capt. T. C. Allen.

The Leonora sailed from this port Dec. 17, 1902, and was fitted for a cruise to Patagonia after right whales. Capt. Ellis is an Arctic whaleman of some fame and this particular kind of whaling is what he is used to. The cruise of the brig was planned on the news of the poor Arctic catch last season and the consequent high price of whalebone.

Once before Capt. Ellis had taken the little whaler Ada Babson down to Patagonia and made a small barrel of money cutting in 10 whales and getting a large quantity of bone, which sold at high prices.

Capt. Ellis sailed on his present voyage with a crew of 30 men and more than half this number is dead or disabled. The Leonora has taken two right whales on the cruise, but probably had to leave on account of the sickness among the crew.

The disease affects the legs of the victims, which swell and bloat and when the swelling reaches the heart it kills them.

It is a disease peculiar to vessels cruising off the South American coast some claiming that the germs are blown from the land.

Several whaleships arriving at this port have had men die with the disease.

Discuss Advisability of Sending Note to Powers

By Associated Press to The Sun

ROME, July 27.—The Vatican resembles an ant-hill, so feverish is the work of preparing the part of that building set aside for the conclave. Before 1880, conclaves were held in the Quirinal place, one long wing of which was always ready without any special preparation. But in the case of the Vatican, apartments of three or four rooms for each cardinal have been specially prepared, and as there are 66 cardinals the amount of work involved is very great indeed. The section outlined for the conclave comprising on the ground floor of the Vatican, the three suites of rooms which surround the famous court of San Damaso, the rooms under the late pope's apartments and the lower floor with the rooms about the Saladucale. On the second floor the rooms about Mgr. Rampolla and the official offices, comprise the apartments formerly occupied by Cardinal Rampolla, who has left the Vatican altogether, to be used. The whole will furnish commodious lodging for about 200 people.

The Sistine chapel, as in the case of the last conclave, will be used for the meetings of the cardinals and the balloting. Therefore, three solemn funeral services which began Tuesday will be officiated at by each cardinal. Over the thrones will be baldic chinos, or canopies, attached to wall behind. The moment a new pope is elected he will lower his baldic chino as token of his new dignity, thus silently announced. The papal chapel will be used for the celebration of high mass, every morning of the conclave, while masses will be celebrated every morning by each cardinal.

The gendarmes and palatine guards will be transferred to the building, in the Belvidere court yard, where the poor pilgrims were lodged during the last jubilee, the gendarmes barracks being transformed into kitchens, pantries, etc. This court yard will be converted into general use for the carpenters and other workmen.

The court yard is quite unrecognizable. The long lines of glass windows of the Logia Raphel have been painted up to a certain height as precaution and shades have been put on every window, to assure secrecy. Assurances have been given that everything will be in readiness for Friday night, but there is more yet to be acomplished.

The cardinals, at their meeting today, again discussed the advisability of sending a note to the powers regarding the condition of the Holy See. Some of them insisted on the necessity of not allowing the occasion to pass without again protesting against the occupation of pontifical territory by Italy, thereby showing that the papacy is determined to maintain its claims inabated. Others said they thought that such a note would not add any force to many protests of the same kind already made while it might interfere with the policy which the future pope may desire to follow, and added that the best thing to do was to leave the successor of Leo XIII entirely free to choose the course which he may consider best for the good of the faithful and the general interests of the church.

No decision on the subject was arrived at. If the cardinals determine to send the note, it will probably be delivered to the diplomatic body Thursday.

CARDINAL GIBBONS

TOOK THE OATH OF THE GOSPELS TODAY.

By Associated Press to The Sun

ROME, July 27.—Not many people assisted today at the fifth of the Novem Diale, which was celebrated, in the chapel of the choir at St. Peters, Mgr. Constantil the papal almoner, pontificating, as attention was centered in the solemn funeral mass at the Church of St. John Lateran, where the Pecci family, the diplomatic body, the Knights of Malta and the Roman aristocracy were present.

Cardinal Gibbons, who, after a night's rest, felt very well, celebrated early mass in the private chapel of the Sulpicians and then drove to the vatican where he participated in the meeting of the congregation of cardinals. He was most cordially received by all his colleagues and the members of the Sacred College appointed at the last consistory, were presented to him. Cardinal Gibbons then took the oath of the Gospels, administered by Cardinal Oreglia, to maintain strict secrecy on all questions discussed at the meeting of the congregation, to defend the rights, prerogatives and temporal claims of the church, Usque ad Effusionem Sanguinis adhering to all the protests formulated by the defunct pontiff against the laws passed to the detriment to the church and the apostolic see.

When the meeting of the congregation was over, Cardinal Gibbons went to St. Peters and prayed before the Blessed Sarrament. He then knelt before the resting place of the body of Pope Leo and prayed for about 14 minutes. Cardinal Gibbons has appointed Father P. C. Gavan as his conclavist, beside whom he will take only one servant into the conclave.

The young woman was picked up in an unconscious condition and was carried into the dining hall, where she recovered in a short time. She gave the name of Jennie Smith, and was able to proceed to her home on the cars. The runaway after passing the grove disappeared in the darkness of the Nashua road.

INQUEST PRIVATE

Louis Goddu is a Power in Court

Despite the fact that Judge Hadley this forenoon told the reporters that they would be admitted to the inquest, into the death of Georgianna Goddu in the police court this afternoon, the reporters, by suggestion of Louis Goddu, brother of the dead girl, were asked to withdraw from the court room.

Louis Goddu, from the time that the crime was committed, sought to suppress all news concerning it. He refused to entertain reporters in quest of information and seemed peculiarly anxious to enforce secrecy.

The reporters who visited the court room this afternoon were not there for the purpose of resurrecting the evidence already submitted in the case but to hear new evidence if any were presented.

AUTO CAPSIZED

Lowell Machine Cranky at Nashua

TIPPED OVER BUT DID NOT EXPLODE

Occupants Had a Narrow Escape

Mr. Morse, manager of the New Idea Shoe Co., and James Morris, foreman for the same company, figured in an automobile accident at Nashua Sunday evening that happily did not result in anything more serious than the practical destruction of the auto, a dislocated arm for Mr. Morris and a series of cuts and bruises for Mr. Morse whose injuries are being attended to at the hospital in Nashua.

Mr. Morris was at his post of duty today and was feeling just a little the worse for his experience. To a Sun representative Mr. Morris said that the machine got caught in the car tracks just as they turned for the bridge in Nashua and the auto capsized. He felt it going, he said, and grabbed the lever. He succeeded in shutting off the power before an explosion occurred. It was a narrow escape and one that he does not wish to repeat. It is very rarely that a gasoline machine tips over and does not explode and it was undoubtedly due to the rare presence of mind of Mr. Morris that a serious accident was averted.

The street at the point where the auto tipped was crowded at the time and if an explosion had occurred it would undoubtedly have proved very disastrous.

DESK RANSACKED

In Supply Office by an Unknown

Purchasing Agent Rourke is having the locks on the desks in his office at city hall changed as the result of the visit of an unknown to the office between Saturday noon and this morning.

When Miss Churchill, the supply office stenographer opened her desk this morning she found that some one had ransacked it since Saturday noon and taken away several pamphlets of no particular value to anyone but herself. Although the desk appeared to have been thoroughly ransacked nothing pertaining to the business of the office was taken and nothing of value was missing. The pamphlets taken were a collection issued by different railway and steamboat companies, describing numerous desirable vacation trips.

When Agent Rourke heard of the work of the unknown he immediately ordered a change of the locks on the desks.

NO LIQUOR THERE

East Chelmsford is a Dry Town

Constable Mooney of East Chelmsford is a bit disturbed over insinuations that have reached his ears relative to the enforcement of the liquor law in the hamlet over which his official eye is supposed to keep diligent and faithful watch.

Mr. Mooney, in conversation with a Sun representative today, said that some outsider had stated that liquor was easily obtainable in East Chelmsford. "There is no truth to that statement," said Mr. Mooney, "and the person or persons who made it did it to injure the persons whose duty it is to see that no liquor is sold in East Chelmsford.

"I went from one end of the district to the other Sunday and made diligent searches wherever there was the slightest suspicion of liquor being sold and I could not find enough to wet a whippoor-will's whistle. I say that East Chelmsford is a dry town and we propose to keep it so."

IN POLICE COURT

Mixed Collection There Today

MAN WANTED TO MAKE A SPEECH

But the Court Cut Him Short

TOLD HIM SILENCE WAS GOLDEN

Judge Hadley In Joking Mood

Judge Hadley had a heterogeneous aggregation to deal with this morning. There were tall men and short men, fat men and lean men and boys. To this collection were added four women whose goo-goo eye days had long since fled. Some were penitent, others were surly, and a few had their mouths puckered for pent up speeches.

Thomas Neylus was charged with drunkenness. He wanted to say a word, but the court told him that in his case silence was golden. Thomas took his cue and was placed on probation.

Judge Hadley must have been joking when he said to Jeremiah Sullivan that no liquor was being sold in Lowell. Jeremiah was charged with drunkenness.

"You have to go out of town to get liquor, don't you?" asked Judge Hadley.

Jerry looked a bit puzzled and leaned over the cage. He evidently thought he didn't hear the judge aright.

"There's no liquor sold in Lowell," continued the court, and Jerry looked as though he would like to be at home where he wouldn't be afraid to laugh right out loud.

"No temptation for a drinking man in Lowell," went on the court in apparent seriousness, and Jerry looked actually funny as he gazed into the face of the court, with a cross between a blank and a quizzical expression.

The face of the court was stern. Jerry waited long enough to give the judge a chance to smile if he wanted to and satisfying himself that the court didn't intend to come out of it, he stammered: "Yes, no, well, yes, in a way. You see, your honor, there is always more or less temptation for the man who takes a social glass and while it is possible for him to hold aloof from such temptation it is often a hard struggle. I promise you, however, that I will steer clear of dangerous places and look not upon the wine while it is red, if you will give me one more chance."

Jeremiah was placed on probation under a suspended sentence to the state farm.

Paul Hiroux, the boy who broke into Paul Vigeant's grain store in Moody street was ordered in $100 for his appearance before the court July 31.

William Larose, a young fellow charged with assault and battery on Benjamin Snyder, July 24, was fined $10.

CHILDREN DYING

Twenty-Four Succumbed Since Saturday Noon

Big Epidemic of Cholera Morbus and Cholera Infantum in Lowell —Druggists Report Unprecedented Call for Cholera Cures

At 3 o'clock this afternoon the mortality record in the office of the health department showed 29 deaths since Saturday noon.

Of the whole number 24 were children under five years of age and 13 of these died from cholera infantum.

The run of cholera infantum and cholera morbus is unprecedented in this city and is attributed to the changes in the weather rather than to the food and drink partaken of by the public.

Agent Knapp of the health department who is well informed on the subject, in speaking of it said to The Sun reporter: "I am not surprised at the large amount of cholera infantum reported as that disease rages more or less severely at this time every year, but I am at a loss to understand the cause of the disease among so many adults. I think the sudden changes of the weather are responsible for it. I am sure the city water has nothing to do with it as we have the best water that can be obtained anywhere."

Milk Inspector Allen, who carefully watches the city milk supply for traces of disease germs, said: "The milk supply is in no way responsible for the present epidemic. The milk that comes into Lowell is free from all disease. I believe that the weather is responsible for the vast amount of cholera morbus now existing."

Druggists all over the city, without exception, state that they put up more prescriptions for cholera cures and sold more patent cholera cures last week than ever before in any one week:

Down town, Ed. Ellingwood said: "Last week beat any in my memory for cholera cures."

Up-town James J. Brown, manager of Lang's City Hall Pharmacy, said: "Last week beat all records for cholera cures, both at the prescription desk and for patent medicines. Furthermore, we have had an unusually large number of people, principally from the mills, calling for cures for headaches and dizziness. Upon questioning them invariably we have found them to be suffering from cholera morbus."

The druggists in the vicinity of the churches yesterday had many calls from people who had been taken with dizzy spells while in church.

MAYOR'S VETOES

Aldermen Tackle Them Tomorrow Evening

POLITICS SAID TO FIGURE IN THEM

No Action Yet on Latest Loans

The board of aldermen will meet tomorrow evening and will receive the mayor's veto on the order for a loan of $6500, for repairs on the different public buildings of the city. It is believed that the aldermen will pass the order over the veto as it is now generally believed that the mayor vetoed the public buildings orders for political reasons.

When the orders for the repairs of public buildings and for the repair of Central Fire station passed the city council, several members were given to understand that the mayor was in favor of both orders and would sign them as he as well as every one else is familiar with the buildings know that the repairs were necessary. But it is said that during the time that the orders were under consideration it was impressed upon His Honor that the money provided by these loans was to be spent by a democratic head of department and that money would make that department strongly democratic about election time.

Whether or not this had anything to do with the mayor's decision in the matter is not known but the fact is that the mayor in the end vetoed both measures.

It is not believed that his honor will be prepared to send his veto of the Emmell street school house site loan to the upper board tomorrow evening and in the face of a petition signed by some 500 French voters asking that the lot be purchased he will undoubtedly give the matter due consideration before acting either way. One thing is certain, however, and that is, that if his honor does veto the measure no one will know uhout it before it goes to the board of aldermen.

PANIC IN PANAMA

Military Made an Attack on Civil Officials

By Associated Press to The Sun

PANAMA, Colombia, July 27.—Not since the days of the last revolution, when an attack upon the city by the Liberals was feared, has there been such a panic in Panama as occurred Saturday night. Shortly after 9 o'clock the officers of El Lapiz, the organ of the Liberal party on the isthmus, was visited by some officers of the general staff of the army who destroyed Saturday's edition of the newspaper.

One of the directors was slightly wounded but managed to escape.

The news spread rapidly and in the Santa Anna neighborhood where most of the Liberals reside, sentiment rose to a high pitch and a few of the prominent people counselled retaliation. They took no action, however. The next event came like a bombshell. A company of soldiers, apparently under the orders of Gen. Vasquez Cobos, commander of the national forces, surrounded the residence of Governor Mutis but the governor and his wife who is an American lady, having been warned a few minutes before the arrival of the troops, succeeded in escaping.

Gen. Huertas, commander of the battalion of Colombia, when he learned of the El Lapiz incident repaired to headquarters where he found Gen. Cobos and, according to current reports, the latter ordered Gen. Huertas to remain in quarters. Exactly what has taken place is unknown, but it is said that Dr. Aristides Arjona, secretary of the government; Fernando Arango, chief of police, and Efrain Navia, a member of the departmental superior tribunal of justice, are under arrest, the latter for trying to argue with Gen. Cobos the illegality of his action.

An attempt is also said to have been made to arrest Senor Guera, secretary of finance, but he refused to accompany the officer who went to his house to arrest him and when the officer returned with soldiers Guerna had departed.

Gov. Mutis spent Saturday night at the British consulate, but it is reported that he will take refuge in the American consulate. United States Consul Gudger made several unsuccessful attempts yesterday to secure an audience with Gen. Cobos. It is reported that Gen. Cobos offered the governorship to different conservatives who refused to accept and that he himself will assume civil command. It is said that Consul Cudger attempted to send a cablegram to Arthur M. Beaupre, the United States minister at Bogota, but that the agent refused to accept the message claiming that the lines were interrupted.

There was little excitement on the street yesterday but the condition of affairs is very serious. Gov. Mutis is virtually a prisoner. Undoubtedly Gen. Cobos will issue later in the day a proclamation giving the reasons for his actions which up to this time are unknown. The national government in certain quarters is being held responsible for much of what has happened because the soldiers have not been paid for some time and Governor Mutis declined to give more of the money of the department of Panama for national expenses. The refusal of Governor Mutis is the origin of the discord between the civil and military authorities. Violent articles written in El Lapiz against what the Liberals call the assassination of Gen. Victoriano Lorenzo, the leader of the guerillas during the recent revolution, who was court-martialled and shot May 15, precipitated events. The effect of what is now going on upon the Colombian congress, it is believed, will be favorable to the canal treaty, for the enemies of the treaty, it is now believed, will be easily convinced of the necessity of certain clauses which it contains in regard to the control of this zone.

Cable communication with Bogota has been restored.

QUIET IN COLON.

By Associated Press to The Sun

COLON, Colombia, July 27.—The city is perfectly quiet, as Saturday night's coup on the part of Gen. Cobos against Governor Mutis of the department of Panama is known only to few here. Gen. Luis Maria Gomez, governor of this province, has been called to Panama.

THE IRISH LEAGUE

Discovers Rare Talent Among Its Members

The United Irish League had a well attended meeting at their quarters in Barristers' hall last evening, M. A. Lee in the chair.

The excursion to Revere beach on Thursday was reported to have been very successful, although the weather prevented many from going. Those who went were delighted with the day's pleasure.

A committee was appointed to assist Miss Connee, the financial secretary, in mailing a circular to the members appealing for a renewal of the annual fee.

Several new members were admitted at the meeting. The members felt enthusiastic in the ever increasing number of its friends as well as in the bright prospect of soon seeing Ireland restored to her right to own the soil and to govern herself through her own parliament.

A very excellent musical and literary program was rendered, including a recitation entitled "No Cross, No Crown," by Miss Margaret McDonough. This little miss, although but a school girl, gives evidence of elocutionary talent of a high order. She was enthusiastically encored.

Miss Katie Connee sang "Ireland I Love You," with a great deal of sweetness and pathos and won much applause.

Miss Elizabeth Honan sang "That Beautiful Isle" in splendid style. She has a remarkably rich, sweet soprano voice which she controls with ease in every register and is altogether a very promising vocalist.

John Baltrey gave an interesting patriotic reading which was well received and Dennis Brassil with his usual fire gave a recitation entitled "Death of King Connor MacNessa." The meeting adjourned for one week.

BUSY TROOPERS

Cavalry Men Shoot in Two Matches

WON THE SHORT RANGE COMPETITION

But Lost at 500 Yards Target

At the North Chelmsford shooting range Saturday, the military men of Lowell and Chelmsford held forth and Troop F defeated Co. G at the 200-yard targets but lost to Co. C at 500 yards.

As only eight of the ten men of the cavalry team reported at the range, the contest between the troop and Co. G was made an eight man match, and in the Troop's contest against Co. C, the two absent men were allowed each the team average, thus making a ten man match.

Troop F cavalry made 312, and Co. G made 280 at 200 yards.

Troop F cavalry made 342 and Co. C made 350 at 500 yards.

The Lowell Military Rifle association, consisting of the three local military companies will hold a meeting at the armory this evening to plan for a tournament of shooting for the remainder of the summer and fall. Captain McNulty will preside.

Lieut. Gardner Pearson will take the Phalanx team to South Framingham next Saturday, to shoot against Capt. Damon's team of Co. E, 6th regiment as a return match of the shoot held at the Dracut range with C, July 11th when the Phalanx team defeated the South Framingham boys.

GODDU INQUEST

Judge Hadley Will Hold Private One

Out of respect for the feelings of the Goddu family, Judge Hadley has decided that the inquest into the death of Georgiana Goddu shall be a private one.

Judge Hadley feels that the family has already had enough to bear and while there is no necessity of the inquest being a private one, inasmuch as the party charged with the crime is dead, yet the judge feels that it would be wrong to further unnecessarily wound the feelings of a family so sorely afflicted. The inquest will open in police court at 2.30 this afternoon.

VIOLENT TEMPER

Led to Capture of Escaped Prisoner

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 27.—When Matthew Callahan escaped from the Tombs prison together with Robert Booth, June 23, the authorities did not feel much alarmed for they knew he would fall into the hands of the police before long. Today Callahan is back in prison with a long term before him. He owes his re-capture to his violent temper and his desire to make matters unpleasant for his wife and children.

Officers of the West 68th street station were surprised by a woman who rushed in and asked for protection from her husband who was threatening to burn their home. She added that he recently escaped from prison. When the policemen reached the house they found the children in the hallway weeping. Callahan was found under the bed. When he was pulled out, he made a determined resistance but was subdued and identified later by the Tombs keepers.

FELL FROM WAGON

Fire Truck Passed Over the Driver

By Associated Press to The Sun

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 27.—While responding to an alarm for a fire early this forenoon, Driver John E. Carlin of Hose 2, pitched suddenly forward, fell to the pavement, and the wheels of the heavy truck passed over his chest, crushing out his life. The reins were seized by two firemen, who brought the horses under control and returned to where the injured man lay. Death resulted before the arrival of medical assistance.

The accident occurred in North Main street, one of the principal thoroughfares of this city. An attack of heart failure is thought to have caused Carlin to fall from his seat. He is 50 years old and is survived by a widow and two children.

The fire to which the department was called, caused trifling damage.

CARDINAL GIBBONS

WELCOMED TO ROME BY CHURCH DIGNITARIES.

By Associated Press to The Sun

ROME, July 27.—Cardinal Gibbons arrived here yesterday, accompanied by Fr. Garvan, his secretary. He was received at the station by Mgr. Kennedy, rector of the American college at Rome, and Fr. Hertzog, procurator general of the order of Sulpicians. They drove to the Sulpician house, where mass was celebrated.

Being tired and the hour late, Cardinal Gibbons did not attend the meeting of the cardinals this morning. In the afternoon he drove to the vatican and paid his respects to Cardinal Oreglia, who received him most cordially. He had a friendly conversation with the latter in which the camerlingo informed Cardinal Gibbons of the leading decisions made by the congregation with reference to the conclave. Cardinal Gibbons will receive no one, except cardinals, until after the conclave.

OFFERED PRAYERS

FOR REPOSE OF THE DEAD PONTIFF'S SOUL.

By Associated Press to The Sun

ROME, July 27.—Several thousands of the faithful crowded St. Peter's yesterday to pay tribute before the sarcophagus containing the remains of the late pontiff, on which is the following simple inscription in gilded letters:

"Leo XIII Pont Max."

Meanwhile requiem masses continued in the Chapel of the Sacrament as well as in many other Roman churches. The will of Leo was read yesterday. While nominally leaving the estate of Carpineto to his nephew Ludovico Pecci it really makes no change as the whole family property, amounting approximately to $120,000, has already been divided among the three nephews, Count Camillo having already sold his share. The congregation again made further progress with the arrangements for the conclave. Cardinal Gibbons arrived yesterday but did not attend the meeting. A wall is being built around the apartments where the conclave will be held. It is already ten feet high.

Some of the Italian bookmakers here proposed to conduct public betting on the chances of the papal candidates and in order to obtain permission to do so offered to donate their gains to charitable institutions. The government, however, promptly vetoed the proposition and refused the request.

THE POPE'S WILL

PORTION OF IT WAS MADE PUBLIC YESTERDAY.

By Associated Press to The Sun

ROME, July 27.—That portion of the pope's will made public is as follows:

"In the name of the Father, the Son and the Holy Ghost, as the end of our mortal career is approaching, we put in this holograph will our last desires. Before all, we humbly supplicate the infinite bounty and charity of the blessed Lord to condone the faults of our life and receive benignantly our spirit in the beatific eternity which we specially hope through the merits of Jesus the Redeemer, trusting to His very sacred heart, an ardent furnace of charity and fount of spiritual life and humanity. We also implore as mediators the blessed virgin Mary, mother of God, and our own much beloved mother, and that legion of saints whom in our life we venerated in a special way.

"Now, coming to dispose of the family patrimony, which is ours according to the deed of division drawn up by the notary, Curzio Franchi, Dec. 17, 1882, we appoint as heir of this patrimony our nephew, Count Ludivico Pecci, son of Giovanni Battista, our deceased brother. From this property must be deducted that already donated to Count Ricardo, another nephew, on the occasion of his marriage, according to a deed of Feb. 13, 1886, by Notary Franchi. Equally from this property must be deducted all the estate in the capinneto Romano belonging to the holy see, according to the declaration in our chirograph of Feb. 8, 1900.

"In this, our testamentary disposition, we have not thought of our other nephew, Camillo, and our nieces Anna and Maria, son and daughters of our brother Giovanni Battista. For them we have in life properly provided decorous maintenance on the occasion of their marriages.

"We declare that no one in our family can claim any right in anything not contemplated in the present document, because all the other belongings of whatever nature which have come to us as pontiff consequently are and in any case we wish to be, the property of the holy see.

"We confide the exact execution of this our disposition to Cardinals Marino, Rampolla, our secretary of state, Mario Mocenni and Serafino Cretoni. This declaration is to be our last will.

"The Vatican, Rome, this eighth day of July, 1900.

"Gioacchino Pecci,
"Leo PP XIII."

BOLD BURGLARY

Thieves Robbed the Holden Residence in Billerica

Took Quantity of Silverware—Gave Paris Green to a Bull Dog—Constable Conway Hot on the Trail

The residence of Joshua B. Holden, Jr., in Billerica Centre, was broken into Saturday night and robbed of a quantity of silverware. In order to put a quietus on a bull dog the burglars gave him to eat meat daubed with paris green, and the fact that they gave the dog an overdose saved his life. He remained quiet, however, while the thieves were operating.

The silverware was taken from the dining room and the living rooms on the first floor were ransacked. Mr. and Mrs. Holden were sleeping up stairs and the servants were in the rear of the building. Mrs. Holden thought she heard a noise down stairs and tried to arouse her husband, but he listened awhile, heard nothing and went to sleep again.

The break was not discovered until Sunday morning. When Mr. Holden came down stairs he found the floor in the dining room strewn with a little of everything in the house. He notified the town officer, Martin Conway, Jr., and the latter set about to ferret out the perpetrators of the bold robbery. A lantern taken from the street railway line, where laborers had been working, was used in the break.

He made a thorough examination of the premises and found that a window on the north side of the house had been broken and that the burglars had gone in through the window. Mr. Conway also found an auger on the veranda on the front of the house and he believes that the burglars intended to bore around the lock of the door and take it out in its entirety. He thinks the burglars were old hands at the business.

The following articles were stolen: Six solid silver candlesticks, two plated silver candlesticks, two tall solid silver vases, one large Sheffield plated tray, one large Dresden china tray, one solid silver card receiver, two solid silver picture frames, one Sheffield plated covered vegetable dish, two Sheffield plated platters, one solid silver castor or fern dish, one mackintosh coat.

BEER VANISHED

Lawrence Officers Lose Their Exhibits

BUT THEY MADE ARRESTS JUST THE SAME

Fight Broke Out in Syrian Colony

By Associated Press to The Sun

LAWRENCE, July 27—A factional fight over the presence of some members of a gathering in a Syrian club room at 53 Valley street, yesterday afternoon occasioned a visit of the police with the result that evidence of violation of the liquor law was secured and James Brox, proprietor of the club, and Joseph Arab, owner of the building, were arrested on the charge of maintaining a liquor nuisance.

According to the police objection was raised to a man being in the room. His friends insisted that he would remain and the issue led to a division of forces. When the police arrived matters were decidedly lively. The arrival of the police ended the free-for-all-fight, but the officers found a quantity of beer.

Before taking possession of it, the police had their attention attracted to the house next door, where the fight had extended. They left the club room to quell the disturbance in the house and when they returned they discovered that the beer had been spirited away in their absence. This did not prevent them from arresting Brox and Arab, however.

STRUCK BY CAR

MEN WERE WALKING ON THE TRACK.

By Associated Press to The Sun

HAVERHILL, Mass., July 27—Frank Follensbee and Duncan McMillan, both of Byfield Centre, were struck by an electric car on the Georgetown, Rowley and Ipswich street railway near Byfield Centre early yesterday morning. Both suffered fractured skulls besides other injuries. Follensbee will probably die but McMillan has a chance of recovery. They were walking on the track at the time of the accident. They were brought to the hospital here.

INSTANTLY KILLED

VETERAN DRIVER WAS THROWN FROM HIS WAGON.

By Associated Press to The Sun

SOUTH HINGHAM, July 27.—Edward Hines of 44 Southampton street, Boston, who had driven one of the teams of the Boston Lead company for more than 30 years, met death here suddenly yesterday under peculiar circumstances.

He had come down Saturday to pay a visit to his nephew, John Hines. Yesterday morning his nephew took him out in a democrat wagon for a short drive. They returned home about 12.30, and Edward Hines remained seated in the wagon for a few minutes.

The horse, in an effort to crop the grass, gave a sudden start and Hines was thrown out over the back of the wagon, striking on his head and shoulders. When picked up it was found that his neck was broken. He was about 62 years old and is survived by a wife, son and daughter.

ALL MAY RECOVER

Victims of Trolley Accident Improving

By Associated Press to The Sun

WORCESTER, Mass., July 27.—The condition yesterday of those who are at the city hospital as a result of Saturday's head-on collision of trolley cars on the Boston and Worcester line in Shrewsbury showed a little improvement in each case, including that of William H. Savage, the Boston artist, whom it was supposed Saturday could not survive the night. While his condition yesterday was not wholly favorable to his recovery, he was resting a little more comfortably and late last night was sleeping well and had taken nourishment. With no further complications to retard his progress, the hospital physicians say Mr. Savage is likely to pull through.

The condition of Mrs. Savage, wife of W. H. Savage, was much improved today.

Mrs. Winnifred Wilde and Allen C. Wilde, her husband, are much better and both will survive their injuries.

Mrs. Thomas H. Brown, the woman who threw her infant out of the electric and thereby undoubtedly saved the little one's life, is resting well and will recover.

The other accident cases were, late last night, doing as well as could be expected.

FALL RIVER MAN STRUCK BY A TRAIN.

FALL RIVER, Mass., July 27.—William Brackett, 33, of 212 Bedford street was struck by a train at the Crescent Park station of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad last night. The train arrived here at 9.40 and was met by an ambulance and the man was removed to the Union hospital. He is suffering from internal injuries.

HAZED BY BOYS

VICTIM IS IN A SERIOUS CONDITION.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BARTON, Vt., July 27.—A hearing that promises to continue several days is in progress before Justice Guild at Barton Landing concerning injuries received by a boy at the hands of his schoolmates a few weeks ago which caused his death.

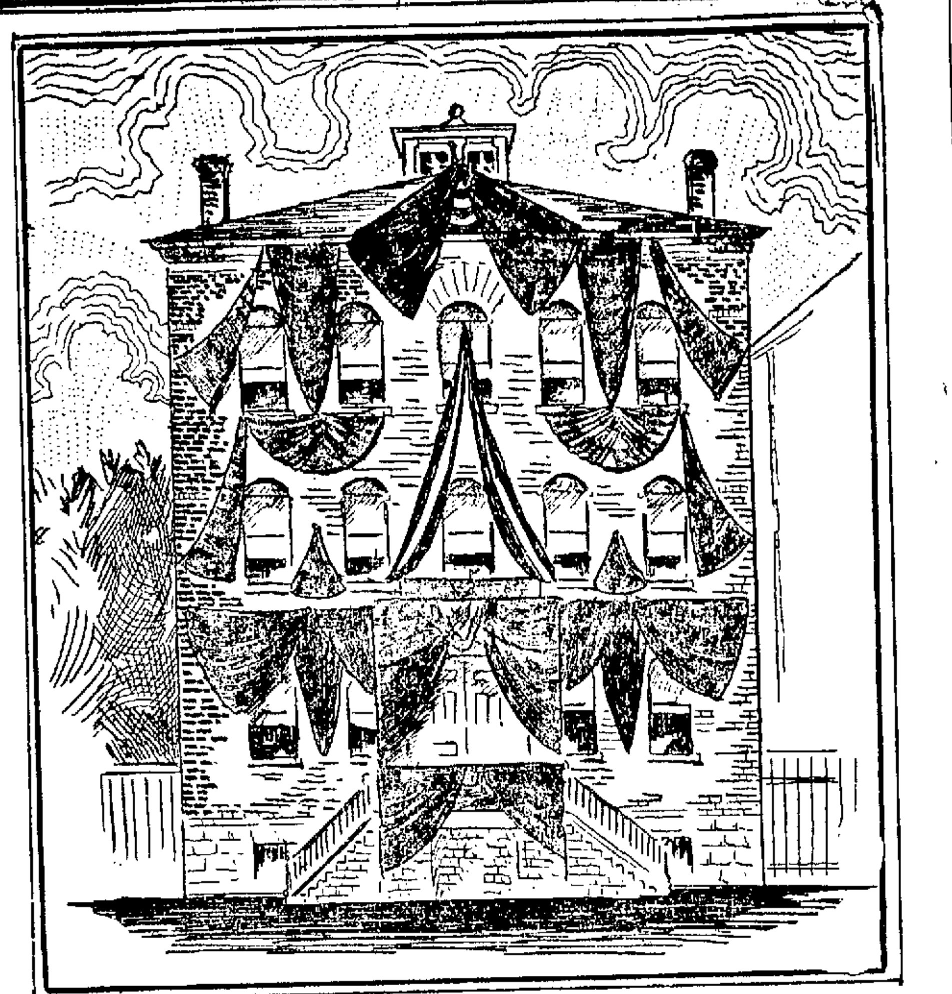

Raymond Waterman, Raymond Adams and Alva Day, aged 9, 19, and 11 years old, had read of a college hazing and decided to try it upon Ralph Canning, a young companion. They heated stones red-hot in a pasture back of the schoolhouse in Brownington and made Canning stand on them and sit on them also until he was badly blistered.

Then, according to reports, two boys held him down, while the third jumped on him and nearly rendered him unconscious before releasing him. He was taken sick at once, with great pains about the stomach, and died two weeks later.

The case is exciting great interest. The boys are so young that they probably did not realize the enormity of their acts. The lads are members of prominent families and have had a good reputation in the past.

The hearing will determine their punishment. There are about 40 witnesses on each side.

You can't expect to weave white satin with blackened hands, any more than you can expect good results from papers with a bogus circulation.

MOURNING DECORATIONS ON ST. PETER'S PAROCHIAL RESIDENCE IN HONOR OF THE LATE POPE LEO.

REQUIEM SERVICE

For the Late Pope Leo in Catholic Churches

Impressive Mourning Draperies and Catafalque in Sanctuary Made Service Deeply Impressive—Eulogies Upon Pope Leo Delivered

In all the Catholic churches yesterday requiem masses were offered for the late Pope Leo and eulogies were delivered upon his life and labors.

AT NEW ST. PETER'S.

The rubrical ceremony was observed in every detail at St. Peter's church. The altar was surmounted by the papal colors. The catafalque, with head slightly raised, was in place within the railing.

Draped candles burned at both ends of the catafalque and the crucifix at the foot was towards the congregation. The catafalque was prepared by T. J. McDermott.

Solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. D. J. Heffernan, Rev. Francis Rogers, deacon; Rev. W. G. Mullin, sub-deacon; Thomas A. Ginty, master of ceremonies.

Schmidt's mass of requiem was sung by the choir of the church, under the direction of John Warburton. At the offertory "O Meritum Passionis" was sung by Mr. Warburton; and the "De Profundis" was sung by a mixed quartet, composed of Miss Mollie Ivers, soprano; Miss Regina Gerard, alto; James E. Donnelly, bass and John Warburton, tenor. After the mass the "Libera" was sung by the choir, with solos by Mr. Warburton. During the mass another "De Profundis" was sung by the Mozart quartet. Mrs. Josephine W. McKennedy was the organist.

The eulogy on Pope Leo was preached by Rev. W. H. Grant. He took his text from the 29th chapter of the book of Job: "The ear that heard me, blessed me; the eye that saw me gave witness to me, because I had delivered the poor man that cried out and the fatherless that had no helper. . . I was an eye to the blind and a foot to the lame—and the cause which I knew not I searched out most diligently." The preacher, after reviewing the significance of the words above quoted, said in part:

"Happy is the minister of God, who, when his course is run, can truthfully repeat those words." The speaker referred briefly to the universality of the law of death and continuing, said:

"During the past week Almighty God in His divine Providence has been pleased to call from our midst unto Himself our venerable pontiff-ruler of the spiritual world, after he had spanned almost a century upon this earth.

"And we, his spiritual children, are gathered here today about this altar of sacrifice, to give public expression, by a supreme act of religion to our belief in Jesus Christ—the Incarnate Word and Redeemer of mankind and to take courage from the fact that in a critical period like that of the last quarter of a century, almost without a parallel in human history, a leader like Leo XIII had been placed over us.

"Joacim Pecci was born of noble parentage on March 2, 1810. Even in his youth he was a leader, seemingly absorbing the good out of all his surroundings and dominating situations in which he was placed. Schooled with the Jesuits, and at the Roman college, he was easily a leader in the race of intellect, and at the remarkable age of 22 won the doctor's cap in theology. A priest in 1837, civil governor, papal nuncio at Brussels, archbishop of Perugia, cardinal and finally pope. He always busied himself with every care of office and took advantage of his many-sided opportunities to study closely and sympathetically the religious, and the political and industrial problems of modern life, so that when in the chair of Peter he might give to the world those burning subjects that had been for years in his thoughts and under his pen.

"Of the 263 popes who have sat in the chair of St. Peter, few have exerted a wider and more beneficial influence upon the whole civilized world. He was a perfect statesman and an enlightened churchman. He had an eagle eye for every movement and a willing hand for every good endeavor.

"In the industrial order he always pleaded eloquently and strongly in behalf of the rights of labor, whether individually or as a class.

"His letter on the 'Condition of the Workingman' (1893) is an exhaustive document on the rights and duties of the laborer. He showed the world that it conferred an everlasting blessing and benefit on humanity by ennobling and sanctifying manual labor.

"To Leo XIII the civilized world owes a debt of gratitude for his stand against socialism and his vigorous protests against all forms of organization that threatened to undermine society.

"In his letter on 'Christian Marriage' (1880) he vindicated in strong and earnest terms the unity and sanctity of the marriage bond, while at the same time denouncing the ravages made by divorce. The married couple are the source of the family and the family the source of society—and if society is to be maintained in its purity and integrity it must be sanctified in the fountain head of the home.

"In the sphere of education Leo XIII was also an inspiration. He threw open the immense vatican libraries to students of every creed and nation. He founded schools, colleges and universities in Europe—and in our own country—the Catholic university at Washington—the crowning work of his pontificate, in the movement of Catholic education in our country.

"And yet, in the midst of all the national and international problems of his pontificate, we must remember that he was no stranger to piety. His consecration of mankind to the Sacred Heart in 1899 showed his love for the Divine Word of God, while his yearly October letters breathed a simple devotion to her who was ever his queen and mother. A study of his life as a boy in the Volscian hill under the guidance of his saintly mother, a study of his life as a priest, a bishop, a cardinal and, above all, as pope, will convince the world that in addition to being a scholar, pope, a statesman and a diplomat, Leo XIII was, in truth, a man of God.

"His memory will never die. Future generations will class him with such pontiffs as Leo the Great, Gregory VII and Benedict XVI. The future will regard Leo as one of the greatest pontiffs in whose massive intellect all things and events seemed to find their proper place and to fall into their proper proportions—as a pope of peace—who preached peace to the individual, the family, the state and nation, and who sought to bring about a reconciliation of all Christendom.

"The very rehearsal of his life is sufficient. No further words of mine are necessary to draw its moral. May God take unto Himself, if He has not already done so, this noble old shepherd of the Christian world—and lead him back into the eternal sheepfold of the blessed in Heaven—

"Eternal rest give unto thy servant Leo,
O Lord,
And let perpetual light shine upon him."

IMMACULATE CONCEPTION.

Very impressive and solemn were the services held at the Immaculate Conception church yesterday morning for the repose of the soul of the late Pope Leo XIII. The outside of the church had been profusely draped in purple, the royal mourning color, and purple was the prevailing color in the interior of the edifice. In the rear of the main altar was a broad strip of purple with white fringe, and the altar rail was completely hidden by purple. The pulpit was also veiled in a purple canopy.

The rubrical ceremony was carried

Boy Drank a Glass of Whiskey

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 27.—A physician worked over a 7-year-old boy at his home on Linwood street, Somerville, for several hours yesterday, and finally succeeded in saving him from dying as the result of alcoholism.

The little fellow had his mother bordering on hysteria. His father sobered up completely and now swears he will never take another drink and the neighbors who were called in to minister to the boy, pending the arrival of the physician, were treated to a seriocomic episode which they will probably remember for a long time.

The boy acquired his drunkenness in the bathroom of his home. He happened to find in a corner of the room a water glass filled to the brim with an amber colored fluid which he thought looked pretty enough to drink.

He drank it and soon became unconscious. It was whiskey which his mother had taken from his father. He will recover.

BOY DROWNED

Lost His Life While Bathing in River

Patrick J. Boland, the eleven year old son of Edward and Catherine Boland of 8 Sullivan's court, off Fenwick street, lost his life while bathing in the Merrimack river in the vicinity of Aiken street bridge yesterday afternoon. The accident occurred about five o'clock.

The boys had been swimming but a short time when the little boy was seized with cramps and being youngsters nothing could be done to assist the drowning boy.

Help was summoned but it arrived too late, as the little fellow had gone down for the last time before the older people arrived on the scene. Undertaker Molloy was notified soon after the drowning and his men were soon on the scene with grappling irons. After a search of more than an hour the body was found only a few feet from the point at which it was seen to go down.

It was removed to the warerooms of Undertaker Molloy and later to the home of the boy's parents.

JAPAN'S INFLUENCE

Is Said to be Growing in China

(Correspondence of Associated Press)

PEKIN, June 13.—The growth of Japanese influence in China since the upheaval of 1901 has attracted attention in the United States and Europe, largely because it has developed gradually. Nevertheless, it is one of the [illegible]ts of that campaign which should [illegible]nsidered in connection with the policies of the far east. More[illegible] here are indications that Japan [illegible]ng in every way to advance [illegible]ence with the Chinese gov[illegible] and it is even broadly stated [illegible]ultimate object is to strength[illegible] [illegible]n position with the Celestial [illegible]sing the argument that to[illegible] could better resist the ag[illegible] of the western powers. [illegible]teoric rise since she began [illegible]estern methods a little more [illegible] century ago, has doubtless [illegible]many prominent Chinamen [illegible] fully awake to the help[illegible] their country, which was [illegible] illustrated by the easy [illegible]heir capital. As an orien[illegible] who understand the Chinese [illegible]pean people can and as only Russians can hope to do, [illegible]se may be able to make their undertaking.

[illegible]inly true, as the records of [illegible]e legation here show, that [illegible] number of Japanese have [illegible]hern China since the Box[illegible]t counting the Russians, [illegible]rhaps equal in numbers to [illegible]opeans and Americans in [illegible]g, Port Arthur and Dalny, [illegible]ver 1800 at Tien Tsin and [illegible] 500 in Pekin. Before the troubles they were a mere handful.

To attain her policy objects, Japan's agents are trying to win the confidence of most powerful Chinese officials, notably the progressive viceroys, Chan Chi Tung and Yuan Shi Kai. Several Chinese officials of rank have been induced to visit Japan during the past few years. They were warmly welcomed and Japan sought to impress them with the community of interest between the two countries. It is also said that Japan is seeking to effect a reorganization of the Chinese army and that there are many Japanese instructors in the army who have superceded Europeans, Germans and others who saw service before the Boxer troubles.

The Imperial university in Pekin, which was directed from its beginning by the learned Dr. W. A. P. Martin, an American missionary, has been reorganized by the Japanese. The troubles between the Chinese minister in Japan and the students of his country revealed the fact, which was a surprise to the diplomats in Pekin, that a thousand Chinese students were living in Tokio. That was six months ago. Since then, the number of Chinese students has increased to 2000 and includes the children of some of the highest officials and nobility apart from the ruling race, the Manchus, who heretofore have scorned to look beyond the walls of Pekin for knowledge and what is even more wonderful, there are a hundred or more girls among them. Cheapness was the potent argument which the Japanese used to attract Chinese students to Japan. Most of the students are enrolled in the university of Tokio, but others are in military, normal, agricultural and scientific schools and others toil in the private establishments of Mr. Fukudawa and Count Okuma, who have played a great part in modernizing Japan.

TWO MEN DEAD

Killed by Explosion in Brewing Company's Ice Plant

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 27.—Two men are known to be dead and six injured, one perhaps fatally, as the direct result of the blowing out of the cylinder head of an engine attached to an ammonia pump in the Jacob Ruppert brewing company's ice plant on Alexander avenue, early today. One hundred and fifty men were at work at the time and as soon as the engine stopped working the ammonia flowed from the pump, the fumes spreading to all parts of the building. Patrolman David J. Goss, of the Alexander avenue station was overcome by the fumes while rescuing unconscious employes from the building and his injuries may prove fatal. The dead:

OTTO SMITH, engineer.

JOHN VINCINSKY, fireman.

The injured:

Charles Katz, assistant engineer.

Patrolman David J. Goss, overcome by fumes, may die.

John Mortowitz, burned on face and hands and overcome by fumes.

Charles Carpenter, overcome by ammonia fumes.

Henry Traum, foreman of the ice plant, burned in the face, hands and body by ammonia.

Charles Ifland, burned by ammonia.

Three engines on the ground floor of the building are attached to ammonia pumps, the two smaller ones being used at night. Just before seven o'clock, Smith and Vincinsky stopped the smaller engines and started the larger one. The explosion followed shortly after but made very little noise and the employes on the upper floors heard only a muffled roar. As soon as the engine stopped, the ammonia in the immense pump spurted all over the engine room, enveloping and suffocating the two men. Up stairs the smell of the fumes carried warning and the employes rushed to the roof, the narrow stairway delaying the few who were overcome. The assistant engineer, Charles Katz, was on a platform over the engine when the explosion took place and jumped into a pit filled with oil, underneath the engine, where he remained more than three hours, undiscovered.

Patrolman Goss heard the noise of the explosion and rushed into the building. Covering his head with a cap similar to a diver's helmet, he went into the engine room and dragged out the charred bodies of Smith and Vincinsky. Again he went in and carried out Carpenter and Mortowitz, both of whom were unconscious. As he turned to re-enter the building he fell unconscious and had to be taken to the hospital. By this time the fire department had arrived and the other bodies and those on the roof were taken down by ladders.

Because of the fumes it was impossible to enter the building until 10 o'clock, when the ammonia was shot off.

Congressman Jacob A. Ruppert, the owner of the plant and Engineer Friedman then went through the building and discovered the unconscious body of Katz.

The damage to the plant is estimated at not over $1000.

NARROW ESCAPE

Two Women Were Nearly Suffocated

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, July 27.—Two women were nearly suffocated today and a third escaped by dropping from a third story window to the roof of a shed two stories below, while a fire was in progress in a lodging house, 1091 Washington street. The fire started from unknown causes in the kitchen while the proprietress was out shopping.

Miss Maude Spaulding, who was asleep in her room, in the rear of the third floor, was awakened by the smoke. Finding escape by the stairway cut off, the woman climbed out of the window and dropped to a shed two stories below and escaped uninjured.

Some time after the fire department had arrived, one of the members heard that two women were imprisoned on the north floor. Fireman Fred Sargent and Patrolman John Lane fought their way through the blinding smoke and found Mrs. Laura Hooton, 65 years old, and her daughter Hattie, 30 years old, unconscious on the floor. They revived soon after their rescue.

The damage to the building amounted to several hundred dollars.

RATS AT WORK

Said to be Undermining Manchester

By Associated Press to The Sun

MANCHESTER, N. H., July 27—Is the business portion of Manchester being undermined by rats? is a question which is being asked in all seriousness, and there is much anxiety in this matter.

Several weeks ago not only the sidewalk, but the underpinning of the old postoffice building on Hanover street was so threatened by the excavating carried on by the rodents that the sidewalk had to be removed and a large section of ground underneath it filled in with concrete and cement. Repairs also had to be made on the foundation of the building. It required a week or more for a force of men to complete this work.

Now another instance of the damage and ruin wrought by rats has come to light. Last night a section of Manchester street in front of the Windsor hotel fell in at a point where the street was paved with large blocks of stone. The street department set about making repairs at an early hour this morning, and investigation disclosed the fact that a section of a large brick sewer, which runs through the street, had fallen in, and the cause is attributed to rats. The rodents have eaten through the brick walls of the sewer, and so weakened it that it collapsed.

It will require some days to repair the damage done. The city is infested with rats at the present tiem to a greater degree than ever before known.

CITY UNDER GUARD

Two Men Killed in Race Riots in Danville

By Associated Press to The Sun

DANVILLE, Ill., July 27.—Two killed and 22 wounded, the police station wrecked, the county jail with few of its windows left unshattered, the city in the hands of the state troops and a feeling of uneasiness and dread prevailing everywhere is the situation left by the race riots of Saturday night, and early yesterday morning.

Many of the injured are at the hospital. After daylight appeared there were restless crowds on the streets and each surrounding town continued to swell the throng. There are many miners seen on the streets and great unrest and a threatening attitude is reported from Westville, five miles away.

Early in the morning Wilson, the negro assailant of Mrs. Burgess, was secretly taken from the county jail, but was returned shortly afterward.

Four companies of militia arrived yesterday morning from Springfield in reply to urgent requests sent to the state officials.

The troops marched to the market house opposite the jail and there camped. The streets were cleared. There were sullen threats heard, but no attempts at an outbreak were manifested during the day. Last night 100 sentinels were patrolling the streets in the immediate vicinity of the jail, each soldier carrying 40 rounds of ammunition.

Sheriff Whitlock says he himself was the only man who shot into the mob. When the jail was attacked, the sheriff became alarmed for the safety of his wife and children and considered that he was justified in shooting, although he was careful to shoot only in the hands or legs.

The 200 soldiers here, it is believed, will prevent further outbreaks, for the present at least. Half of these will be on duty all the time.

Leading citizens say the outbreak has been expected by them for a long time, as a bitter feeling has existed for several years between the negroes and a certain class of white persons. A number of minor outbreaks have occurred during the past year.

KING IN BELFAST

He Unveils a Statue of His Mother

By Associated Press to The Sun

BELFAST, July 27.—The welcome extended to King Edward and Queen Alxandra at the capital of Ulster, was marked by the same enthusiasm which has followed their progress through Ireland. The city was elaborately decorated and thronged with sightseers, and the streets were lined by 10,000 troops, 2000 bluejackets and 5000 police. The lord mayor and corporation awaited their majesties at the railroad station and presented them with an address. Upwards of 50 other addresses were presented on the same occasion. The king, in reply, said his highest ambition was to follow in the footsteps of his mother and make the well-being of his people, the prosperity of the realm and the maintenance of the peace of all nations his constant aim.

The royal procession was then formed and traversed the streets to the city hall, where the king unveiled a statue erected in honor of Queen Victoria.

ANOTHER ROAD

OF ELECTRICS BETWEEN LOWELL AND BOSTON.

The selectmen of Burlington gave a hearing on Saturday on the petition of the Middlesex Street Railway Co., for a track location, the company proposing to build a line between Lowell and Boston.

Charles F. Remington, one of the directors of the company, stated that it was the intention to build a first class road with double tracks between Billerica and Arlington Heights. At the former place connection would probably be made with a line running to Lowell and at the latter with the Boston elevated.

Mr. Wood led the opposition. There were few people on the route, he said, to look to for patronage; such a road would work injury to the Lowell & Boston road, which was proving a great benefit to the town, although not paying business as yet. He considered that the Lowell and Boston had a franchise on the turnpike.

Counsel for the petitioners stated that the road not having been built, all its rights were null and void.

Chairman Pollock raised the point that the petition was irregular in that no mention was made that the railway was to be constructed on private land. The petitioners were surprised at this and the matter was allowed to stand pending an understanding as to the legality of the petition.

The third annual excursion of Cercle D'Youville to Revere beach, will occur July 30.

KEARSARGE HERE

Big Battleship Made a Good Run

By Associated Press to The Sun

BAR HARBOR, Me., July 27.—The U. S. Battleship Kearsarge arrived at Bar Harbor at 5.42 yesterday afternoon and dropped anchor in the upper harbor at 6.13. She left the Needles at 1.25 p. m., on Friday, July 17th and Mount Desert Rock at 12.30 today, covering the distance of 2900 miles in 9 days four and one quarter hours, an average speed of 13.16 miles an hour. The highest speed attained was a little over fifteen knots an hour and the slowest was ten. Three times during the trip, the ship was slowed down; once on account of being in the vicinity of an iceberg and twice on account of a very thick fog. Head winds and thick weather retarded the speed of the ship and under favorable conditions she would have covered the distance in less than nine days.

DREW REVOLVERS

Burglars at East Chelmsford Were Desperate

Threatened to Shoot Constable Mooney—Broke and Entered Residence of Robert Barris

Burglars who entered Robert Barris' home in East Chelmsford last night, ransacking it from cellar to attic, pulled revolvers on Constable Thomas C. Mooney, who attempted to prevent them from getting away in a team.

The police believe that the burglars who robbed Mr. Barris' house also entered the Holden residence in North Billerica. They gained entrance to the Barris' house by means of a ladder leading to a shed roof. From the roof they forced an entrance through a window to a bed room on the second floor.

There was no one in the house at the time that the burglars operated. Mr. and Mr. Barris and family, with the exception of one son, are at Salisbury beach. The boy who did not accompany the family to the beach was camping out with some other boys on the banks of the Concord.

He arrived home last evening about 10.45 and upon opening the door was confronted with a state of affairs that left no doubt in his mind as to what had happened in his absence. The floors up and down stairs were strewn with the contents of drawers and cupboards and the house was a wreck from top to bottom.

The young Barris boy notified Constable Mooney and he in company with Mr. Brown and others of the neighbors started to investigate. In the course of his prowling in search of a clue the constable came upon a horse and covered buggy standing in the road a few yards from the house.

There was one man in the buggy when the constable first saw the team but before he got to the team another man jumped into the buggy and both occupants of the vehicle pulled revolvers and told the constable to stand back unless he wanted to get filled with lead.

The constable made a grab for the horse's bridle, but the driver was too quick for him and raising the whip he struck the horse. The constable was knocked down and one wheel of the carriage went over him. The carriage went in the direction of Billerica. Constable Mooney communicated with the various stable keepers in Lowell but could not learn that a team, such as he described, had been let Sunday evening. Mr. Mooney went to Billerica this morning and consulted with Chief of Police Conway of that place. Both officers are of the opinion that the same burglars operated in Billerica and East Chelmsford.

The Barris boy could not tell how much spoil the burglars succeeded in getting away with and Constable Mooney telegraphed to Salisbury beach to Mr. Barris asking him to come to East Chelmsford at once.

The beach weather has arrived. Make the most of it.

Again is it necessary to remind parents to look out for the little ones. Keep them cool, give them wholesome food in limited quantities, and give them large surfeits of fresh air. By so doing they will be tided over the hot spell.

The waitresses in Chicago are forbidden to chew gum. It is regarded as a sort of vice and the employers have set out to stop it. Since the recent strike the waitresses are under contract not to chew gum. A violation of this contract of course justifies their discharge. It is regarded almost as bad as the cigarette habit.

There is a law against prize-fighting in Massachusetts, and the police of Boston apparently did not know that a fight occurred within their jurisdiction Wednesday night. Nevertheless, there was a gathering at the Hub of sports from all over the state that evening and wherever groups of them were found they were discussing the prospects of the "fight." It is possible that they were not as good judges of the article as are the police. —Haverhill Gazette.

The metropolitan police are too busy stirring up mare's nests of their own growing at Revere and blaming the town officials for the evil.

Practical Politics discusses the embarrassments which President Roosevelt is bringing upon the party managers by his kitchen cabinet by his determination to push too many of his friends to the front. If the president keeps on in this line, by the time the convention assembles, he will have broken down the mainstays of his support. On the whole it would seem that the prospects are daily getting brighter for the election of a democratic candidate.

THE CHILD LABOR

The state inspector has gone through the mills and found no evidence of any violation of the child labor law. So we expected. The inspectors assigned to Lowell are not in the habit of finding violations of the factory laws. They are apparently so long accustomed to passing everything as all right that they find it difficult to make a departure for the purpose of enforcing the law.

AIKEN STREET PARK.

It is proposed to turn the made land on the east side of Aiken street bridge into a beautiful common, covered by a soft coating of velvet grass and planted with trees and shrubs. The citizen, the board or commission that makes a beautiful common from a malodorous dump well deserve the gratitude of the city at large. No part of the city is in greater need of a common than this very locality. It is therefore hoped that the proposition will be carried out. The fact that a new school is to be erected in the vicinity will make the new park much more desirable.

DROWNING ACCIDENTS.

We may expect to hear of several drownings this hot weather. When boys get into the water they do not know where to stop. As a result they get over their depth or in some other way become the water's victims. We presume it would be useless to advise certain boys. The boys who refuse to be advised by their seniors are the boys who get drowned. There are quite a few of them up in the cemetery and many more will soon follow.

MORIARTY FOR MAYOR.

Ex-Representative Eugene M. Moriarty of Worcester, the business manager and treasurer of the Worcester Post, is quite favorably mentioned as a candidate for mayor in that city. Mr. Moriarty is a man of very considerable executive ability and his experience of twelve years in the legislature besides his training in local offices should make him a highly desirable candidate for the people of Worcester. Mr. Moriarty is known throughout the state as a clean, upright gentleman, who during his long service in the legislature stood firmly for the right as he saw it and never betrayed the plain people who elected him. We believe he would make an excellent mayor.

SERIOUS CHARGE MADE.

On Saturday during the trial of a liquor case in police court the lawyer for the defendant charged the government with being susceptible to influence in disposing of such cases. The court promptly repelled the insinuation so far as it might refer to the integrity of the presiding judge, but it had no reference whatever to the court. A great many people are wondering what it meant or whether it is a fact that evidence of violation in certain case is hushed up so that the case never goes to court. The question to be considered then is whether there is anybody disposing of cases privately without letting them go to court.

ROOSEVELT EMBARASSING HIS MANAGERS.

President Roosevelt is in conflict with the bookbinders' union for having restored an employe of the government printing office who was under the ban of the union. In restoring him the president simply stated that labor unions could not overrule the laws of the United States. The affair has apparently been given undue significance by the press of the country. The bookbinders have threatened to strike but a strike against the federal government could result only in permanent removal from their places. The government cannot long be hampered by the action of any union. Besides there is the danger of being charged with treason in the conduct of such a strike. Verily, the government of the United States is very autocratic when its powers are invoked by its employes.

THE PAPAL SUCCESSION

There is now much discussion over the papal succession, even among the cardinals. Not all of the despatches can be relied upon as accurate as some of the correspondents are liable to be more sensational than the facts would warrant, but nowadays very little can be kept from the vigilant reporters. The merits and demerits of various candidates are discussed pro and con and while the cardinals differ in their opinion in regard to who should be elected, yet they are all desirous of selecting the one who is best calculated to promote the interests of the church. The cardinal who will bring the most ability to the office and who will incite the least possible enmity is the one who will probably be elected. The election will be made after due deliberation and discussion without the possibility of outside interference after the conclave opens.

It is certain that a choice will be made without much difficulty and that the work of the church will go on without any perceptible change. The pope may die but the papacy and the church over which he ruled remain, and were never more vigorous and influential than at present.

SEEN AND HEARD

The truth is often a bitter pill to swallow, but as Judge Hadley told a police officer in police court a few days ago, it should be uppermost in a man's mind.

From statistics recently computed the inference is drawn that the heads of three in every ten college boys instead of being congenial residences for brains are nothing more or less than gardens for football hair.

In a window of one of the most modest and unpretentious drug stores in the city the following sign is displayed: "Nobby petticoats $1.75. It does not say that the petticoat has any mission to perform other than that of the common-everyday petticoat.

At a ball game recently a little boy was calling out, "Ice cold tonic and cigars here." A spectator hearing this ordered a bottle of tonic and much to his surprise upon opening it discovered that the tonic was warm instead of "ice cold," as the boy had lead him to believe.

"This tonic isn't cold," said the man in a tone that would scare a lion, and the boy replied, "Well, why didn't you buy it when it was?" The reply was too much for the man and he decided to grin and bear it.

A story is going the rounds, but of course I am not in a position to vouch for the truth of it, to the effect that a certain quite swell young man who has been paying strict attention to a fair young maiden in the Highlands is not going to her house any more. They do tell that the young couple had a little argument about the goodness and badness of men and women. He said that the men are better as a whole than the women and the fair young maiden reversed the opinion. "Then," said the gallant youth, "I will compare notes with you. I will confess my life to you and you can tell me of your past and we will judge the whole by the result." The young maiden assented and the young man started in and unfolded his life to her. When he had finished she looked at him and asked rather doubtfully if he had told her all.

"Yes," he stoutly declared, "I have told you all."

"Then I am unworthy of you. Farewell, for, for-ever," sorrowfully sobbed the fair maiden.

A junk collector endeavoring to wheel what old timers would term "a lazy man's load," had Prescott street all to himself for about fifteen minutes Wednesday evening. His junk cart was loaded with bags on the top of which were several long pieces of inch and two inch iron pipe that had long since gone out of commission. The wheels of the cart, that had seen better days, were twisting and turning under the heavy load and the junk collector was beating the kangaroo walk all to pieces by the contortions he was going through in an endeavor to get his cart out of the car tracks. The iron pipe was reaching far out and pedestrians were in danger of being swept off the sidewalk. The man at the cart handles had his first bit of trouble in Merrimack square, but a dozen or more newsboys went to the rescue and assisted him in pushing his cart in to Prescott street. Then he dismissed the boys and greatly to his sorrow. He found sledding just as hard in Prescott street as in the square.

Two or three times he was assisted by passersby but as they were not sharing in the profits of the old rags and iron pipes they did not care to waste too much time with the junkman. The poor fellow was hollered at and sworn at but he still continued to throw his left leg over the shafts and push for all he was worth. Just as he was about to free his cart from the car tracks the left wheel squeaked and then it was the junkman's turn to swear. He swore a blue streak and in recognition of his grand attempt at using cuss words a young man went to his assistance and helped him to push his cart to the sidewalk. The junkman was about all in and after mopping his brow with a handkerchief that left a black streak in its wake he procured another cart and divided the lazy man's load. Men who are in the habit of going to Lawrence please take notice.

ATTACKED BY MOB

By Associated Press to The Sun

SCRANTON, Pa., July 27.—An attempt to lynch John Peel, a Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company detective was made Saturday night at Foster by a crowd of villagers who were infuriated upon learning that he had gained evidence which would connect a score of the families of the village with wholesale thievery of brass and other junk from the company's property.

Peel was attacked at a hotel while waiting for a train. He stood off the mob at the point of a revolver until the arrival of a passenger train, the crew of which rescued him with difficulty.

The ringleader of the mob is said to be one of the leading citizens of the town and it is alleged that because the detective had gained evidence in connection with the thieving which would disgrace him and his son forever, he gathered the mob and led them in the murderous attack.

KILLED A MAN

Woman Wanted for Murder Surrendered

By Associated Press to The Sun

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., July 27.—A young woman giving the name of Mrs. Aurora Hodge, her age 19 and her home, Dennison, Iowa, entered the office of Supt. of Police Carr yesterday and said she wanted to give herself up, declaring that she had killed a man near Salt Lake City, Utah, on July 11th last. She said she had parted from her husband a few months after their marriage and went on the road with a traveling medicine vender as his bookkeeper. "When on a lonely road near Salt Lake City, July 11," she said, "he attempted to assault me and I shot him with a revolver I had been carrying. I left him in the wagon and went to Salt Lake City to give myself up but my nerve failed me at the time."

A telegram late last night from Acting Chief of Police Burbridge of Salt Lake City to Chief Carr confirms Mrs. Hodge's story and states that there is a warrant out for her arrest for murder.

THREE DROWNED

BY THE CAPSIZING OF A PLEASURE BOAT.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 27.—Mrs. C. T. Thorpe, Miss Annabel Rogers and Samuel Gobel, were drowned in the Thames river north of this city last evening, by the capsizing of a pleasure boat while attempting to cross the river. C. D. Edneck, E. W. Dawson, Walter Scott and Miss Bertha Windsor, who were also occupants of the boat, were saved.

TRAINS CRASHED

THREE PERSONS WERE INJURED BUT NONE FATALLY.

By Associated Press to The Sun

WELLINGTON, O., July 27.—While rounding a sharp curve several miles south of here yesterday, at a speed of sixty miles an hour, the flyer on the Big Four road, crashed into the rear end of a freight train, which was just pulling into a siding.

The engine of the flyer ploughed through the caboose and ten cars loaded with live stock and merchandise, finally landing on its side in the ditch. Only the mail car of the flyer was derailed. Three persons were injured, but none fatally.

FLAGMAN BLAMED

FOR COLLISION ON THE SOUTHERN RAILROAD.

By Associated Press to The Sun

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., July 27.—A passenger train and a freight on the Southern railroad collided at Coveville, 15 miles south of here yesterday and eleven persons were injured but none fatally. The accident was due to the flagman of the passengtr train not stopping the freight in time to prevent a rear end collision.

BOXING GOSSIP.

Tommy Sullivan of the West End Athletic club will meet Hughey Devlin again in the ring at New Bedford for a 15-round fight at 145 pounds. They will meet before the New Bedford Athletic club. J. Ryan, also of the West End club, will meet an unknown the same night for an 8-round go at catchweight. Ryan is a comer.—Lawrence Sun.

Can this be Hughey of polo fame?

If the Gardner-Fitzsimmons fight takes place at Fort Erie on Labor day quite a delegation of Lowell sports will make the trip and see the fight instead of taking their usual vacations. It is the opinion of the Lowell sports that Gardner can whip Fitz and the opinion is duplicated in Boston.

Martin Flaherty may be seen on the road daily between Dewey grove and Lawrence doing light road work, as he intends to get into the ring again in the fall. Martin weighs 138 at present and never looked better, though of course not trained down fine. He has not had occasion as yet to spar with any evil doers, as police officer for that section of the town of Dracut as the law breakers are afraid of him and give Dewey grove, his headquarters, a wide birth. Dewey grove was never conducted more quietly or peaceably than since Martin and "Dan" established themselves there.

SUES THE CITY

Clerk of Police Board Wants That $300

Joseph Smith, clerk of the police court, has brought suit against the city to recover $300, amount alleged to be due him for salary.

The writ was issued Saturday afternoon. The ad damnum of the suit is $500, the writ is returnable the first Saturday in September.

This suit grows out of the action of the police board in increasing the salary of their clerk from $1500 to $1800 last year. The committee on appropriations did not make the necessary provisions for this increase. They, in accordance with the city charter—the one recommended by the commission on revision of the city charter, reported an itemized appropriation, allowing and specifying $1500 as the amount for the clerk's salary. The police board, notwithstanding this action, increased the salary. The city council adopted the order presented by the committee on appropriations and refused to vote the money for the increase.

Now the question comes, did the board of police have a legal right to increase and vote a salary when sufficient money was not appropriated for the specific purpose.

FAMILY KILLED

Father, Mother, Babe Struck by Train

By Associated Press to The Sun

WILKESBARRE, Pa., July 27—Joshua Butler, wife and infant were struck by an express on the Lehigh Valley railroad yesterday afternoon while driving across the tracks at Port Rowkley, and all three are dead. They were hurled fully 300 feet, the woman's death being instantaneous. The babe was tossed over the locomotive and was found lying in the tender on top of the coal. Mr. Butler was found in an adjoining field.

TRIED TO ESCAPE

Five Boys Succeeded in Attempt

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, July 27.—More than a score of boys of the House of Refuge on Randall's Island tunnelled under and through the 35 feet high and two feet thick wall surrounding the building yesterday and five succeeded in escaping. A dozen others who were discovered in the act of escaping submitted and seven who tried to get away were captured. Two had swam almost to the Manhattan shore across the channel. Two more were caught in Little Hell Gate, into which they plunged, and another was caught in the water trying to swim to Ward's Island.

The escape was made by means of a wooden shed which had been built as a tool house and store house against the inside of the wall surrounding the house of refuge. It contained a lot of diggers' tools, such as picks, crowbars and other instruments that the boys determined to put into use in getting away from the institution. The leaders enlisted about 25 boys in the attempt. Their ages range from 18 to 20.

RAIDS AT REVERE

Liquor Dealers Were Visited Twice by Officers

By Associated Press to The Sun

REVERE BEACH, July 27.—When the history of the remarkable complications of official authority in Revere for the year 1903 is written, several chapters will have to be devoted to yesterday's doings.

Although Officer George C. Neal, who is in charge of the local activities of the district police, spent the day here, it was one of apparent quiet on his part. But the department of the metropolitan park police, under Chief H. W. West, and the town police force, under Chief Edward H. Oakes, had a lively time of it.

Chief West had a campaign against suspected liquor sellers on Ocean avenue all mapped out and lying on his desk over night. The first thing noticed in the morning was a remarkable scarcity of police in uniform at their accustomed beats along the boulevard. But any one watching the station about 11:30 would have seen squads of men in citizen's clothes issuing from the building in all directions.

They walked rapidly for such a hot morning. One squad, led by Sergt. Hawkins, headed for the premises of Elijah M. Moreland, 524 Ocean avenue, known as the Crescent club. The sergeant took his post at the door while Policemen D. O'Connor, Smith, Quirk, Crowley and Weinert searched the place and seized 492 bottles of beer and 21 glasses. Moreland was arrested, charged with maintaining a common liquor nuisance.

Meanwhile the other raiders were busy. Sergt. Rickford and Patrolmen Chapman, Best, Qualter, McDonald and Shaughnessy went to the Revere Beach hotel on the same street. State Officer Neal accompanied this party. They arrested John H. Lacy, charged with maintaining a common liquor nuisance. All the liquor they could find was about a gill of whiskey drained from 19 empty bottles, but they found hundreds of empty bottles which they will use as evidence.

Patrolmen Chainey, Marshall, T. O'Connor, Sanerie and Haddock visited Manuel Costa, who has been raided a half dozen times this year by Chief Oakes of the town force. Costa was arrested on the same charge as the others, and a quantity of beer on a lot in the rear of his house was seized.

Officers Hardiman, Brawley, Bravogel and Brookings went to the "Cycle Lunch," 756 Ocean avenue and arrested Mrs. Octavia King. Fifty-two bottles of beer were seized.

The Star of Sea cottage, kept by Michael R. Dougherty, was also searched, but no liquors were found.

CHIEF OAKES RAIDS, TOO.

News of the raids spread rapidly and the street was soon in a turmoil of excitement. Hundreds of people surrounded the places and watched the operation of the park police.

The news also traveled to the office of Chief Oakes of the town police. Here it excited even more interest than among the knowing ones at the beach, for Chief Oakes also had a bunch of warrants to serve, and among them were warrants against Costa and Dougherty.

This is the first occasion since the metropolitan park force was established on the beach that Chief West ever made such a vigorous sally away from the reservation limits. It was another case of state officers exercising police authority within the town limits, and Chief Oakes felt a little nettled. But he was not to be outdone.

At the hotel Cleveland, occupied by Annie Sherman, Chief Oakes, with Patrolmen Stuart, Latter and Friel, seized six cases of beer. And as the hotel Cleveland is only about a stone's throw from Chief West's residence, the town authorities think it is their turn to smile.

Chief Oakes also served his search warrants on Manuel Costa and Michael Dougherty, and at the former place succeeded in finding a small quantity of beer, which the park police must have overlooked. Two other warrants were served by them, but nothing was found.

After the seizure at Hotel Cleveland the town officers loaded the beer taken into their police wagon and drove up the boulevard. The crowd showed a quick appreciation of the humor of the situation and laughter and applause greeted their passing.

Nearly all the amusement enterprises at Revere beach were wide open yesterday, and the great boulevard from one end to the other presented an almost unbroken front of holiday gayety and activity.

Flags were flying from every available pole, museums, merry-go-rounds, scenic theatre and railways, and all the nautical attractions were in merry blast, while more than a dozen dealers in beach pails and shovels, canes and souvenirs did a rattling business all day.

In front of each amusement enterprise, with the exception of some of the nautical features, hung a sign which stated that the show was run by a benevolent organization.

Conspicuous for their closing, however, were the photographers, some of whom were in court recently. Not one photographer offered to do business yesterday.

POPE LEO BURIED

Body of Dead Pontiff Interred in St. Peter's

By Associated Press to The Sun

ROME, July 27.—The body of Pope Leo was interred in St. Peter's Saturday night. The strokes of the hammer which resounded through the immense dome of the cathedral announced to the earnest gathering in the nave that Leo XIII had been laid to rest.

At sundown the most important and solemn of all the obsequies took place. The front doors of the basilica were closed and the vast church appeared deserted save for a row of lights at the shrine of St. Peter, the candles about the bier and those persons who had with the utmost reverence gathered there.

About 1000 persons had received invitations to attend the ceremonies. The cardinals, who met earlier in the Vatican, entered the chapel choir, waiting there for the arrival of the procession. Cardinal Oreglia holding the keys of a command.

Through special permission a representative of the Associated Press was allowed to enter the Chapel of the Sacrament before the remains of the dead pontiff were removed. Cardinal Rampolla, as arch-priest of the basilica, was waiting outside the gates, in violet robes, surrounded by the chapter of the cathedral, which was led by Mgr. Ceppetelli, who conducted the service.

Drs. Lapponi and Mazzoni directed the work of the removal of the bier, which was executed by eight sediari, or pope's carriers, attired in their brilliant red brocade costumes. They at first tried to raise the bier, but, finding it too heavy, they slid it on to a low car with noiseless wheels.

Then, to the strains of the "Miserere," the procession carrying candles and torches, slowly left the chapel and went up the church, passing the bronze statue and beyond the shrine of St. Peter. Those gathered fell to their knees.

St. Peter's is peculiarly fitted to be the background of such a scene. The cold whiteness of her vast pillars showed up the bright uniforms of the guards, the violet robes of the clergy and the red of the bier, while the flickering light of the candles made the funeral procession the only visible object and rendered the obscurity behind it more noticeable.

After slow progress around the church, the cortege arrived at the chapel choir, the bier being so carried that the dead pope entered head first, according to the ceremonial, the chapel from semi-obscurity flashing into the brilliancy of the suddenly turned on electric lights.

Here all those who had received invitations were stopped, remaining in the main part of the basilica behind a double line of the Swiss guards. Within the chapel was Count Camillo Pecci, a nephew of the late pope, wearing the red uniform of a general of the noble guard.

In the chapel the music changed to notes of joy and triumph. From the outside the five bells of St. Peter's rang their accustomed salute to the coming night, mingled harmoniously with the music of the choir.

The scene in the chapel was most effective. The bier bearing the body of the pontiff was received by Cardinal Oreglia. It was placed in the centre, backed by an altar with a beautiful image of the Madonna, before which were burning four immense candles.

Around the two sides of the chapel, in the choir seats, were 36 cardinals, all wearing violet robes except Cardinals Gotti and Pierotti, who wore white mantles of their orders; Cardinal Martinelli in black, as an Augustinian, and Cardinal Vives y Tuto, in Franciscan brown.

In the middle of the right side of the chapel, among the cardinals, sat Prince Mercantonio Colonna, assistant to the pontifical throne, with an empty seat next him, owing to the fact that Prince Orsini, who held the same position, had resigned.

The body was sprinkled with holy water, absolution was given and the foot of Leo XIII was kissed for the last time by Major Domo Cagiano, Master of the Chamber Gisletti, and Count Camillo Pecci. The major domo then covered the venerable features and hands with a white silk veil bordered with gold. Over this the prefect of ceremonies spread a large red silk veil which covered the whole person.

Fire was lighted in a brasier and blown by a bellows, the sparks rising almost to the ceiling, while Mgr. Bartolini read for about 20 minutes the oratio brevis, eulogizing the dead pontiff, and Notary Poponi, 84 years old, read out the burial record, a service which he performed upon the occasion of the deaths of Pope Gregory XVI. and Pope Pius IX.

The Monsignors of the Basilica, aided by the noble guard, then laid all that was mortal of Leo XII. in a cypress coffin lined with red satin and bearing on the cover an inlaid cross, the entire sacred college and Prince Colonna rising to their feet as a last tribute and sign of respect.

When the body had been placed in the coffin it was entirely concealed with the red velvet covering which before had been on the bier. The major domo put beside the body two silk purses containing coins of silver and a bronze medal struck during Leo's pontificate. A eulogy, written in magnificent Latin and setting forth the great events of Pope Leo's life and reign, inclosed in a metal tube, was also interred with the body.

When all had been arranged the supreme prayer was said and the last benediction given, all present joining. Half suppressed sobs were heard on all sides.

The second coffin was of lead and very heavy. On the cover at the head was a cross, just below which was a skull and cross bones, while below these were the arms of the late pope, with the triple crown, but without the colors as they signify living authority. At the bottom was a plate bearing the following inscription:

"Corpus Leoni P. H. Vixit an XCIII. Eccles Univers Prefuit an XXV. Mensis 5, Obiit Die XX Julii an MCXIII."

This coffin was sealed personally with the arms of the Camerlienge. The major domo of the chapter of the Basilica lighted a brasier which was used in soldering the coffin, producing sounds and signs strange to hear and see in a church. These coffins were enclosed in a third casket of polished walnut without decoration.

When the last supreme moment came, the heavy coffin, weighing in all 1322 pounds, was rolled out of the chapel, preceded by mace bearers and choirs singing as they went, and followed by all the cardinals, among whom the bowed figure of Oreglia, the strong, upright Vannutelli brothers, the white-haired Agliardi and the immense, black-browed Svampa, were the most conspicuous. Pulleys were attached to the coffin and soon, to the strains of the "Benedictus Dominus Dous Israel," it was hoisted to the stone sarcophagus above the door, where it will remain until the grateful cardinals created by the late pontiff shall erect a suitable tomb in the basilica of St. John Lateran, which was chosen by the pope himself as his final resting place.

Thus was Pope Leo consigned to his long rest.

NARROW ESCAPE

Aeronaut Half Dead When Picked Up

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW HAVEN, July 27.—Alfred Patneau, an aeronaut, who made a balloon ascension at Savin Rock at 10 o'clock Saturday night, came very near finding a watery grave in Long Island sound. Patneau carried along in his balloon a quantity of fireworks which he expected to explode. The fireworks proved defective and the big balloon disappeared in the darkness.

Patneau was hurled against the flag pole on the Savin Rock theatre and then carried out over the sound. He made up his mind that he had struck a current that was carrying him out to sea and he cut loose his parachute.

He landed two miles off shore, but fortunately amid some oyster beds. His life preserver buoyed him up and he fortunately got hold of an oyster stake buoy. There he clung for two hours and yelled for help.

His cries were finally heard at City Point and four rowboats put out to search for him. Charles Hunt and Herbert Sturup, Jr., were the first to reach Patneau. He was up to his neck in water and half dead.

He was taken to the home of Joseph Larraher in Howard avenue, where a physician worked over him for an hour. He was so nearly gone that they did not dare to move him to the hospital until nearly morning. Patneau was suffering from exhaustion, but after a night's rest he recovered sufficiently to leave the hospital last evening.

His home is in Haverhill, Mass. He is only 19 years of age. He says he will be ready to make ascensions again this week. Patneau was to set off fireworks so that his course over Long Island could be followed by a steam launch. The fireworks failed to explode and he was lost in the darkness.

The balloon landed early yesterday morning on the East Haven green, 10 miles from this city.

FOUND IN SEWER

Body of a Woman Recovered

By Associated Press to The Sun

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., July 27.—With a shoe lace tied tightly around the neck, the body of a woman was found in a sewer yesterday by a boy whose curiosity was aroused by coming up on a break in the sewer. The body appeared to be that of a German woman, a blonde, 30 years old, five feet, 8 inches tall, and weighing 145 pounds. The coroner said the woman had not been dead 24 hours. Although viewed by many people at the morgue the body has not been identified.

WOMAN LYNCHED

Negress Gave Poison to Young Girl

By Associated Press to The Sun

SHREVEPORT, La., July 27.—Information reached Shreveport yesterday that the negress Jennie Steer, who administered poison in a glass of lemonade to Lizzie Dolan, the 16-year-old daughter of John Dolan, from the effects of which she died, was lynched by a mob Saturday night. The lynching occurred on the Beard plantation near the spot where the woman's crime was committed. She was stubborn to the last, denying her crime.

While the body was dangling in midair, several bullets were fired into it by the enraged citizens.

REQUIEM SERVICE

out to the letter, including the pulled catafalque, with head slightly raised and towards the altar. Candles burned at both ends of the catafalque and the crucifix was towards the congregation.

The celebrant of the solemn requiem mass was Rev. Isadore Tresch, O. M. I., and he was assisted in the celebration by Rev. Lawrence J. Tighe, O. M. I., as deacon and Rev. Patrick J. McGrath, O. M. I., sub-deacon.

The choir was assisted by the full American orchestra and was under the direction of Mr. P. P. Haggerty.

THE PURPLE CATAFALQUE IN THE SANCTUARY AT ST. MICHAEL'S CHURCH.

Schmidt's mass was sung, and after the Libera the choir sang the "Quando Corpus" from Rossini's Stabat Mater.

Rev. Eugene A. Dorgan, O. M. I., pastor of the church, delivered an eloquent sermon on the deceased pontiff. In opening the reverend speaker told the congregation that he would not go into the life of the deceased pope in detail as the newspapers had already told the story. Rev. Father Dorgan spoke on the debt of gratitude the world owed Leo. The reverend speaker said that when Pope Leo ascended the throne at St. Peter's there was a great deal of opposition to the church, but that through his efforts this has been largely overcome.

The world also owed Leo a debt of gratitude in regard to the encyclical on marriage, a duty of course which is known by the people, but which some were beginning to neglect on account of divorces granted by the civil courts. In the encyclical on marriage, the deceased pontiff made a firm endeavor to make marriage as binding all over the country as it is in the Catholic church.

Father Dorgan then spoke of the effect of the pope's teachings and encyclicals even in New England, where there had been a great deal of bigotry and opposition. The people all over the world realized the good works of Pope Leo. The reverend speaker spoke of the honesty of purpose in all the works of His Holiness, even when it displeased His own people. He spoke of the Fenian uprisings in which the pope's decree was against his own people and in favor of England, in order to have law and order. His works were all done openly and honestly and in the interest of the people.

Father Dorgan dwelt on the encyclical of the late pope in which the latter urged unity and the bringing the people together in one fold. At the close of his sermon the preacher urged the people to offer up their prayers for the repose of the soul of the late Pope Leo.

AT ST. MICHAEL'S.

The services at St. Michael's church were of unusual impressiveness, indicative of the great sorrow felt at the death of the pontiff. A large congregation attended the solemn high mass of requiem which was celebrated at 10.30 o'clock. The grand main altar was stripped of its usual adornments and only the light of a dozen candles illuminated that marble structure. The candle sticks were twined with purple, caught in the center with bows of white. Overhead the entire sanctuary was draped with white tasseled purple cloth. The chancel railing was hidden behind covering of purple and even the pulpit was decked with the mourning colors. The facade of the altar base had panels of purple with large white crosses and everywhere purple was entwined on the great altar. The effect was very striking and the entire feature was designed by Sister Monita, one of the Dominican Sisters in charge of the parochial school. The priests wore the black vestments. Within the sanctuary rested a catafalque ten feet in height and this was surrounded by six candles and candelabra. It was elevated, the head of the casket being towards the altar. The celebrant of the mass was Rev. Fr. Mullen, assisted by Rev. E. A. Carney, deacon, and Rev. Charles F. Sullivan, a seminarian and a resident of Collinsville, sub-deacon. Rev. Dennis Murphy was master of ceremonies. The sermon was preached by Rev. Fr. Carney who paid eloquent tribute to the deceased pontiff. The sermon dealt with the important events in the pope's life and particular mention was made of his efforts to unite all in peace. The world owes a great debt to Pope Leo, said the preacher, for all he has done for mankind. When he assumed the papacy he found the country disturbed and all affairs in an unsettled state. His efforts were directed in the work of bringing about peace and quiet and his conciliatory policy accomplished much for which the world should feel grateful. Today, he said, the entire people, infidel, heathen and Christian mourn for the loss of a good man. The preacher referred to the important encyclicals written by the pope on Christian marriage, socialism and the labor question and pointed out that at all times Leo was the friend of the oppressed. He asked all to pray for the repose of his soul, and that God may give him that reward which all earn who live according to His commands.

The music for the mass was rendered by the regular quartet of the church assisted by the choir. Director Murphy had prepared a special program for the service and Miss White presided at the organ.

The rubrics of the requiem mass provide for the singing of the "De Profundis," and so this was sung instead of the Asperges which is always sung just before the beginning of the celebration of the high mass on Sundays. Mr. Bonjer sustained the solos and the quartet responses were given without organ accompaniment. At the offertory the beautiful and difficult "Quando Corpus" from Rossini's Stabat Mater was rendered by the quartet without organ accompaniment. Mr. James A. Murphy sang the tenor solo. Leybach's "Pie Jesu," after the elevation, and immediately after the sermon the Libera was chanted. Absolution was then pronounced by Rev. Fr. Mullen and at the conclusion of the service the quartet sang Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar," this being included in the musical program at the request of the pastor, Rev. Fr. Shaw. As the clergy and altar boys filed out of the sanctuary the quartet sang "Nearer, My God, to Thee." The entire service was strikingly solemn and impressive.

ST. PATRICK'S.

Masses for the repose of the soul of Pope Leo XIII were sung at St. Patrick's, not only by the rector and curates of the parish but by three visiting clergymen, Rev. Frs. Bonfield and O'Meara of Chicago, Ill., and Rev. John Casey of Roxville, N. Y. The last named officiated in the chapel of Notre Dame academy. Rev. Fr. Bonfield is a relative of Fr. O'Brien and was present in Ireland with the late Rev. Michael O'Brien when the latter died.

The mourning decorations were very striking, both interior and exterior, being draped in black with white border.

Solemn high mass of requiem was sung at 10.30 o'clock by Rev. James Walsh, assisted by Rev. John J. McHugh, deacon and Rev. T. J. Callahan, sub-deacon. Rev. William O'Brien, P. R., occupied a seat within the sanctuary. The choir under the direction of Prof. Fred Bond rendered Schmidt's beautiful requiem mass. At the offertory Prof. Bond sang Leybach's "Pie Jesu," and as the congregation left the church "De Profundis" was sung by the choir. The eulogy was delivered by Rev. Fr. McHugh.

The preacher gave an eloquent review of the life of the late pope, its effect upon the world and upon the church. He also pointed out the vast amount of good that had resulted from the encyclicals issued by Pope Leo, by his statesmanship and his efforts to preserve peace and good feeling among the powers of and peoples of the earth. The sermon was attentively listened to by a very large congregation.

NEW PORTUGUESE PARISH.

Rev. J. V. Rosa, pastor of St. Anthony's (Portuguese) church of this city, the members of the church choir and several singers from other Catholic church choirs of this city and about 100 members of the congregation went to Lawrence yesterday and assisted in the first mass for the Portuguese of that city which was held in the Immaculate Conception church at 10.30 o'clock.

Rev. Fr. Rosa was the celebrant of the mass and also spoke upon the pope. He asked prayers for the repose of the soul of the pontiff.

Rosewig's entire mass was sung and Nevins' "Veni Creator" was rendered by Miss Hannah Kilkenney. At the offertory "Benedicti" by Cherubini was sung by Pete A. Clune, C. F. Calnan and Frank McCarthy. The organist was Miss Lulu Ginty and the director of the choir was Peter A. Clune. The singers were: Sopranos, Miss Hattie Fox, Miss White of Lawrence; altos, Miss Hannah Kilkenney and Mrs. Catherine Towle of Lawrence; tenors, P. A. Clune, C. F. Calnan and John Buckley; baritone, Daniel S. O'Brien and bass, Frank McCarthy. Hugh McElroy of this city played clarinet obligatos during the mass and before the mass played a solo.

ST. JOSEPH'S CHURCH.

At St. Joseph's, Rev. Fr. Lamothe, O. M. I., officiated, assisted by Rev. Fr. Reillard, O. M. I., as deacon and Rev. Brother McNamara, O. M. I., as sub-deacon.

Rev. Fr. Fournier, O. M. I., the director of St. Joseph's church, delivered the eulogy. He took as his text, "And I will raise me up a faithful priest, who shall be according to my heart and my soul."—First Book of Kings, II 35.

During his remarks Fr. Fournier referred to his own personal experience with the late pontiff. Fr. Fournier met the Holy Father in Rome 12 years ago and told of his shaking hands with the head of the church. On being told that Fr. Fournier was a French Canadian, the pope said how much he loved the Canadians, who were among the most faithful of his subjects. He also told Fr. Fournier that he loved the Oblates. During this he held Fr. Fournier firmly but kindly by the hand, and the Lowell clergyman says that so great was the powerful magnetism of the pontiff that he felt a sort of fluid penetrating him as Leo spoke these affectionate words to him. At this point of his narrative Fr. Fournier bowed his head, overcome with emotion, while his voice broke and tears filled his eyes. Every one among the listeners was deeply moved.

Miss Blanche Dextra gave Gounod's "Pie Jesu" at the elevation. At the offertory Michael's "Pie Jesu" was sung by the choir, and at the communion Rossini's "Quando Corpus" was given by Misses Ida Tarte and Blanche Dextra and Messrs. A. July and H. A. Racicot. The mass sung was that of the harmonized Gaha chant. As a processional Mr. Vincelette gave Beethoven's funeral march and as a recessional Chopin's. Mr. H. A. Racicot directed the choir.

SACRED HEART CHURCH.

At the low masses at the Sacred Heart church yesterday special prayers were offered for the deceased pope.

At 10.30 a solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Fr. Kerwin, O. M. I.; with Rev. Fr. Moriarty, O. M. I., as deacon, and Rev. Fr. Flynn, O. M. I., as sub-deacon.

The influence of Leo's Encyclical Letters on the Christian World" was the subject of the sermon by Rev. Fr. Flynn.

The musical portion of the services was under the direction of Mrs. T. H. Muldoon and Cherubini's requiem mass was sung by the choir. Mrs. Muldoon was the organist.

AT COLLINSVILLE.

The people of Collinsville paid tribute to the dead pontiff yesterday morning. Mass was celebrated in the little church by Rev. Dennis Murphy, who also spoke in eulogy of Pope Leo and dwelt on the universal manifestations of grief at his death, as a tribute to his worth and his work in the world. The altar was very prettily draped in purple as was the auditorium of the church.

ST. ANTHONY'S CHURCH.

On account of the choir of St. Anthony's church going to Lawrence to participate in forming a congregation there no solemn mass of requiem was sung.

At 10.30 o'clock a low mass was celebrated by Rev. Fr. H. R. Ferreira, the new curate of the church, and who came to this city from St. Michael's, Azores, only last Friday. Next Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock the solemn high mass of requiem will be celebrated. Prayers for the repose of the soul of the dead pope will be said at that time, and a eulogy will be delivered by the pastor, Rev. J. V. Rosa.

ST. JEAN BAPTISTE.

At St. Jean Baptiste, Rev. Fr. Campeau, O. M. I., officiated, with Rev. Fr. Arnaud, O. M. I., as deacon, and Rev. Brother Strauss, O. M. I., as sub-deacon.

Rev. Fr. Diss, O. M. I., delivered the papal eulogy, and took as his text the words of Christ as recorded in Matthew, "Thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church."

The choir, under the direction of Dr. George E. Calsse, with Miss Alexander at the organ, gave Perreault's harmonized mass of the dead. At the elevation Dr. Calsse sang Wiegand's "O Meritum Passionis." At the commencement of the service Miss Alexander gave Beethoven's funeral march, and at its conclusion the "Dead March in Saul."

Salaries

THE baseball season has reached the apex of its annual flight, and the season will now gradually wane as the fall approaches. The battle for first place in the American league proves the most interesting by reason of its closeness compared with that of the National. In the latter organization the Pittsburgs have a commanding position, which they should have no great difficulty in holding or, in fact, improving, and at present it seems likely that the tribe of Dreyfuss will make it three straight. Should the Pirates capture the pennant again this year President Dreyfuss will take the team abroad, playing in Australia and probably giving exhibitions in other countries.

Boston, Philadelphia, Cleveland and New York seem to be the likeliest pennant possibilities in the American league. The Bean Eaters and Connie Mack's Athletics have been putting up a fast article of ball and ought to finish one, two, in the order named on form computation.

St. Louis Teams in the Doldrums.

Both the St. Louis teams have been having rather a difficult row to hoe. Neither the Nationals nor the Americans appear to be able to play a game acceptable to the "fans," and not since the interclub series at the beginning of the season have the teams drawn the kind of crowds that mean a balance of cash on hand at the year's close.

Of course Patsey Donovan's Cardinals have been severely handicapped by the loss of Burkett, Heidrick and Padden. The acquisition of these stars, however, does not seem to have helped the Browns to any great extent. The latter team has been the means of helping many American nines up the ladder by its weak performances, and the same may be said of Donovan's troupe in the National. So what consolation is there in the situation for the backers of either of the St. Louis nines?

Good Individual Players.

Still, in spite of the low rating of the two teams, there are several individual players on both nines that are putting up a creditable article of ball. Take Jesse Burkett, the "scrappy" left fielder of Jimmy McAleer's Americans as an instance. Burkett made a reputation as a batsman with the St. Louis Nationals and since he has bunked with the American aggregation has shown that he has not forgotten how to wield the stick. He is one of the timeliest and most consistent hitters in the business.

Then there are Frank Donahue and Mike Kahoe, the former a pitcher and the latter the famous catcher, who are instilling all kinds of ginger into their work. Donahue is considered by many to be the bright particular star in the St. Louis Americans' twirling department, and he certainly has a splendid record.

Kahoe is one of the old timers in baseball. He can catch with his eyes shut and can throw to second with his arms in a sling. Mike cannot help playing ball well. In fact, he is said to have begun to play ball while in his cradle.

Listen to Joe Kelley!

Joe Kelley, the irascible captain and manager of the Cincinnatis, has another kick registered with the secretary of the American Objection association, of which "King Kel" is a charter member. "Kel" says the umpires have too much power and that no player is safe while these bloodthirsty villains are permitted to roam at will. The fact that he believes the umpires to have combined to exterminate the genus ball player from the broad dominion of this fair land has caused the ex-captain of the Brooklyns to lose a lot of sleep lately, and it has worn on him so that he recently had to call in the reporters and tell those kind hearted souls all about it.

The Dreadful Umpires.

The umpires abuse their privileges, according to "Kel." They order men out of games for almost any old kind of a reason and take especial delight, so he avers, in waving out of the grounds objectors to manifestly wrong decisions. "Kel's" idea is to have the league officials curtail the powers of the umpires to such an extent that they will have to obtain the permission of the score keeper before they can light a cigarette and that they will have to get the written consent of the league president before they can call a man out on strikes. We all can see the wisdom of "Kel's" arguments and advocate that he consult a physician immediately. The symptoms are alarming.

Ed Delehanty's Career.

The recent death of Ed Delehanty, better known as "the Only Del" and "Home Run Delehanty," was tragic in the extreme. It goes to show that the sooner a ball player cuts out all sorts of dissipation from his programme the better off he will be. "Del" had been living a rather fast life for the last year and had lost a large sum of money at the New Orleans races. His losses made him despondent, for when he came to his senses at the close of the New Orleans season he found that he had spent the greater part of $4,000 advance money drawn from the New York National league club. The major leagues decided that he could not play with the New Yorks this year because he had signed an agreement with the Washington club of the American league prior to his contracting with the Giants. He accordingly went to Washington after doing all in his power to obtain the privilege of playing with New York.

"Del" Was In Poor Form.

The Washingtons paid New York the advance money that had been placed at "Del's" disposal, and the latter jumped into his playing togs, appearing with the Senators for several weeks. "Del" could not seem to get his eye on the ball, however, and the "fans" were greatly disappointed by his showing. The Washington management prodded him along a bit, and he said: "Wait until the warm days come. Then you will see me line them out." The warm days came, and still "Del" was playing a poor game. Suddenly he disappeared from the club, and nothing more was heard of him until like a thunderbolt came the news of his death.

A Noted Player.

Delehanty was one of the best known and most valuable ball players in America. He was thirty-seven years old and a native of Cleveland. He was the oldest of five brothers, all professional ball players. In 1899 he led the batting list of the National league, with a percentage of .408. Last year he led the American league, with the redoubtable Napoleon Lajoie ranking second.

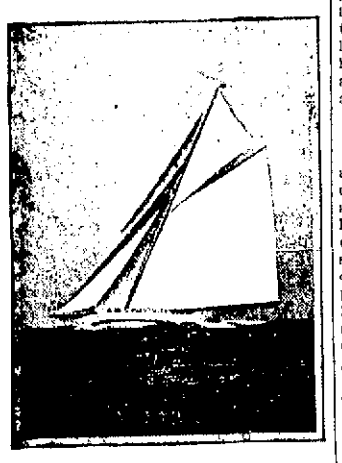

High Salaries Soon to Go.

The high salaried ball players have been coming in for their "bumps" of late, and it is certain that the widespread agitation of the subject will bear fruit at some date not far distant. The present salaries, of course, extend only to the time stated in the contracts, and now that the two major leagues have "got together" it is a foregone conclusion that they will chop down the excessively high prices paid for the services of the leading players.

Prominent men in both the American and National leagues are even now considering plans for a joint agreement on a salary limit, after the fashion in vogue in some of the minor leagues. Then will the golden days of the ball tosser be at an end, for a period, at least, and once more will they have to subsist on the plain fare of the athletes of days gone by. It will be a sad awakening, but such is the fortune of war and baseball.

A well known club owner told the writer not long ago that it was his belief that beginning with 1904 the salary limit of both the big leagues will be placed not higher than $2,500, truly a striking contrast to the days of the present, when men like Willie Keeler, Lajoie, Fred Clarke, Pitcher Christy Mathewson and others receive sums well over the $5,000 mark for their services for a single summer.

SHAMROCK III. SAILING CLOSE HAULED OFF SANDY HOOK.

BERTHA GALLAND AND HER NEW PLAY.

The new play in which Bertha Galland is to star next season is "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall." It is a dramatization by Paul Kester of the latest novel by Charles Major, author of "When Knighthood Was In Flower." Miss Galland will open in the play Sept. 28 in the Chestnut Street Opera House, Philadelphia.

J. Fred Zimmerman, Miss Galland's manager, has engaged William Lewers, a former member of Julia Marlowe's "The Cavalier" company, for leading man. He will enact the role of Sir John Manners. Mr. Lewers was to have appeared with Mrs. Langtry next season, but at the request of Mr. Major and Mr. Kester she agreed to release him. Frank Losee will be Sir George Vernon, Dorothy's father, a strong character part.

Lipton's Aggressive Modesty

The Turf

Pugilism

IT is with the utmost confidence that the American yachting sharps await the sailing of the America's cup races. The challenger has come, has been seen in trials during all sorts and conditions of wind and wave, and that she will conquer there seems to be not even the slightest chance. So paste this statement in your respective hats, all ye croaking pessimists and doubters. The time will come and is not far distant when you will be strikingly reminded of its truth.

While the trials on this side of the Atlantic have shown the decided superiority of Shamrock III. over Shamrock I., it is the fervent hope of all Yankeedom that the day is far off when a craft of the mediocre ability of Shamrock I. will be considered a worthy "trial horse" for a prospective American's cup defender. Our actual knowledge of the performances of Shamrock I. in many kinds of weather is such that no matter how much we may admire the sportsmanship of Sir Thomas we cannot consider any comparisons in which she figures as having any important significance. If John Jones' bay horse Billy the Bug can defeat Sam Smith's plow horse sixteen minutes in a mile, would you feel warranted, "gentle reader," as the novelists say, in putting your real gold on the aforementioned Billy the Bug to win a Suburban, an American Derby or a Brooklyn handicap? Assuredly not, and therefore don't permit your Anglomaniac friends to jolly you into wagering the price of a bonnet for your blue eyed sweetheart on the inflated chances of a British built cup challenger that has succeeded in worsting the plow horse of international yachting.

Lipton a Great Jollier.

But the omnipresent Sir Tom is hulling the Shamrock market in great style. He is the jollier-in-ordinary of the yachting world. He says Shamrock I. is so much faster now compared to her form of four years ago that he had small through any oversight or unkindness of nature, but simply because he is young, being only eleven years old. His height is 3 feet 10 inches.

With all this he is a sturdy chap and can hold his own with any boy of his age.

His weight is fifty-six pounds, so that if he were invited to ride a good horse in a handicap the lead in the saddle would outweigh the jockey himself.

James was born in St. Louis of Irish parents, and as he lived in the neighborhood of the fair grounds he was always around the stables and occasionally managed to be allowed to exercise some of the thoroughbreds that are constantly there.

Although he has only ridden in two or three races, he is very sensitive about his professional ability, and he recently had an encounter with a boy who laughed at his pretensions to jockeyship.

His antagonist was some fifteen pounds heavier than he, but James had no trouble in defeating him.

Hennessy is at present under the care and protection of Willie Harris, who is a horse trainer of recognized ability. Harris has a five year contract on his boy's services and intends to teach him all he knows about the riding game.

Jimmy has two great friends in the animal world that he values highly. One is the race horse Hansborough, who will come at the boy's call and deliberately kiss him.

Another is a beautiful water spaniel. This dog is wonderfully intelligent, and he is Hennessy's constant companion. The boy was recently engaged to ride the horse Chilled Buck.

Such evidence of a retiring, diffident disposition is rarely brought to light outside the circles of American political life. All the more credit is due Sir Tom. We do not believe that his motto is "Every man his own press agent," and we stamp his reported statement that "Conversation victories are the spice of a yachtsman's life" as a base libel on the well circulated name of one who early realized that the inner circles of English royalty can be butted into by the man with the dough.

A New Golf Organization.

The new Women's Western Golf association should prove a decided benefit to the supporters of the game in the wide territory covered by the organization. Representatives of fourteen clubs met at Chicago recently and formed the association, its stated object being "to promote team play and to give an annual championship tournament."

The clubs interested included all those within a radius of 500 miles of Chicago that were members of the Western and United States Golf associations, and the outlook is that entire success will crown the movement to give women players wide recognition as golf factors of national importance.

The officers elected are thoroughly representative, and the personnel of the executive staff, which is made up of women of playing reputation, is such as will command the confidence of the supporters of the game.

The officers are as follows: President, Miss Alexander, Exmore; vice president, Mrs. Dewolf, Onwentsia; secretary, Mrs. Brower, Edgewater; treasurer, Mrs. Bartlett, Lake Geneva; directors, Miss Carpenter, Indianapolis Country club; Miss Anthony, Glenview; Miss Cotton, Chicago Golf club; Miss Taft, Midlothian; Miss Douglas, Cedar Rapids, Ia.

Racing at Brighton Beach, N. Y.

The midsummer meeting of the Brighton Beach (New York) Racing association has just closed after seventeen days of exceptional prosperity. The attendance broke all records for the course, and the races were of a distinctly high class.

The principal event of the meeting was the Brighton handicap, worth almost $20,000, which was captured by the sensational record breaker Waterboy, bred and owned by John B. Haggin. Other valuable races at Brighton were the Brighton Derby, $10,000; the Produce stakes, $15,000; Brighton Junior, $10,000, and the Brighton cup, $10,000.

The next races at Brighton will be the trotting events of the grand circuit scheduled for Aug. 17-22. The Brighton Beach track will close its season of activity in the fall with its annual autumn meeting for the thoroughbreds.

The Brighton track is attractively situated just outside of Brooklyn and within a few hundred feet of the Atlantic ocean. The course is considered one of the fastest in the world.

Jeffries and His Troubles.

The members of the happy pugilistic family of Jim Jeffries, now dallying with the salty zephyrs of the Pacific coast, are anything but harmonious these days, and Tommy Ryan, if you please, has caused most of the trouble, with Bob Fitzsimmons running a close second as a disturber.

Tommy tied himself up to the Jeffries camp together with Fitz to assist in preparing the bigger Jim for the coming championship bout to be held in Frisco. He of the clan of Ryan shortly became dissatisfied with the modus operandi of the training quarters and "vamoosed the ranch." That was bad enough. But, to make matters worse, from Jeff's viewpoint, Tommy bought a ticket for Corbettville and offered his services to the ex-champion. He of the pompadour that was accepted Tommy's proposition to become sparring partner. Straightway the news was carried to Jeff, and his conversation is said to have been positively emphatic on the receipt of the "info."

But, stay! The end is not yet. Shortly after the victim of Kid McCoy's jabs and jolts escaped from the house of Jeff close unto the Gate called Golden the once mighty Fitz found occasion to hand the retort discourteous to one Billy Delaney—a sojourner of repute, who engineers Jeff's championship deals. And be it truthfully said, much smoke arose and the belligerents waxed exceeding wroth. Whereupon Fitz said, "I don't want to play in your yard." The one so addressed thereupon threw out his chest and in making reply spake thusly, "Take your clothes and go." And when the eventide drew near these obstreperous individuals were seated far apart, each wearing chips on their respective shoulders. And still doth their coolness remain warm in spite of the fact that he of the full grown freckles remaineth close unto the dwelling of his two times conqueror.

A MIDGET JOCKEY.

St. Louis has been noted in the last few years for many distinctive characteristics. Her latest claim to originality is that she has now within her boundary one of the smallest jockeys in the world.

He is the smallest boy that has ever taken part in an actual race in any race course in the United States.

And this means that he is probably the smallest in the world. He is not

Eastern yachtsmen are taking considerable interest in the season's race for the Seawanhaka International cup, which has been held by the Royal Canadian Yacht club ever since 1896. The race will be sailed on the home waters of the latter club, Lake St. Louis.

At the annual meeting of the Seawanhaka-Corinthian Yacht club the report of the race committee informed the members that the Manchester Yacht club of Manchester, Mass., was the challenging club this year. Nothing definite was stated regarding the plans of that club for a suitable racing boat, but the fact has recently been announced that the Manchester club syndicate has already ordered two boats from Burgess and Backard, and one is already under construction. The syndicate of the club builders is headed by A. Henry Higginson and Reginald Boardman.

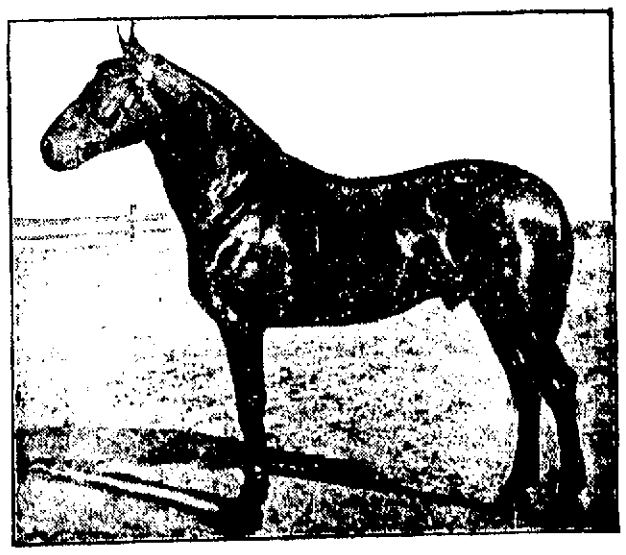

A third boat has also been designed by E. A. Boardman, a member of the Manchester club.

The championship matches of the United States Revolver association, which turned out to be such exciting and interesting contests last year, will be held again this year at Sea Girt, N. Simultaneously matches will take place at Boston, St. Louis, Chicago and San Francisco.

AN EXCITING FINISH

Fall River Won by One Run Saturday

McKenna and Morgan Each Hit for Seven Hits But the Home Team Bunched Them—Merritt Back in the Game

Lowell lost to Fall River Saturday in a pretty game and an exciting finish, the home team pulling off the victory in the eighth inning.

McKenna and Morgan were on the slabs and they were each hit for seven up but Fall River bunched their seven and hence the victory. Merritt, Lake, and Hickey were in the game again, all full of ginger, and the 4000 people present saw one of the best games of the season. Timely batting by Warren and Weddige did the business for the home team.

The Lowell team remained over in Fall River Saturday night and will play there again today.

GREAT PITCHING

McCarthy Struck Out 17 Men in Eight Innings

That the T. R. and T.'s of North Billerica are in a class by themselves has been proven repeatedly this season by their administering crushing defeats to teams bearing gilt edged reputations. Saturday afternoon they met and defeated the much touted Hewes & Potter team of Boston by the score of 19 to 0, in a game characterized by excellent pitching by McCarthy and heavy batting by the home team. Tim McCarthy, who pitched for the victorious team, made another record, striking out 12 of the first 15 men at the bat and 17 men in eight innings and allowing but one hit in all. Tom Murphy took his place in the ninth and struck out two men and retired the third man on an easy grounder.

The home team had their batting clothes on as usual and fattened their batting averages. They found the opposing team's pitchers for 18 with a total of 22. Murphy, Cowdrey, A. Hennessey and P. Hennessey had three hits each. The only hit made by the opposing team should have resulted in a put out, if the fielders only half tried for it.

INDEPENDENTS WON.

The Lowell Independents played a team of Bloomer Girls at the Fair Grounds Saturday and entertained nearly 800 spectators. The Bloomer Girls consisted of six women and three men and for women they put up quite a lively game of ball. The star player for the girls was Miss Neilson, the pitcher.

Miss Neilson batted better than any other player on either team. She was at bat five times and made four singles.

Although Miss Neilson had five strike outs to her credit, she was batted freely at times, Maguire being especially strong in this respect.

It was amusing to watch the expression of disgust on the faces of some of the Independents when they were struck out by the young lady. Albie Allard struck out once, as did Maguire, Tetreault, Fratus and Crawford. The lineup:

Independents—Maguire ss, McVey 2b, Thorne 1b, Tetreault c, Fratus p, Niland rf, Crawford cf, Allard 3b, Dunlavey lf.

DIAMOND NOTES.

Bushey will pitch today.

Red Gilligan umpired at Fall River, Saturday and did well.

Manchester had 10 errors in Saturday's game and still won. Talk about luck!

Mike Mahoney has been engaged to umpire at the Grocers' picnic next Thursday.

Billie Hamilton has not yet joined the Nashua team. It's a good bet that he won't either.

It looks natural to see Harry O'Neill back again at second base, but the fans believe that Chapman is the better man of the two.—Haverhill Gazette.

Lowell has won seven games from Haverhill and lost three this year. Slightly different from the results of the past two years, when Lowell was one of the easiest teams for the Shoemakers.

Howard Perry is rapidly developing into one of the finest catchers in the league. His batting and general all-round work is of the best.

Morgan of the Fall Rivers has pitched in nine games that were won by one run, and he has landed but two of these games. He is one of the best in the league at that.

Lowell, Manchester and Concord are giving the league a pretty race. Any day finds these teams shifting about. There is not a league in the country which is so close. And a couple of victories for Nashua would put that team back into the running.—Haverhill Gazette.

Richardson continues to play the game for the locals. Besides fielding in great shape he is batting timely, having missed only two games in the past 14 in getting in a safe drive. His faculty for batting easy grounders seems to have passed him for good.—Haverhill Gazette.

John Carney went to Newport, N. H., with his team the other day and met defeat, and now John is so sore that he wants to bet $500 that the same team can trim the same team that Newport put up on any date that the Newports will make.

Once more we call Manager Lake's attention to young McCarthy of the T. R. and T.'s as a most promising pitcher. In Saturday's game he struck out 17 men in eight innings and 12 in the first five innings. The week before he struck out 13 men. In Saturday's game he allowed but one hit. Try him out, Freddie.

Concord got a chance to dodge another game yesterday on the "wet grounds" excuse. There was little rain in the forenoon and by feeling around the diamond Carney found a spot wet enough to convince Fred Lake that a postponement would be in order. The less games they play the slower the will go down the ladder.—Manchester Mirror.

The Manchester and Concord scribes are having a little war all to themselves this year. We can hardly see how that Concord bunch can go very far down the ladder under present conditions. We are beginning to think that Bro. Cooper was right when he "guessed" early in the season that Concord would finish second and Manchester first.

Tom McDermott wants to exchange Luke Dorsey for Roy Sheets. Both are good men, but we are of the opinion that Sheets is the better man, although Dorsey was not played enough to show his worth.—Haverhill Gazette.

The Concord Monitor can't see where Stroh will fit in the New Bedford team. The Monitor evidently did not know that Stroh was a great infielder, having played that position before he went behind the bat. Stroh fits right in at shortstop for the Doe aggregation, as Allen has been reduced to the bench. And Stroh is putting up a good game, too.

Jack Carney told Captain Weddige Thursday that if Fall River would take two out of three games from Manchester he would buy Al a new hat. Let's see if he was only joshing.—Fall River Globe.

Jack Titus' friends came from Concord yesterday, but the weather was a grievous disappointment. Jack has fallen off in his hitting now so that he is down to 254, and he has been taken off the team. Manager Zimmer said yesterday he did not consider the player ripe for fast company, although he promised well. He said Titus did not play with the confidence of an experienced player and seemed afraid to let himself out.—Boston Herald.

Pitcher George Lee of the Concords does not object to his nickname of "Natty," but when the papers around the circuit take to printing it "Nutty," he has a strenuous kick coming.—Concord Monitor.

We have seen the little man when the name would fit him to perfection—after some of the decisions made famous by certain umpires in the N. E. shakedown. —Haverhill Gazette.

The Lawrence American is already beginning to figure out that Lawrence ought to win the pennant next year. The American contends that if Manager Flanagan keeps the same team, with two good outfielders to help O'Hara out, there will be something doing next season. Rather early to make guesses. Better figure out the result of this year's contest first.

JUVENILE DIAMOND.

The West Chelmsford base ball team went to Pepperell Saturday afternoon and crossed bats with the Pepperell team. The score in the seventh inning was a tie, 5 to 5, when a kick arose over a decision of the umpire and as the West Chelmsford team refused to play to the umpire's decision the umpire gave the game to Pepperell 9 to 0.

The Rescons defeated a picked team on the Mountain Rock grounds Saturday afternoon by a score of 1 to 0. A crowd of about a hundred saw the game.

The Riverside base ball club went to Maynard Saturday and defeated for the second time the strong team of that place by a score of 19 to 10. The features of the game were the brilliant playing of Hunt at second base and the good batting of the Riversides. The latter would like to arrange a game for Saturday, August 1.

The Crescents defeated the Unions of North Chelmsford by a score of 7 to 4. The features of the game were the pitching of Hickey of the Crescents, who had 15 strikeouts, also the finely batting of the Crescents. The batteries were Tighe and Gauthier for the Unions, Hickey and Brigham for the Crescents.

The Crescent base ball team is open to meet any semi-professional team in the state. Send challenges to J. H. Owens, manager, 7 Walker place.

The Centralville Blues defeated the West Ends of North Chelmsford by a score of 23 to 11. The features of the game were the batting of J. Trudo and the pitching of Ganley of the Blues.

Hudsons, Hudsons, rah! rah! rah! The Hudsons defeated the Hustlers last Friday, 14 to 4.

THREE VICTIMS

Train Crashed Into an Electric Car

By Associated Press to The Sun

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., July 27.—An accommodation train on the Vandalia road en route to St. Louis ran into a well-filled electric car on the East St. Louis & Suburban street railway near Lansdowne, three miles north of here, yesterday, killing three persons and injuring a score. The dead:

JOHN RAY, Vandalia, engineer.

J. J. LENHARTH.

DAVID H. BEATTIE.

The seriously injured:

Vincent Higgins, fireman, will die.

Charles Burkhardt, motorman.

W. E. Miller, electric car conductor.

The injuries of the others were not severe.

The accommodation train was drawn by an engine which was backing and was running at a good speed when suddenly the tender crashed into the trolley car at the street crossing.

CHEAPER COAL

MOVEMENT STARTED BY HAVERHILL BOARD OF TRADE.

Says the Haverhill Gazette:

The board of trade will interest itself in the coal question and every board in the Merrimack valley and also the state board of trade will be asked to assist them in their attempt to secure coal at cheaper rates than at present. Judge Abbott brought the matter to the attention of the directors of the board last evening and at his suggestion it was voted to take some action in regard to interesting the other boards in this vicinity and in the entire state in the matter. Judge Abbott was of the opinion that something might be done to remove the duty from provincial coal, although he admitted that his plan would meet with the opposition from the mine owners in the United States. The board did not transact much important business except this. A committee of five was appointed to confer with Fred M. Hodgson relative to returning to this city from Derry, N. H.

Judge Abbott thought that the boards of trades of New England should take some action on the coal question. He believed that the result of the coal strike and the arbitration committee's report had succeeded in raising the price of coal 25 per cent. He contended that this increase was gradually hampering manufacturers and thus gradually was depopulating the entire state. He stated that he thought there was no better plan to start a reform than in the boards of trade. The judge believed that the coal question was a most serious one. He thought that if the duty of provincial coal was taken off, conditions would be much better, although he added that this would meet with opposition from the coal producing regions. Judge Abbott then moved that the secretary be instructed to communicate with the state and Merrimack valley boards relative to some measures of bettering present conditions, and the motion prevailed.

WITH THE POLICE

Two Bad Boys Under Lock and Key

Napoleon Heroux, 15, was arrested by Officers Giroux and Mulloney Saturday evening and although he at first tried to make the officers believe he was a real good boy he finally broke down and admitted that he was the lad who broke into the grain store of Paul Vigeant & Co., in Moody street. He told how he concealed himself behind the sacks of grain when the store was being closed for the night and when the coast was clear how he "touched" the cash drawer for its contents, amounting to $4. And then, to get away, he dug a hole underneath the fence in the rear and made good his escape.

Inspector Walsh, Saturday evening, arrested Napoleon Paul, a boy who escaped from the Lyman school about three weeks ago.

Made by the Liquor Squad Saturday

Two small seizures were made by the liquor officers Saturday afternoon. They visited the premises occupied by Stephen H. Murphy at 23 Dutton street and found a pint and two half pints of whiskey there.

They next visited a former saloon at the corner of Maiden Lane and Market streets and found a small quantity of beer and some empty bottles.

BREWERY HELP

Held Merry Outing at Mountain Rock

That the relations of capital and labor are most harmonious at the Harvard Brewing Co.'s plant was emphasized on Saturday when the great plant shut down in order to give its employes a day's pleasure in the woods and all repaired to Mountain Rock grove where the festivities were held.

Even the man who gives us the weather was "with" the brewers, for Saturday was an ideal day for an outing in the woods.

Everyone took a hand in making the affair a grand success from the management down the line. When the employes notified Mr. Carl Grundler, the genial brewmaster, that they desired to have an outing on a working day he acted as a committee of one to interview the management and through his kind offices not only were the help allowed the day without loss of pay but were allowed wet refreshments without limit.

Thus it was a happy gathering that started away Saturday noon in two gaily decorated special cars with the National band, Dick Griffiths, leader at the head. The band met the party at the brewery and all marched down Plain street to Chelmsford where they took the specials. Aside from these many of the Germans took their families in carriages, Brewmaster Grundler's two seated carriage flying two large American flags.

Upon arrival at the picnic grounds the party repaired to the pavilion where a local caterer had provided a bountiful repast. During the dinner, the band rendered an acceptable program. After dinner the party roamed about the woods while the hall was being cleared for dancing and an impromptu program of sports was run off. The dancing was greatly enjoyed for the music was good and the dancers merry. There were nearly twice as many men as women present but the ladies didn't tire easily and the men found partners for every number. During an intermission big Dan Finnegan challenged any man in the grove to dance an Irish jig and little Johnnie McGuane took him up. They were given the entire floor and right royally they had at it. Little Johnnie was no match for big Dan but he worked an Irish trick on him. When he got tired out he watched his chance and while Dan was wheeling around with his back to his opponent, little Johnnie slid out and little Bob McMenamon slid in and when Dan got all the way around he found a new opponent dancing feminst him. Being a Kerry man he never quit and the boys were hoping to appear on the floor when the judges called it off and awarded the prize to Dan.

During another intermission the party, headed by the band, marched to an eminence near the pavilion where James Daigle, chairman of the committee on grounds and transportation made a brief speech and acted as presiding officer of an informal meeting. The other speakers were Carl Grundler, brewmaster, Hans Schelender, one of the assistant brewers, Emile Lether of Boston, secretary of the Brewery Workers' union and Patrick Kelly and Elias A. McOmade of the board of directors. Mr. Grundler received great applause as he was introduced. He referred to the fact that though the president and the manager of the brewery were unable to be present they were heartily with the employes in spirit and endorsed them in their desire for an annual outing. Personally, he hoped that there would be no distinction of employes, such as bottle outside and bottling house men, but all act as one great family of co-workers. After the speechmaking there was singing and the woods rang with "Hi Le, Hi Lo" and "Down by the Tanyard Side." John T. Kingsila by special request sang "My Dad's Dinner Pail," and Joe King rendered a few selections.

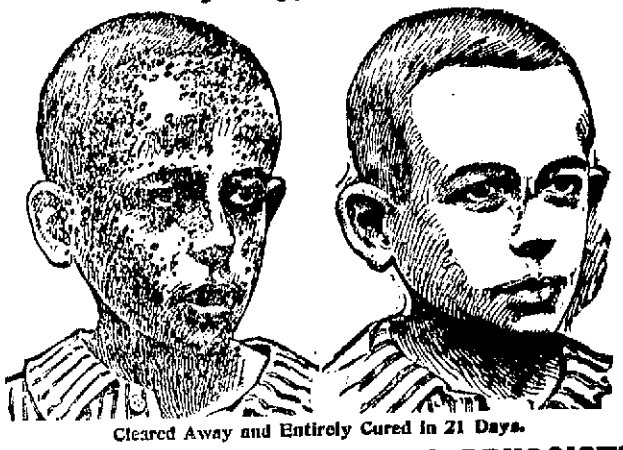

At 8 o'clock in the evening the party returned to Lowell in special cars and they sang all the way home. The affair was a great success in every respect and much credit was due to Messrs. Leo Lebrer, chairman of the committee on arrangements; Hans Schelender, representing the brewers; James T. Doyle and Joseph King, representing the drivers and James Casey and James Sullivan, representing the bottling house. Michael Hiller, the popular engineer of the Brewery was absent, owing to illness and his genial presence was missed.

SUFFERED TWENTY YEARS WITH ECZEMA—

Then Zema-Cura Completely Cured G. F. Brown of "This Miserable, Harrowing, Racking Plague."

G. F. Brown is a well-known employe of the Navy Yard at Washington, D. C. Mr. Brown suffered horribly with Eczema for twenty years and was cured by Zema-Cura. Every Eczema sufferer in the world should read this letter from Mr. Brown—it tells the whole story in his own language:

"Inasmuch as I have found relief through the use of Zema-Cura, I deem it not only a duty, but a great pleasure to say to all who may be sufferers from the "Eczema" plague that I can and do, with all honesty and candor, recommend it as a most wonderfully soothing and peace-giving remedy for Eczema. I speak from experience, having been a sufferer for twenty years with this miserable, harrowing, racking plague, Eczema. Physicians, and physicians' remedies have not only failed to give me relief and comfort, but did not check in any degree the progress of the disease.

"I have been going from bad to worse for twenty years, until, through an acquaintance, I was persuaded to use Zema-Cura. After using one bottle the result was marvelous in reducing swelling, and echecking the weeping, besides giving me immediate relief. At this time I was confined to my bed, and my condition was horrible and pitiful. Physicians pronounced my case the worst that they had ever seen. Upon assurance that there was nothing contained in Zema-Cura that could possibly result in any injury, no matter how much I might use it, I commenced bathing my legs in Zema-Cura and kept them saturated day and night. In less than two weeks I was out of bed, and able to wear my clothes and resume my work. I am now entirely well and have no racking or unpleasant sensations which accompany Eczema. The skin on my legs has assumed its normal condition and natural color. Can anything be more conclusive than that? Sufferers from Eczema should use Zema-Cura and use plenty of it. Don't be afraid; it won't hurt you. The more you use, the better the results you get and the sooner you get them. This is my experience. I am very glad to say that in less than four months I have been cured of Eczema which I have had for twenty years."—G. F. BROWN, 656 North Carolina Avenue, Washington, D. C.

16,000 CASES IN —— THE CITY.

There is no one so young or none so old that are not liable to have an attack of cholera in the good old summer time. There is no sickness so severe while it lasts, and people have been known to die with it, especially children. If they only had a bottle of Dows' Cholera Cordial in the house all the suffering and danger might be avoided and misery turned to happiness. 25 cents is all that it costs to guard against this terrible sickness. Remember the name of the remedy, Dows' Cholera Cordial. No cure, no pay.

A GLORIOUS MEDICINE

George A. Saunders Says Dr. Bartlett's Vital Force Deserves the Warmest Confidence of the People Everywhere.

Mr. George A. Saunders, the widely known clerk in Patten's flower store, 8 and 10 Merrimack square, Lowell, Mass., is an enthusiastic proclaimer of the merits of Dr. Bartlett's Vital Force. He says:

"I am positive that Dr. Bartlett's Vital Force is a sure remedy for the cure of muscular rheumatism. For 20 years I had muscular rheumatism and a friend of mine who had been cured permanently of a chronic rheumatic trouble with Dr. Bartlett's Vital Force after trying all other advertised remedies, recommended me to try it. On the strength of his testimony and what I knew the medicine had done for like sufferers, I obtained a bottle and never felt so well in the past 20 years as I have since I began to take this glorious medicine. It deserves the warmest confidence of the people everywhere and I recommend it to rheumatic sufferers with the same confidence that I would give roast beef to a person suffering from hunger."

GEORGE A. SAUNDERS,
58 Methuen street, Lowell, Mass.
July 24th, 1903.

This marvelous medicine is prepared by Dr. Bartlett, the nerve, blood and lung specialist, and for 30 years it has performed cure after cure where other remedies proved worthless. If you are on the list of chronic sufferers, whether it be rheumatism, kidney, liver, stomach or nerves, consult Dr. Bartlett. His crowded office, 106 Merrimack street, Lowell, Mass., is evidence enough of his ability and skill.

TRIBUTE TO LEO XIII

Rev. T. Clayton Welles Met Late Pontiff

And Told Interesting Story of His Visit to the Vatican at the Highland Congregational Church—Other Sunday Services

Rev. T. Clayton Welles of the Highland Congregational church, entertained his congregation last evening with the story of his audience with Pope Leo XIII and his impressions of the personality of the pontiff.

The invitation to visit the papal palace, he said, came through the president of the American college, after solicitation. "Every lady present was clad in a simple gown of black, with a veil of lace only thrown over her head. Every man was attired in full evening dress, for which he had probably paid an exorbitant fee to a Roman tailor, but which he did not dare to neglect, as it was suggested to him in the invitation. Precisely at the moment indicated on the invitation, three officials in waiting appeared, followed by the personal body guard of the pope, and then the only infallible man on the face of the whole earth, venerable, white haired, genial, stood before us. At the sight of him the whole company kneeled and engaged in silent prayer. His face was full of benignity and peace; his voice was musical and full of kindness, and his movements were strong and brisk, surprisingly so for a man of his years. It seemed to give him genuine pleasure to meet the numerous friends. His face lighted up with a charming smile, and he gave his blessing without question and without stint. He seemed to be especially gratified to meet the friends from across the ocean, and we heard him repeat the word "Americano" again and again, as he passed from one to another, as if it were a source of great delight. So I was prepared for a genial reception; but when he put his hand upon my head, brushed back the hair and looked with almost paternal interest into my eyes, as he pronounced the blessing, it was impossible to find words to express my feelings—especially in Italian.

"And now this kind-hearted shepherd of so numerous a flock has passed away, and the world has been for a week making up its estimate of his personal and official career. The general verdict seems to be unanimous, that as a man, Pope Leo XIII. was entirely above reproach. He was amiable through and through; he cherished a genuine love for his fellow men, and he earnestly sought, I believe, their welfare. He honestly thought, no doubt, that their welfare would be secured by their union with the church of which he was the head but even if he could not persuade them all to accept his views, he still exercised a spirit of compassion toward all, and wished them well. We may truly say that he was lover of humankind and in this respect was far more fitted to be, what he always claimed to be, the proper head of universal Christendom, than many of his predecessors. He would never have ordered an inquisition, or approved a St. Bartholomew's massacre. There have been men in the papal chair whose whole appearance was indicative of a supreme regard for self and for earthly things. Pop Leo's whole appearance was of a man who enjoyed frequent communion with God in humble loyalty and faith. As a man who loved God and his fellowmen, he has commended himself to his Protestant brethren throughout the world. We respect him for his devout character and his Christian life, and we have no objection to the term 'father in Israel,' which we often apply to those who have served many years for their fellow men. We believe his genial spirit has done much to help forward the conditions and the times when all who confess the true headship of Jesus Christ shall dwell together in harmony.

"In his official capacity he has been a wise and farseeing pontiff. The very doctrine of infallibility, obnoxious as it is even to the most intelligent Catholics, has not seemed so very absurd in the hands of one who has made so very few mistakes.

"Though we may truly say that he has been a progressive, broad-minded pontiff, yet he has not compromised himself or his church in the least, in those great principles of the Disciple faith of Rome. The doctrines peculiar to the Roman Catholic church, which the Protestants repudiated centuries ago, have been strongly upheld by this host of popes. The two branches of the churches of Christ are no nearer together than in the days of Cromwell; but between those two branches there has arisen a broader and more Christian toleration. Let us hope and pray that the spirit of tolerance and fraternity may be still further extended and exercised between all branches of the Christian church, by whomsoever may be elected his successor."

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL.

At the First Congregational church, yesterday morning, Rev. Mr. Gillam preached on the subject: "Christ's mission on earth." The church is to be closed the first two Sundays in August to allow many needed repairs.

WESTMINSTER PRESBYTERIAN.

Rev. Mr. Foster, at the Westminster church, yesterday, preached to a large congregation on the text: "Come ye yourselves apart—and rest awhile."

IMMANUAL BAPTIST.

At the Immanuel Baptist church yesterday Rev. Robert F. True preached a practical and effective sermon at the morning service from the words of Paul to the Philliplans, "This one thing I do," as expressive of the apostle's single and positive aim and purpose in life; from which he deduced many helpful lessons for twentieth century Christian living. The evening was devoted wholly to an "Old Home" service. The pastor's topic was "The Power of Early Home Memories," which he treated in a most impressive manner, illustrating the same by vivid illustrations taken from actual old home scenes so familiar and dear to all. The interests of the service were greatly enhanced by the beautiful singing of old home songs by the chorus choir and soloists. The solos rendered were as follows: "Home, Sweet Home," by Mr. William J. Beaven; "Love at Home," Miss Isabelle Gillespie and "I'm going Home," by Rev. R. F. True. The choruses of songs were most inspiringly sung by the choir and congregation. The service was altogether one of the most effective ever held by this church and must have produced a lasting impression for good.

SUDDEN DEATH

Of a Little Girl From the Heat

Eva Lafontaine, aged 12 years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lafontaine, died suddenly at the home of her parents Saturday night.

The Lanfontaine family has been in this city but three weeks, having come here from Canada, and just before the family moved little Eva was suffering with the measles. After arriving here she seemed to have fully recovered, and seemed to be in the best of health.

Saturday afternoon she was playing outdoors until five o'clock. About 7.30 o'clock the little one complained of a severe headache and lying down on a couch passed away.

The body of the little girl was taken last evening to Plessisville, Can., for burial. Dr. Bellehumeur, who was called in to attend the little girl, stated that the cause of death was cerebral meningitis.

Ten Others Afflicted With Beriberi

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW BEDFORD, July 27.—News has been received here by cable that the whaling brig Leonora, Capt. William H. Ellis, had put into St. Helena with seven of her crew dead with beriberi and 10 others so badly affected with the disease that they had to be landed there and sent to the hospital.

The news has caused consternation for no names if the dead have been received, although particulars have been asked for by cable with the brig's agent, Capt. T. C. Allen.

The Leonora sailed from this port Dec. 17, 1902, and was fitted for a cruise to Patagonia after right whales. Capt. Ellis is an Arctic whaleman of some fame and this particular kind of whaling is what he is used to. The cruise of the brig was planned on the news of the poor Arctic catch last season and the consequent high price of whalebone.

Once before Capt. Ellis had taken the little whaler Ada Tabson down to Patagonia and made a small barrel of money cutting in 10 whales and getting a large quantity of bone, which sold at high prices.

Capt. Ellis sailed on his present voyage with a crew of 30 men and more than half this number is dead or disabled. The Leonora has taken two right whales on the cruise, but probably had to leave on account of the sickness among the crew.

The disease affects the legs of the victims, which swell and bloat and when the swelling reaches the heart it kills them.

It is a disease peculiar to vessels cruising off the South American coast some claiming that the germs are blown from the land.

Several whaleships arriving at this port have had men die with the disease.
